Hitler Calls Austrian Vote 'Biggest Victory'

FUEHRER WINS PLEBISCITE BY HUGE MARGIN

Reich Given 99.08 Per Cent Indorsement; 'Yes' Votes In Austria 99.75 Per Cent.

'MY HAPPIEST HOUR'

Dictator Thanks Supporters After 50,000,000 Walk or Are Carried to Polls.

(By International News Service)

BERLIN—With the greater Reich of Austria and Germany indorsed by a vote surpassing even the expectations of Adolf Hitler, rejoicing continued today throughout the land.

It was a personal triumph, too, for Hitler, and showed beyond doubt the tremendous hold he has on the German people. In international relations, it strengthened the hand of Germany in world councils.

50,000,000 Votes.

Nearly 50,000,000 went to the polls in weather that ranged from bright sunshine in Germany to cold winds in Austria, and 99.08 per cent voted "yes" for the anschluss and for the hand-picked list of reichstag members.

The most remarkable factor in the election was the fact that in Austria the "yes" vote was 99.75 per cent.

The voting figures for all Germany are: total, 49,326,791; "yes," 48,799,269; "no," 452,131; spoiled ballots, 75,342. For Austria: total, 4,289,920; "yes," 4,273,884; "no," 10,911; spoiled ballots, 5,125.

"I have expected much from my beloved homeland," said Hitler, "but the result of this plebiscite surpassed everything.

"That the incorporation of Austria in the reich and the highest justification is now demonstrated.

"This is the happiest hour of my life. I cannot help but thank the entire people of my home country from the bottom of my heart."

Hitler Casts Vote.

Hitler himself voted in the railroad station immediately upon returning from campaigning in Austria. Then he went through streets of cheering crowds to his chancellery, where he waited for results before a radio. Hitler was joined by Propaganda Minister Joseph

SOUTH'S FLOOD DANGER PASSES

Thousands Prepare to Return to Homes as Water Recedes.

SELMA, Ala. — (AP) — Danger from rushing flood waters abated slowly in three southern states today while thousands of evacuated citizens prepared to return to their homes in town and country.

Meteorologists and relief workers in Alabama, hardest hit by the record breaking rains of the past week, said little additional damage was anticipated, while from Mississippi and Georgia came reports of improved conditions. Highway and rail traffic was returning to schedule.

Red Cross officials estimated that in Alabama alone 20,000 persons had been driven from their homes.

Asks Speedy Legislation For Railroads

Roosevelt, In Message to Congress, Says Quick Action Necessary.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Warning that a large number of railroads are on the verge of "serious bankruptcies," President Roosevelt today called upon congress to come to their aid.

In a special message, the president transmitted the report of Interstate Commerce Commissioners W. M. W. Splawn, Joseph Eastman and Charles Mahaffie which recommended the following means of immediate relief for the stricken industry:

1. A $300,000,000 federal loan for purchase of railroad equipment, the equipment to stand as security;

2. Empowerment of the reconstruction finance corporation to make loans for the next 12 months without certification by the I. C. C. That the applying roads can meet their fixed charges;

Asks Additional Credit.

3 Consideration of other forms of government credit "from the point of view of public policy;"

4. Elimination of land grant reductions so government traffic in the future will pay full rates;

5. Creation of a single court in charge of reorganizations, this to be done through revision of section 77B of the bankruptcy act.

Mr. Roosevelt reported that the I. C. C. "does not feel justified in expressing an opinion for or against reduction of railroad wages," thus leaving that ticklish problem squarely up to congress.

The president expressed "definite objection" to either government subsidies for the road or government ownership and operation.

As a long-term approach, the Splawn report suggested:

1. Creation of a federal transportation authority for two years to "plan and promate" consolidations, co-ordination and elimination of waste;

2. Broadening of the powers of the I. C. C. with respect to pooling of earnings or traffic, elimination of the "consolidation plan"

HERO MOURNED

Crew Rescued, SOS Sender Dies In Leap to Lifeboat.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Saved by the timely arrival of three tankers, 29 of the 31 crew members who survived an explosion aboard the Greek steamer Mount Kyllene today mourned the death of the hero whose ingenuity accomplished their rescue.

The explosion—its origin still undetermined—split the Kyllene in two 200 miles north of the Azores Saturday morning.

Radio Operator Papa Theodorou quickly rigged up an emergency wireless set aboard the flundering forepart of the vessel and sent out SOS calls that brought the three tankers, the Kaia Knudsen, Inverlee and Athelfoam, to the scene.

The last man to leave his post, Theodorou drowned when he leaped for a lifeboat and missed.

JAPS PAY DAMAGE

TOKYO —(AP)— The Japanese government today paid the Seventh Day Adventist mission in South China $2,365 for damaging a hospital at Waichow in a bombing raid last September.

Anniversaries Today For Famous Americans

Justice Hughes.

Henry Ford.

Mrs. Ford.

Anniversaries came today in two famed American families. At Dearborn, Mich., Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. It was as well the 69th birthday anniversary of the wife of the multi-millionaire automobile manufacturer. In Washington, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United States supreme court celebrated his 76th anniversary. On the bench for eight years, he has never missed a day from work on account of illness, and though he could retire on a pension of $20,500 per year, apparently has no intention of leaving his work.

2 RESTAURANT OWNERS HELD

One Pays $100 Fine for Illegal Possession of Liquor, Other Faces Delinquency Charge.

A North Walnut street restaurant operator charged with the illegal sale of liquor today paid a fine of $100 and costs in municipal court, while a second restaurant proprietor, held in jail under $1,000 bond, will face Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court tomorrow on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors.

Detectives Harry Copper and E. C. Fuller, who raided the Reno club, 95½ North Walnut street, said they arrested Pierre Pechink, the proprietor, when they found five pints of whisky in the establishment.

They charged that Pechink also was selling beer and wine under a permit issued by the state liquor control board to E. C. Spando, whom the defendant said was his partner until three months ago. Police Chief Meade K. Bates said the permit would be mailed to the state board with the recommendation that it be revoked.

In the meantime, Charles Drye, colored, proprietor of Bun's Place, 87 East Sixth street, held in jail, will face Judge Anderson in juvenile court at 9 a. m. tomorrow.

Copper and Fuller arrested Drye Saturday night after they had taken a statement from a 16-year-old boy that he and three other youths had made purchases of beer in the establishment on numerous occasions.

2 HURT IN FIRE AT NEWSPAPER

Explosion In Art Department Causes Damage at Columbus Plant

COLUMBUS —(AP)— An explosion of cellulose material in the Ohio State Journal's art department today caused a fire that swept through the newspaper's editorial offices.

The flames were extinguished quickly and damage was confined to severe scorching of furniture and walls.

Fred Kehrer, an artist, was burned on his right hand and Mrs. Levinia Clark was burned slightly about the face when she remained at her telephone switchboard to call the fire department.

Walter J. Reck, general manager, said the damage would be repaired in time for the editorial staff to issue tomorrow morning's paper.

Schoolmates to Honor Magnate, Wife At Party In Dearborn; Justice Hughes 76 Years Old Today.

(By United Press)

DEARBORN, Mich.—The Henry Fords celebrated their golden wedding anniversary today, commemorating the day when he, a gawky youth of 23, and she, Clara Bryant, a plump girl of 19 who lived on an adjoining farm, took the marriage vows in the presence of their families assembled in the parlor.

Ford planned to be in his office as usual, but an informal party will be held tonight at the home of Edsel Ford, their only son. A few close friends and members of the families were invited.

It was also Mrs. Ford's 69th birthday anniversary.

Dearborn Arranges Party.

Tomorrow, Dearborn will celebrate the Ford's anniversary with a party attended by 100 of their schoolmates. A petition to President Roosevelt, bearing 500,000 names and two miles long, requesting that the government "cease attacks" on Ford and other business men, will be dedicated at tomorrow's ceremonies. The celebration will be restricted to residents of Dearborn.

WASHINGTON—(AP) — Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, became 76 years old today.

Since he was appointed by president Hoover in 1930, he has not missed a day from work on account of illness He appears to be in robust health.

Although he is eligible to retire on full pay of $20,500 a year, there has been no indication that he had given any thought to such action. He said a few months ago that he did not intend to retire.

Only two justices older than Hughes remain on the tribunal. They are Brandeis, 81, and McReynolds, 76.

NO DISORDERS

German Exchange Students In Cleveland Avoid Anti-Nazis.

CLEVELAND — (INS)— Shortly after Adolph Hitler's smashing victory in the German and Austrian election, 52 German exchange students arrived here, avoided a planned anti-Nazi demonstration, and were given a hearty welcome by their hosts for the next few weeks.

The students dismounted from busses before they reached the Greyhound terminal here, where Communist, anti-Nazi and Jewish war veterans' groups awaited them bearing banners and signs reading "protest the German seizure of Austria," and "Fascism and anti-Semitism go hand in hand."

After leaving the busses the students were entertained at a restaurant, where speeches of welcome were made in German, and Joachim Hiller, one of the students, replied in English.

115 GET WORK AS 2 WPA JOBS BEGIN IN CITY

Two Crews Assigned to Sidewalk Improvements, One to Glessner Widening.

PROJECTS TOTAL $34,500

Work on Walks to Continue Throughout Summer; Water Main Job Nearly Done.

Construction work on two city WPA projects employing 115 men got under way today.

The widening of Glessner avenue at the hospital to care for the increased traffic flow on the street was started by a force of 45 WPA laborers. The city's share of the cost of setting back the curb along the hospital frontage and paving of the street is figured at $1,500.

When finished the widened street is expected to facilate the heavy flow of traffic during visiting hours at the hospital when machines are parked on both sides of the street.

70 At Work On Walks.

At the same time two WPA crews of 35 men each began work on the city-wide sidewalk improvement program which will involve the expenditure of approximately $33,000.

A force of 35 men was assigned to Raleigh avenue while another group of 35 men started work on Brickman avenue. The program will extend throughout the summer, WPA officials said, and will later employ additional men.

The program is designed to clear up some of the poor conditions now existing in the city's sidewalks by repairing and replacing numerous strips at the owners' expense, city officials said.

One Project Nearly Done.

A force of 125 WPA employes also are employed on the Wood street water main project which is expected to be completed within the next few weeks.

When the job is finished the entire force will begin work on the $18,000 city-wide curb and gutter replacement program which is expected to be carried on until fall.

RECOGNITION UP

Britain Wants League to Act on Ethiopian Conquest.

GENEVA—(UP)—Great Britain today requested Joseph C. Avenol, secretary of the League of Nations, to put the question of recognition of the Italian conquest of Ethiopia on the agenda at the May 9 council meeting.

Ethiopia's status in the league has been in doubt for more than a year

Benito Mussolini in 1936 proclaimed Ethiopia had been annexed to Italy, and Italian delegates quit Geneva because the league council kept the Ethiopian question on the agenda.

Today's announcement indicated that Britain was determined to obtain a final settlement. Recognition of Ethiopia reportedly was part of present negotiations between Britain and Italy.

FIREMEN RESCUE 3

AKRON—(AP)—Firemen rescued three Cuyahoga Falls youths from the Cuyahoga river yesterday when the home-made canoe in which the boys set out to hunt woodchucks capsized.

Hears Sentence

Richard Whitney one-time president of the New York stock exchange, who admitted thefts of huge sums entrusted to his keeping, stood with head bowed in General Session court in New York today, and heard a judge sentence him to from five to 10 years in Sing Sing on charges of embezzlement and misuse of funds.

COURT DELAYS STABBING CASE

Youth Accused of Knifing Boy Released to His Father; Victim Improves.

A 13-year-old pupil at John Simpson junior high school, accused of stabbing Edward Baker, 14, a playmate, with a pocket knife, was returned to his father today by Judge C. J. Anderson in juvenile court to await developments in the Baker boy's condition.

Appearing in court this morning with his parent, the youth, who has been held in the detention home, denied intentionally stabbing his playmate who is in General hospital with a deep knife wound in his back.

The Baker boy's condition was described as "slightly improved" today but physicians said he is not yet out of danger. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Baker, Wheatrow avenue.

Judge Anderson said he would take no action until he investigates the case further. He continued the case indefinitely. The youth was on probation to his parents after confessing six weeks ago to a part in the burglary of a home at Ontario.

He was arrested Friday afternoon by police at the school following an argument over a piece of wood which led to the injury of the Baker boy, owner of the knife.

COUGHLIN LAUDS HIS LISTENERS

Credits Them With Obtaining Defeat of Reorganization Bill.

DETROIT — (UP) — Father Charles E. Coughlin, in his regular Sunday address, credited his radio followers with securing defeat of the government reorganization bill in congress.

"I extend to you my heartiest congratulations for the patriotic part which each one of you played in the defeat of the reorganization bill," Coughlin said "Your letters, telegrams, Paul Revere groups, and prayers were responsible for definitely turning the tide of dictatorship from the shores of America."

Father Coughlin twice urged his followers to "wire your congressman in protest against the bill."

WALL STREET FIGURE SENT TO SING SING

Five-Time President of N. Y. Stock Exchange Gulps When Judge Reads Sentence.

CROWD JAMS COURTROOM

Guards Hustle Him to Tombs to Await Quick Removal to State Prison.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK — Standing before the bar of justice with his arms folded behind his back and a glum expression on his face, Richard Whitney, five-time president of the New York Stock Exchange and former head of the bankrupt brokerage firm of Richard Whitney and company, today was sentenced to from five to 10 years in prison for embezzlement and misuse of funds.

Judge Owen W. Bohan sentenced Whitney to five to 10 years on each of two indictments, but ruled the sentences were to be served concurrently.

Taken to Tombs.

Whitney gulped and his eyes blinked as the judge pronounced sentence. Less than a minute afterward he was hustled by guards out the back way of the courtroom to a rear exit and taken over the "bridge of sighs" to the tombs.

Preparations were immediately made to take the prisoner to Sing Sing.

Whitney, accompanied by his counsel, Attorney Charles H. Tuttle, entered the courtroom in general sessions 15 minutes before the judge ascended the bench. The ex-broker's face was pale, his step faltering. The courtroom was almost filled with well-dressed men and women.

Family Not Present.

The prisoner's loyal wife and his two daughters were not present. Neither was his brother, George, also a broker and a partner in Morgan and company.

George Whitney wanted to stand shoulder to shoulder with his unfortunate brother but the prisoner would have none of that, Tuttle later revealed to the court.

Whitney was immaculately attired in a blue suit, white shirt and grey and white tie. His hair was carefully combed back. Reporters tried to question him but he shook his head negatively and tried to smile.

District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, New York's famous racket prosecutor, entered and quietly took a seat near counsel table.

Silence fell over the courtroom as Judge Bohan, a bald-headed man with horn-rimmed spectacles, mounted the bench and later pronounced sentence.

SERVICES OPEN

First Holy Week Observance Held at Noon.

Union Holy Week services, staged by Protestant churches, opened today at First English Lutheran church. Daily services will be held from 12:05 to 12:55 p. m., throughout the week, ending with two services on Good Friday.

In former years the capacity of First Lutheran church's auditorium was taxed beyond capacity by the throngs of worshipers on Good Friday, and this year, there will also be services at First Presbyterian church at the same hour.

Rev. E. G. Corwin, pastor of First Methodist Episcopal church, is chairman of the Holy Week services. Assisting him will be a different chairman for each day's services. Rev. H. B. Broughtman of Mitchell Chapel, A. M. E. church, is today's chairman and Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor of South Main Street Evangelical church, was to preach the sermon.

LOOTS THEATER

Gunman, Who Boasts of 8 Killings, Gets $1,000 At Zanesville.

ZANESVILLE—(INS—A bandit who robbed the Liberty theater of $1,000 and styled himself as "the killer of eight persons" was the object of an intense police search today.

The gunmen forced five theater employes under a table while he methodically scooped up the money.

HUNT BODY IN RIVER

DAYTON—(AP)—Sheriff's deputies watched the Miami river today for the body of Edward M. Johns, 20, township treasurer of Royal Oak, Mich. Patrolman L. W. Miller said a note found in Johns' car, declared: "I see no light in this world for me so I'm leaving it behind."

Liquor Board Moves To 'Clean Up' Business In Central Ohio

The Ohio liquor control board launched a movement in Richland and nearby counties today to curb unethical and illegal practices "likely to prove detrimental to the liquor business as a whole."

In starting the program, liquor board members and the state enforcement division have arranged a dinner meeting for April 26 in Mansfield which central Ohio dealers have been invited. Municipal and county law enforcement officers of the district will attend.

Earl C. Pollock of Mansfield, is chairman of a committee making local arrangements. Wellington T. Leonard, formerly of Mansfield and liquor board member, conferred with Pollock on arranging the meeting.

Pollock said that upwards of 150 dealers in the central Ohio district are expected at the dinner.

"The meeting will open the way for discussions, clearing the path to a better understanding between the liquor department and those engaged in the selling end of the business," Pollock said.

"Problems of both sides will be discussed with the view of encouraging the sellers to co-operate with the board of liquor control in obtaining a minimum of violations of existing laws.

"It is hoped that through meetings such as this, we will be able to purge the business of those persons whose habitual conduct of his or her personal place of business is such as to prove detrimen-

Township Finds Way To Meet Relief Loads—Asks Court O.K.

Madison township trustees, who must provide their own relief funds as a result of reorganization of the county relief set-up three weeks ago, today had a solution for the problem, at least temporarily. They sought permission to transfer $10,000 in township funds to meet their relief obligations.

In a petition filed in common pleas court, the trustees ask court authority to use $10,000 from the road and bridge fund for a special poor relief fund.

The action is similar to that proposed by the city of Mansfield which also must provide for its indigent families. City council recently voted to establish a relief fund by transferring $50,000 from the city's sinking fund. The city's request to the court has not been filed.

Madison township trustees voted the transfer March 26 and later obtained the approval of the state tax commission to make the shift. The petition states that there is an unencumbered balance of $16,534 in the township's road and bridge fund.

The township's share of the relief cost will involve administration and direct relief expenses. The township is not permitted under the state law to set up a relief administration, but it will be required to help the city finance the relief office operation.

In February, when relief expenses reached a new high in the county, Madison township's costs amounted to $6,568, and the figure for March is expected to be about the same.

MONDAY, APRIL 11, 1938.

After while they'll find out that "pump priming" won't bring up water from a dry hole.

What more can be expected of congressmen, when even the weather shows such an inclination to be sectional?

Word comes that several "government planners" are so discouraged that they threaten to retire to private life—and that would be one "plan" that might help.

Defeated By Too-Narrow a Margin.

DEFEAT of President Roosevelt's reorganization bill in the House by the narrow margin of 204 to 196, while at least temporarily effective, falls short of the decisive margin needed for restoration of public confidence in the future policies of federal government.

When it is considered that there are 435 members of the House, of whom only 400 voted on the measure, in which a change of five votes would have resulted in passage, the danger of further attempts to force through some sort of reorganization bill cannot be safely ignored—nor is President Roosevelt the type of person to calmly accept defeat of a proposal that he must regard as vitally essential to his New Deal program.

However innocent of dictatorial aims may have been President Roosevelt's intent in connection with the reorganization bill, it cannot be escaped that a large percentage of the people of the United States regarded this measure as a step in the direction of concentrating too great authority in the hands of the president, and surrender of powers constitutionally granted to congress.

Despite an element of admiration for the idealism of Rooseveltian New Deal policies, there has been evidenced throughout the country a growing recognition of the impracticability of many of his proposals and realization that the national debt has been already jumped beyond all safe and sane bounds.

Attitude of the federal administration toward private business has also aroused such fear and uncertainty that the customary channels of progress and prosperity have been dammed at their source, thus causing a government-made depression, the potentialities of which are even more serious than the preceding slump that followed the wildly speculative period leading up to the 1929 debacle.

If, from this and other of the defeats administered to his theories by congress, President Roosevelt can, to a degree, overcome the egoism that seems his chiefest fault, he and his administration may yet regain the public confidence that has become so greatly lessened.

Defeat of the reorganization bill is a step in the direction of improved conditions. Congress and the president might well unite in quick adoption of a legislative and executive program that will go further in allaying fear and restoring confidence among those who are largely responsible for increasing purchasing power by adding to the rolls of private employment.

Soon Time For 'Clean-Up Week.'

SPRING CLEAN-UP WEEK, annually observed in many cities, is again approaching.

Possibly having its inception in the idea of "spring housecleaning," to which many housewives are still addicted, "Spring clean-up week" has been gradually developed into a unified community effort to clear away the accumulated rubbish of winter and give home surroundings—interior and exterior—a more attractive appearance.

Responsibility for leadership and example in observance of clean-up week naturally rests upon city officials and groups devoted to civic improvement—but these can do little unless wholehearted co-operation is given by property owners and tenants in seeing to it that their own premises present a tidy appearance.

Slackening of employment, with resultant greater leisure, might easily give opportunity for a more thorough cleaning up in and around Mansfield this spring than ever before—with likelihood of help being available at reasonable cost for those who haven't time to do the work themselves.

No Time for Jumpy Nerves.

ALMOST everywhere, at home and abroad, nerves are jumpy and tempers are bad. It can be seen in our national life here, as plainly as in Europe and Asia. In business and in government, even in social life, people who are usually rational and even-tempered fly into a rage on slight provocation, get into endless arguments, magnify discomforts and dangers and create imaginary wrongs.

Many have been so intent in observing the angry and menacing state of mind abroad as not to have noticed what is going on here at home. Is it really so very different with us? These fierce controversies that we get into, in private and in public, over business, politics and social problems—are they real, or are they the products of illogical anger, prejudice and inflamed imagination?

We should all calm down. Such a mood solves no problems, private or public, domestic or foreign. It is full of peril. Such general excitement and hostility preceded just before the World war.

Democracy In Art.

GRAND OPERA in this country is a more democratic institution than is generally realized. It is sung in three or four different languages—Italian, French, German and occasionally English. Its performers represent more nationalities, including Russian, Spanish, Scandinavian and Polish singers. When the musicians of the orchestra, the dancers in the ballet and all the backstage workers are considered, the whole group becomes interestingly cosmopolitan.

They comprise a democratic group because they subordinate racial differences, Old World suspicions and hatreds, and personal rivalries, to one great common interest—the opera itself. The same co-operation, tolerance and devotion applied to the international drama of Europe might work wonders in creating peace and harmony on that troubled continent.

A golf pro advises that the game be taken up at the age of 5—but many readers will probably believe that a cipher should follow the figure.

Keeping Step

—By LESLIE EICHEL

A NEW note is being struck in the financial centers of the world. As one of the financial columns in New York remarked, it is time that we stop blaming politicians or fear for depressions, or to expect their panaceas to lift us out of them.

If not, there can be no solution.

The depression has been deepening because, in the spirit of nationalism, that is sweeping the world, each nation is trying to "live upon itself," and trying to maintain jacked-up prices on its own commodities. No nation in the world is wealthy enough to follow such a policy, yet that is the policy being followed in nearly every country, no matter its politics or its form of government.

There is only one thing, economists point out, that maintains prices, and that is trade.

And there is only one thing that creates business, a Wall Street column points out, and that is purchasing power. And purchasing power is gained only through trade and participation of the entire populace in equal measure in that trade.

The new government pump priming is seen as an effective stimulant, but not as a basic cure.

A PRIVATE BOYCOTT

As if barriers set up by nations themselves were not enough, American and British oil companies, the most powerful in the world, are reported to have placed a world-wide boycott on any firm or persons buying or selling Mexican oil.

That is in retaliation for the Mexican government's seizure of their Mexican properties for failure to comply with a Mexican supreme court decision on labor agreements.

The American government concedes that the Mexican government acted within its rights (but too abruptly) and is trying to collect full indemnity. The American government itself adopted retaliation, by stopping the purchase of Mexican silver, plunging Mexico into a worse financial crisis than ever—and arousing a wave of nationalism that may bring a Fascist government to our very doorstep, with possible confiscation of all American properties.

Since then, however, the U. S. government has been trying to arrive at a reasonable basis for settlement.

These international problems are too delicate, and affect too many millions of persons, to be swayed by private financial interests, some of the apprehensive-minded diplomats are saying.

The oil companies have been accused in the past, of bringing about wars. Now, these observers say, they seem to be trying to prove that this is true.

They already are under fire for assertedly having supplied oil evidently used on the Fascist side in Spain by Italy, while the American neutrality act was clamped down tightly on munitions shipments to the Loyalist side.

That situation was not likely to involve the United States, however questionable, if true, but a private boycott on a large neighbor nation with whom the United States is supposed to have friendly relations is a highly dangerous thing, observers assert.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Thursday, April 11, 1918.

Glenn H. Davis, former Y. M. C. A. physical director, was here from Lima before leaving for service in France.

Rev. John F. Cowling became pastor of Presbyterian church in Shelby.

Boarding house of Mrs. James Baxter, 17 South Franklin avenue was burglarized.

Glenn W. Marriott, of Shelby, was inducted into military service and was ready to leave for Camp Sherman.

Members of First United Presbyterian church extended call to Rev. Frederick Elliott, of Greensburg, Ind. to become pastor.

FIVE YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, April 11, 1933.

Showers broke a record heat wave for April of 78 degrees.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Tawse and Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Davidson returned after a visit to Washington, D. C.

Rev. Herbert S. Garnes delivered the opening sermon of Holy Week for 32 Protestant churches.

Mrs. Robert Stevens and Miss Josephine Sturgeon were hostesses at the anniversary dinner party of Alpha Pi Sigma at Apple Lane Inn.

Dr. R. Williams, 27 Vernum avenue, suffered fractures of the right arm and leg in an auto collision on Wooster road.

Elaine Sellers, 71 South Foster street, celebrated his 13th birthday with a party for 13 friends.

PAIN GUIDED BY GOD: Godly sorrow worketh repentance to salvation not to be repented of: but the sorrow of the world worketh death.—2 Corinthians 7:10.

THE GRAVE DIGGERS

Labor Opposition Becoming Felt

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—Organized labor is causing more embarrassment to the Roosevelt legislative program than any other single factor and it promises to cause more trouble. It complicates primary and election prospects this summer and fall of senators and representatives, and at the moment is one of the biggest unknown quantities with respect to the 1940 presidential election.

During the first four years of the New Deal, organized labor was the great ally of President Roosevelt. In the election of 1936, William Green and John L. Lewis both fought on the Administration side. But shortly thereafter the triple alliance began to weaken. Bitter enmity of Green forced largely by labor objections to the reorganization bill. Pressure to force the bill through the senate revealed labor opposition. It was labor and labor alone that caused the surprise switch of Senator Robert F. Wagner, who thereupon cast his first vote in five years against the New Deal, and the A. F. of L., aroused by the National Labor Relations Board's alleged favoritism to the C. I. O., placed the first stumbling block in the path of the wage-hour bill. It would have been a law last year had it not been for that.

Roosevelt's "I do not want to be a dictator" statement was Pressure on congressmen from strong labor districts caused the first suspicion in Roosevelt's mind that all was not well on the House side.

LABOR is playing an important part in checking the Seven T. V. A.'s, making passage of this legislation impossible, at this session. The T. V. A. scandal bogged it down but the administration teams might have been able to pull it through had not representatives like Patrick J. Boland of Scranton and others felt the weight of opposition from coal miners who fear more opposition from subsidized electric power.

It's not that labor is openly fighting administration objectives which is so important, however, as that this great force, so intimidating to gentlemen whose lease on power is subject to primaries and election, is now split wide open. For instance, Labor's Non-Partisan League, which Senator George L. Berry started on a path calculated to make it a strong ally of the New Deal, is now split. The A. F. of L. has pulled out of it altogether. Berry long since retired as head but his subsequent publicity has not helped.

In some states and congressional districts one of the great labor group is stronger than the other, but in most places both are factors and apt to be divided. Pennsylvania is a striking example of what can happen with a distinct possibility that labor complications may easily result in the election of Gifford Pinchot, ardent New Deal hater, as governor, and the re-election of James J. Davis, one of the most dependable anti-New Deal votes in the present senate.

LOOKING to 1940, the growing hostility of labor leaders to particular New Dealers, some of this including Roosevelt himself, may easily play an important part.

Curiously enough, the present prospect is that the most formidable opposition to continuance of the New Deal, either by the nomination of Roosevelt for a third term or the naming of some one he may select, will come from the Southern conservatives.

The last thing any of the labor leaders want to do is to help this group, so "Tory" from their viewpoint. But it may easily work out that their sniping against Roosevelt and his lieutenants may do that very thing.

Defends Sales Tax.

Editor News-Journal:

This is in response to your editorial appearing in Thursday's News-Journal.

It appears that you have taken a very definite one-sided attitude toward our Ohio retail sales tax. You stated that a consumer pays one hundred per cent tax on the one cent over the forty-cent bracket. But you failed to state that the tax on a forty-cent purchase is only 25%, and that the two cents tax on the forty-one cent purchase is only 4.88%, and not 100%.

If an accurate record could be made of single items of forty-one cents for sale in any store, the number of these items would be practically negligible. The only time a consumer pays this extra penny of tax is when the total of a number of purchases would happen to be forty-one cents.

It is granted that a vendor does collect the tax at the rate of ten per cent on a ten-cent purchase. But when the vendor does this, he does it of his own free will. The tax commission has authorized the use of the one-dollar merchandise cards, which entitle a consumer to ten ten-cent purchases, and only three cents tax. If a consumer would demand the merchandise card, he would not be compelled to pay 10% tax.

With the sales tax off of food for consumption off the premises, there isn't anyone who is suffering extremely from payment of the sales tax. And it would be my thought that instead of attempting to reduce the amount of sales tax collections, you'd try to increase them. Because with this method it is the most equal and least painful of any of the consumers taxes in this state.

Says "Conscience" Is Needed.

Editor News-Journal:

We read with interest the letter written by Eleanore Haselitz to Lisie Robinson, but in our opinion the trouble with our American politicians goes far deeper than a lack of education or special training for their job. It is lack of personal conscience and no amount of education or training will make up for this deficiency.

Theodore Roosevelt said, "The abler a man is, the worse he is from the public standpoint if his ability is not guided by conscience."

We have unfortunately reached a point in our national life, where "expediency justifies ignoring the basic principles upon which the nation was founded, and "objectives" must be won, though moral considerations are set aside and personal conscience stultified.

We are hearing a lot today about "social conscience" but very little about "the still small voice" of personal conscience. It is character that counts in a nation as in a man and Calvin Coolidge was wholly right when he said: "We do not need more knowledge, we need more character. We do not need more material development, we need more spiritual development. We do not need more intellectual power, we need more moral power. We do not need more law, we need more religion. We do not need more of the things that are seen, we need more of the things that are unseen."

How to again incorporate these needs into our national life is the greatest problem that confronts our time.

Can This Be Remedied?

Editor News-Journal:

Regarding the piece in The News-Journal about dogs running loose and destroying gardens and lawns, one cannot put the blame on the dogs alone—the owners are responsible as the dogs do not know any better.

Now, how about the school boys and girls that cut across your lots and slide down the banks? Do their parents know that they are damaging your property by trespassing every day they go back and forth to school?

People have cherry trees and other fruit trees on their lots, thinking they can have some fruit of their own. But the children seem to think it is for them and throw stones at the apple trees and fill the yard with stones.

A lady said a few weeks ago: "My yard is a fright the children just won't stay off the bank. No stakes or wire we put up does any good."

How can a person keep their lawn fit if people trespass every day?

The dogs are not the only destroyers. People do not have peace as long as the children go to school, and in the fall it is the same old story.

I wonder if there is no remedy for this? Couldn't parents and teachers work together to stop this nuisance?

Spring Fever.

Nutrition experts at Purdue university have announced that spring fever isn't laziness, it is real sickness. Folks who remember being dosed with sulphur and molasses may remark that there is nothing particularly new about the diagnosis.

The experts go farther and insist that spring fever is one of those deficiency ailments that can be cured by heavy diet. The patient should eat quantities of vegetables and fruit and eggs and milk, they say. That seems tough since one of the symptoms usually is loss of appetite.

Without presumption may we suggest that 18 holes of golf in bright spring sunshine might supply something the spring-fevered frame may be longing for? And also it would be a preparation for using the big-feed prescription.—Detroit News.

YOUR THOUGHT OF ME

A little thing can add so much
To happiness: a card
You sent me, with some words on it
Penned by an humble bard,

Brought joy to me today. It was My birthday, but I had Forgotten its significance,
And then I was made glad

By your small card reminding me
That you had thought to send
Good wishes, but your card said more—
The thought you gave me, friend.

Young America Asks—

Should College Athletes Be Paid?

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

WILD debates in that Young America forum—"SHOULD OR SHOULDN'T COLLEGE ATHLETES RECEIVE SALARIES OR EQUAL COMPENSATION?" Plenty of red-hot CON'S and equally burnt up PRO'S. Today come some highly interesting side remarks from Leon Kaufman of Hollywood, Cal.

"Payment aside," says Leon, "surely college athletes are entitled to 'liability insurance' for their injuries!

"At present, such compensation suits for temporary, permanent liabilities fall within a legal No-man's land. In California, at least, none of the big insurance companies will take such cases. If the injured student is given anything, it is from some Student Body Fund. Although the colleges profit by the contests which they stage, they blandly refuse all financial responsibility for injuries received therein.

"I know, for instance, of one case where they shipped a student with a broken leg home to his parents and refused to pay the doctor's bills. THE CALLOUS INDIFFERENCE OF HIGH-SALARIED COACHES, PROFESSORS AND REGENTS TO THE MORAL PROBLEM INVOLVED IS OUTRAGEOUS.

"Football is a risky game in which many accidents occur. In one day there are more injuries received playing football than in ten Olympic games. The ink on the fantastic checks paid the coaches is tainted with the players' blood. Yet the players are not given the benefit of the insurance which every building contractor must carry to protect his workmen, who are, obviously, not subject to such grave risk.

"I admit I am probably prejudiced on this subject because of the death of a friend's son who collided with a professional wrestler hired by a rival school. My friend received a polite note of regret, but the university did not even pay the mortician's bills.

"It would be interesting if you could persuade two of your many lawyer 'fans' to discuss this insurance angle."

LEON D. KAUFMAN.
Hollywood, Calif.
($10 prize winner)

Thanks for the suggestion, Leon—and we'll all be mightily grateful if some qualified experts, in both law and insurance, will give us their opinion on this problem. Lack of insurance does seem both cruel and unfair—particularly in cases where the sports management is frankly commercial.

SHOULD FATHERS AND MOTHERS SEE THE LOVE AND LABOR OF YEARS SACRIFICED TO FILL THE CAMPUS TREASURY? BUT ON THE OTHER HAND.....HOW ABOUT PERSONAL HONOR AND COURAGE?

AND now from Field Sports to OFFICE GAMES — IS THE BOSS THE BIG ROMANTIC PERIL HE'S SUPPOSED TO BE.

"No he isn't," says Faye Abbott of Oklahoma City, Okla.

"Nothing could be sillier than the popular notion that office girls are s impressed by their employers' superior grooming and sophistication that they lose interest in their 'ordinary' boy friends. We admit that the boss has more money than the fellows we date, but there's more to romance than a bank account.

"No one knows a Big Shot like his secretary. She has to listen to the old story of his 'not being understood by his wife'...she sees all the small hypocrisies and trickeries he practices...she witnesses his tantrums when he doses a lawsuit or guesses wrong on the market—AND HAVING SEEN ALL THIS SHE COMPARES HIM WITH THE POOR BUT REGULAR FELLOW SHE MEETS AFTER HOURS.

"Nine times out of ten that 'regular fellow' is honest, dependable, truly kind and fine. And it goes without saying that he's a good sport, a good dancer and lots of fun. Tradition to the contrary, we'd rather have one REAL Boy Friend than fifty of these flabby, flash-in-the-pan old smarties."

LAST, here's one of those typically American problems which will strike home to many a heart. "SHOULD A NEWLY NATURALIZED AMERICAN CHANGE HIS OLD WORLD NAME TO CONFORM WITH AMERICAN TITLES?" asks Elmer Mateas of Baldwin Park, Calif.

"Dear Miss Robinson—

"My friend, Niilo Lethuranta, was born in Finland of Finnish parents. He came to America at the age of eleven, was raised and educated in America and speaks without even a suspicion of an accent. He is now 26, a voter, and just as American as our great president himself. Having just married an American girl, he wants the court to change his name to Neil Laurence.

"Should he?

"I say no, for three reasons. First, what nation is as highly respected and esteemed by America and Americans as little Finland? Second, even if he wasn't so Americanized, how many Americans can trace their families back more than two generations without plowing up foreign soil? Third, the man is the artistic type and will, I'm sure, one day make his mark. What name could look more distinguished on a studio door than Niilo Lehturanta?"

Elmer Mateas—age 25
Baldwin Park, Calif.
($5 prize winner)

I'm with you 100 per cent, Elmer. We need newly naturalized citizens, it is true, but we also need all that was best of their old-world heritage, whether it be handicraft, tradition, domestic arts, folklore or family names. America was made to GLORIFY old-world blood and give it a new chance—NOT OBLITERATE IT!

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—You can find a dozen reasons why prominent American authors are quietly booking passage for Europe.

But none of them strikes so closely to the root of the matter as the influx of foreign celebrities fleeing to these shores as refugees from Germany's nazism, Russia's communism, and Italy's fascism.

In other years while on their travels the Americans were royally entertained by their fellow-workers abroad. Now it is their turn to play host and prepare the guest room for occupancy. This would be easy if the number of visitors was on a par with other years, but it isn't and that's the point. So many are arriving on every boat that busy American writers with literary chores to perform just can't find time to turn guide and remain authors at the same time.

For instance, one of Broadway's ablest playwrights gave a dinner the other night for 14 guests. With the exception of the host and myself, all were foreigners with political or artistic axes to grind. Included in the company were three Russians, two Germans, and an Italian.

The Russians were outspoken in their appraisal of Hitler and the Austrian coup, but shut up like clams when Moscow was mentioned. The Germans were willing to discuss anything under the wide sky except Berlin and the Third Reich. And the Italian grew bored when Mussolini got an airing, but he quite readily explained how he would reorganize the Soviet state if given the chance.

Two days later this playwright embarked for far places. Unable to complete his chores at home, he will sit on an Irish hillside, portable typewriter in lap, and work for the next two months. As for his friends who entertained him of yore in chateaus and castles in the Alps and along the Rhine, they will just have to get along as best they can.

YOU would be amazed at some of the "whisky" being purveyed behind the darkened doorways of Harlem town. After two or three "powders" you break out in spots. Then all your hair falls out.

A black boy who patronized one of those joints was brought before a magistrate and given a stern lecture on the evils of his ways.

"You ought to be ashamed of yourself," roared the Judge. "Where do you get money to get drunk?"

"Oh, it don't take much money," explained the prisoner. "Where ah gits it, King Kong whisky costs a nickel and Joe Louis a dime. Almost anybody'll loan you a nickel or a dime."

ANOTHER factor in the Harlem fun-scheme are the "reefer" joints, where people with jangled nerves go to enjoy a soothing and very illegal marijuana smoke. They say this produces a dreamy coma which is heightened by dancing and the weird thumping of drums. The cigarets cost a quarter and the deeper you inhale it the greater the kick. When you're ready to go home they sober you up on sweet milk.

THEATER

PARTICULARLY interesting to Mansfielders is the announcement that 20th Century-Fox has purchased the film rights to Louis Bromfield's "The Rains Came," his latest novel, and, according to literary critics, his best to date. The company will encounter no difficulty exhibiting it in India as it has the O. K. of the British government. No cast selections have been made. Not many of Bromfield's books or short stories have been filmed. "24 Hours" and "Life of Virgie Winters" being exceptions. . . . Few of Mazo de la Roche's stories have ever been filmed either, despite their being best sellers. "Whiteoaks of Jalna" is providing Ethel Barrymore with a current stage vehicle in which she plays the 100 year old matriarch of Jalna.

Worthwhile Dance Numbers.

Something new in the way of a theme is the nucelus around which the singing and dancing of "Radio City Revels" is woven. It is based on so-called "automatic writing", the peculiar faculty some people possess of writing in their sleep or with the subsconscious mind. Bob Burns has ambitions to be a song writer but does a very amateurish job—except in his sleep when he turns out some really gay and melodious songs. A three way romance between Jack Oakie, Kenny Baker and Ann Miller, and some novelty dances by Buster West (he's done a number of comedy shorts with Tom Patricola) and Melissa Mason, eccentric contortion dancer, keep up interest in the picture. The only criticism of the dancing is that there isn't enough of it. "Radio City Revels" remains at the Madison through Wednesday.

The Mad Marxes.

With every one wanting to see pictures that are amusing and filled with laughs, nothing could be more appropriate than a return of the Mad Marxes in "A Day At The Races," which the Majestic presents the middle of the week, starting tomorrow. The action takes place in a hospital which resembles an asylum after the Marxes take it over. Like all of their pictures it is filled with the wildest slap-stick and rib-tickling gags. A physical examination of Harpo by Dr. Groucho is a highlight of the picture. Allan Jones and Maureen O'Sullivan provide romance of the accepted sort, while Margaret Dumont and Groucho bring another kind. "Accidents Will Happen," the second feature, is a story of the accidents racket.

Romance in Deep South.

Always a fine actress, Bette Davis rises in dramatic power in "Jezebel," the, Owen Davis, sr., stage play which has been filmed by Warners, and which is being shown at the Ohio. It's the tragic story of a beautiful girl who was more devil than woman, who stops at nothing to gain her own ends, but who suffers most from her own evil disposition, and in the end attempts to work out her own redemption by making the supreme sacrifice. Miss Davis, who has always been identified with brilliant, hard characters, blossoms out as one of the real beauties of the screen in "Jezebel," becurled and feminine, and mistress of all the alluring wiles. The ending, in the midst of the yellow fever scourge that swept New Orleans, is dramatic and tragic. Henry Fonda is one lover and George Brent is the reckless, duelling Buck Cantrell. The background of the Old South and the singing of the plantation Negroes will be remembered.

Beery-Gable Re-Issue.

One of the first pictures that Clark Gable made after he was swept to the top of the ladder was "Hell Divers," in which he and Wallace Beery and Cliff Edwards were buddies in the navy aviation corps. That was in the days before the Gable mustache came into glorified being. The girls in the picture were Dorothy Jordan, the late Marie Prevost and Marjorie Rambeau. It is filled with thrilling action and a smash finish. The rapid fire talker, Lee Tracy, is the star of "Crashing Hollywood," on the same bill at the Ritz. Joan Woodbury is seen opposite him in a story of a writer who tries to crash Hollywood with a big story from real life.

PROBES LIQUOR SALE TO MINORS

Board Acts After Police Jail 4 Toledo High School Boys.

TOLEDO—(AP)—The state board of liquor control has started an investigation into sale of liquor to juveniles in state stores here following the arrest of four high school boys, some of prominent Toledo families, after a celebration of the close of spring football practice in local high schools.

Wellington T. Leonard, member of the state board, said he will call immediately upon James W. Miller, state director of liquor control, to inquire into the situation.

The sheriff's office said the driver of the automobile used by the boys purchased a pint and a quart of whiskey in a state liquor store here.

"We Tobacco Planters smoke Camels"

THE CAMEL BUYERS BOUGHT THE BEST LOTS OF MY LAST CROP. THEY TOOK JUST ABOUT EVERY TOP GRADE LOT AT ALL THE SALES I WENT TO. I PREFER CAMELS FOR MY OWN SMOKING. I KNOW THERE'S FINER TOBACCO IN THEM. YOU'LL FIND THAT MOST OTHER PLANTERS PREFER CAMELS, TOO

Henderson Carroll has been growing tobacco for 18 years, knows it from the ground up

MEN like Mr. Carroll, with a lifetime's experience in growing tobacco, don't smoke "just any cigarette." They know that one cigarette—Camel—is made from finer, MORE EXPENSIVE TOBACCOS. So it means a lot when they say that most smokers who grow tobacco smoke Camels themselves. Make Camel, the cigarette of these experienced tobacco planters, your cigarette too.

LIGHT SELLING SENDS MARKET LEADERS DOWN

Losses Range to Point or More Near Second Hour; Foreign Issues Up.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks ran into light selling after a steady market opening today.

While offerings were far from urgent in most categories, losses of fractions to a point or more predominated near the second hour.

There was some short selling and cashing in of profits on the Friday-Saturday rally, brokers said. Inflationary psychology was believed to have waned a bit as doubts arose as to whether congress would approve "pump-priming" on any extensive scale.

Bonds and commodities were uneven. Most foreign securities tilted forward.

Analysts, scanning trade news for market clues, noted the survey of the magazine "Steel" which found that, in the absence of heavy tonnage from large consumers of the metal, miscellaneous demand, especially from ship builders and agricultural implement makers, was a sustaining influence for mills.

Freight rate increases, the review added, apparently had little effect on steel output as most users were not inspired to anticipate the higher shipping charges.

tal to the future of the business as a whole."

Leonard and Judge Lowell C. Bodey, also a member of the state liquor control board; Alfred C. Humphreys and E. S. Cullison, chief and first assistant of the department's enforcement, and Norman Parr, assistant director in charge of licenses will attend, Pollock said.

Common Pleas Judge C. M. Huston will preside at the meeting and invitations have been accepted by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson, Municipal Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, County Prosecutor G. W. Marriott, Police Chief M. K. Bates and Sheriff E. P. Long. All liquor inspectors in the district will attend.

Pollock is being assisted in arranging the meeting by local brewers, distributors and retailers. The dinner will be held at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, and will be the the first in a series of similar meetings planned for the central Ohio district.

BURNED IN NEWS ROOM EXPLOSION

Phone Operator at Columbus Paper Hurt; Fire Follows Blast.

COLUMBUS — (INS) — Lavina Clark a telephone operator at the Ohio State Journal newspaper office here, suffered burns today when a minor explosion occurred in the editorial room on the third floor.

Taken to Grant hospital, Miss Clark's condition was reported as not serious. Only minor burns were inflicted.

A blaze which broke out after the explosion was brought under control by the fire department. No estimate of the damage was given.

2 EX-CONVICTS IN MURDER QUIZ

Police Grill Pair In Torture Slayings of Mother, Daughter.

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—Two ex-convicts, were questioned here today about the brutal torture-murders of Mrs. Weston G. Frome and her daughter Nancy, of Berkeley, Cal., near Van Horn, Texas, twelve days ago.

Jack M. Flippin 30, and Jock O. Barnes, 34, were arrested in Dallas last night and grilled for eight hours.

A blond of sadistic tendencies, "big, with gold teeth" who was an occupant of an El Paso house of ill fame, is still being sought. She was known by El Paso police to have accompanied Barnes.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO—(AP)—(U. S. D. of A.)—Bearishness in the hog market persisted and prices that were forced higher earlier in the week on storm supplies broke back at the close this week to a point under the close a week ago. Lamb prices followed the same course. The late break probably was due in a large measure to anticipated shrinkage in the demand for dressed lamb. The cattle market held to a steady basis at the late decline.

Hogs: receipts, 5,000, including 4,500 direct; market, slow, steady to 10c lower than Friday's average; scattered lots good and choice, 200 to 270-lb. averages, $8.40-8.50; top, $8 80; shippers took 125, estimated holdovers, 500; compared week ago, good and choice, 160 to 350-lb. averages 5c to 15c lower; underweights, 10c to 25c off; packing sows, steady.

Cattle, receipts, 300; calves, none; compared Friday last week, after losing big end of sharp midweek storm advance; strictly good, choice and prime steers and long yearlings closing the week about 25c over week earlier; common and medium grades, strong to 25c higher, all other classes scarce, sharply higher, with small killers operating for numbers; beef cows and all heifers, 25c to 50c higher; cutter grades, cows 25c up; bulls, 50c to 75c higher; choice heavy vealers about steady, but middleweight kinds, 50c higher; largely steel run, well-conditioned heavies in sizeable supply; shippers' demand narrow, flighty; prime heavy steers reached $10.75, several loads, $10.25-10.70; best yearlings, $10.25; heifer yearlings, $9.50.

Sheep: receipts, 7,000, including 1,800 direct; for week ended Friday, 4,500 directs; compared Friday last week, fat lambs strong to 15c higher; sheep also stronger, week's top wooled lambs, $9.95 Thursday; closing top, $9.35, week's bulk, $8.90-9.15; choice 100 to 110-lb. lambs eligible, $8.50-8.65 at close; top clipped lambs, $8 65; bulk $8.00-8 35; medium to choice spring lambs, first of season, $8.00-10.25. 87-lb weights at top; yearlings, scarce; few slaughter ewes at upward to $5.25 or above; week's bulk, $4 85-5 00, choice short ewes, $4.75. Late Friday: fat lambs, 10c to 25c lower; top, $9.15; bulk $8 75-9.00; choice 100-110-lb. lambs eligible, $8.50-8.85.

BUCYRUS LIVESTOCK

BUCYRUS—Total receipts 2382 head. Hogs, receipts 798; 180 to 250 lbs. $8 50-8.65; 250 to 275 lbs. $8 30-8.45, 275 to 300 lbs. $7 85-8.25, 160 to 175 lbs. $8 35-8 50; fat sows $7.00-7.80, stags $6.25-7.90; boars $5.00-5.50, 140 to 160 lbs. $8.00-8 35, feeding pigs $8.25-9.00.

Cattle receipts 234, steers $7 25-8 95, heifers $6 50-8.35, baby beef $8 40-8 95, fat cows $5 00-6 50; canners $4 00-5 00, bulls $6.00-7.25.

ASKS SPEEDY RAILROAD AID

Roosevelt, In Special Message to Congress, Says Quick Action Necessary.

and approval of unifications.

"It is true that a general upturn in business would undoubtedly help to keep many railroads from actual receivership," the president advised congress. "But it is also true that resumption of traffic at last year's level would not solve their growing difficulties permanently."

The president suggested "from the point of view of business efficiency" that all of the federal agencies dealing with transportation be placed under a single department — he mentioned commerce or interior — with all quasi-judicial and quasi-legislative matters placed under "a reorganized interstate commerce commission."

"And such action would be highly constitutional," the president added.

The seven such agencies which deal with special phases of transportation are the bureau of public roads, the bureau of air commerce, the U. S. maritime commission, the transportation division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, the I. C. C., the lighthouse service and the bureau of navigation and marine inspection.

In passing, Mr. Roosevelt noted that congress has so extended the powers of the I. C. C. as to give it purely executive functions.

"While the latter powers are, in all probability, unconstitutional, in that they create executive authority in a fourth branch of the government instead of in the president," he wrote, "I do not at this time raise that issue because for the president it is more important for all of us to co-operate in prevent serious bankruptcies among a large number of railroad companies, great and small."

In addition to the Splawn report, Mr. Roosevelt turned over to congress a bulky list of recommendations for relief he received from public officials and representatives of both railroad management and labor.

31, LOOMS AS EXCHANGE HEAD

Young St. Louis Broker Named By Governing Committee.

SPRING'S BACK

Rivers Recede as Fair Skies Bring Warmer Weather.

Clear skies and higher temperatures brought normal April weather back to the Richland county area today as the district virtually completed restoration of its communication facilities, badly damaged in last week's ice storm.

Rivers and creeks in the state receded after threatening floods in many sections of Ohio.

Telephone and telegraph communiciation and power lines were back in service today in the city and county after line crews worked the entire week-end to repair damaged estimated as high as $50,000.

Mercury readings climbed back to normal after touching low marks over the week-end. It was 56 degrees in Mansfield at noon today, a rise of 25 degrees since this morning.

Cloudy and slightly warmer was forecast for tonight, but it will be a little cooler tomorrow.

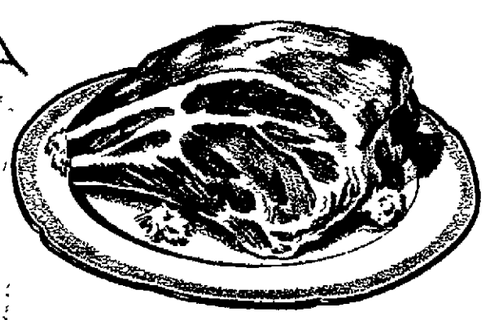
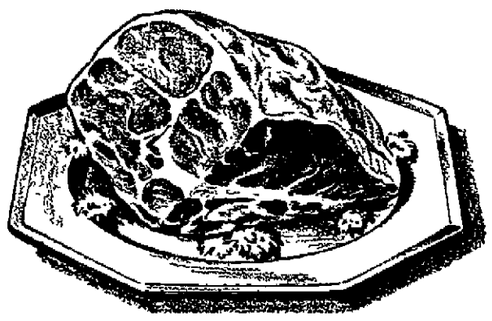
MEAT DEALERS OFFER COOKING SCHOOL CUTS

Here is the chance to practice those cooking school recipes, to apply that knowledge of meat cookery you acquired during the past week. Serve for your Sunday dinner one of the choice cuts offered by the retailers named in this ad.



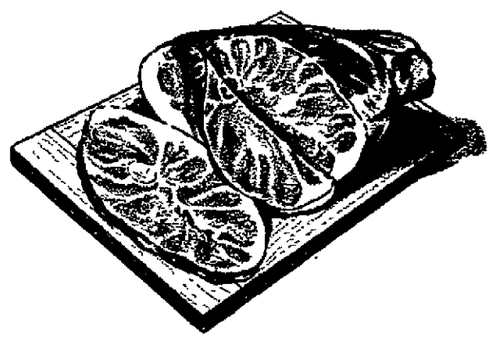
Roast Beef Superb

Purchase a two or three standing rib roast. Wipe with a damp cloth and rub with salt and pepper. Place the roast in a dripping pan with the fat side up. The ends of the bones will serve as a rack. Do not cover the roast and do not add any water. Place in a slow oven (300° F.) and roast to the desired degree of doneness. Allow 18-20 minutes to the pound for cooking a rare roast, 22-25 minutes to the pound for a medium, and 27-30 minutes to the pound for a well-done roast. A four-pound roast will serve 6-8 people.



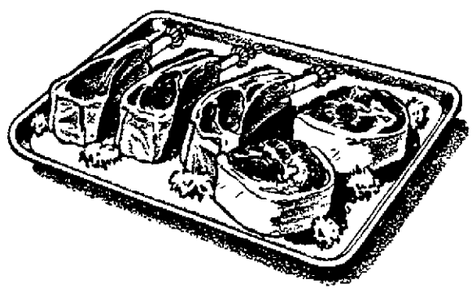
Porto Rican Pot Roast

Have the bone removed from a 3-lb. rump pot roast. Wipe with damp cloth and cut small slits in both sides of the meat at two-inch intervals. Fill these slits alternately with stuffed olives and with inch strips of fat salt pork. Brown the meat in hot drippings, add 2 cups of hot water, 1 cup of catsup, 1 onion, which has been sliced, salt and pepper to taste. Cover tightly and let simmer gently, allowing 45 minutes per pound. The gravy with this pot roast is delicious. The meat is good hot or cold. Three-pound roast will serve 8.



Baked Ham Epicurean

Purchase half ham or whole ham. Slices may be removed for broiling in another meal, and remainder baked. Wipe with damp cloth, place in uncovered pan with fat side up. Roast in slow oven (300° F.), allowing 25 minutes per pound for 10-12-lb. whole hams, 30 minutes per pound for half hams. About 45 minutes before ham is done take from oven, remove rind, mark fat into squares with sharp knife. Pour over it 1 glass currant jelly beaten to pouring consistency with a fork and mixed with ¼ cup chopped maraschino cherries. Return ham to oven to complete cooking.

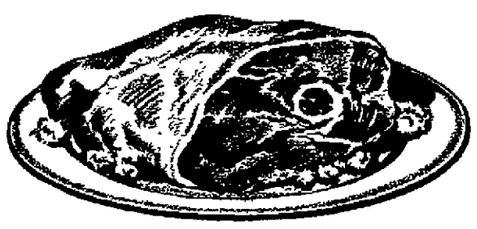


Lamb Chops with Fruit Grill

Purchase rib or loin lamb chops. Wipe with a damp cloth and arrange on a broiler rack, allowing three inches between surface of chops and source of heat When brown turn and finish broiling. Only one turning is necessary. Drain one can pineapple spears Slice 6 bananas in half lengthwise. Place a spear of pineapple between the two slices of banana, wrap with a slice of bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Just before turning the chops, sprinkle with salt and pepper. After turning, place the bacon-wrapped fruit alongside the chops and finish cooking

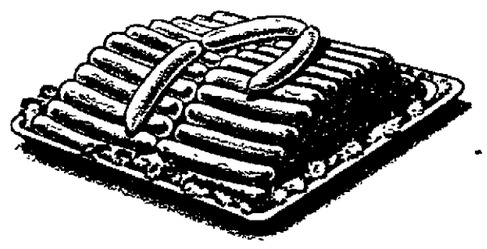
Pork Chops de Luxe

This dish consists of pork chops cooked on top of scalloped potatoes Purchase thick pork chops, as many as there are servings. Wipe with a damp cloth then brown in hot fat, season with salt and pepper, and transfer to the casserole on top of scalloped potatoes ready to be baked. The dish is then covered tightly and the chops allowed to cook in the moist heat with the potatoes until both chops and potatoes are done, about 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.). The cover may be removed during the last few minutes of cooking if further browning is desired.



Roast Leg of Veal

It is a good purchase to buy the entire leg of veal, and if your family is small, have one or two thick slices cut off to prepare later in the week as Veal Steak a la Swiss (Cooking School Recipe). For the roast, place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Season with salt and pepper. Place slices of bacon or salt pork over the top to prevent drying Place roast in a slow oven (300° F.) and allow to roast without covering and without adding water until done From 25 to 30 minutes per pound will be required for roasting.



Stuffed Frankfurter Grill

Purchase 1½ pounds good-sized frankfurters. Let stand in boiling water for 7 minutes, then partially split frankfurters lengthwise and spread lightly with prepared mustard. To 2 cups of mashed potatoes add ½ cup grated American cheese, then fill the frankfurters with this mixture, using a pastry tube or fork. Place on broiler rack with 6 slices of bacon and with 6 thick slices of tomatoes which have been sprinkled with buttered crumbs Set about 4 inches from source of heat and broil until the bacon is cooked and the potatoes and tomatoes are nicely browned.

EAT MEAT
the Body Builder

Authorities agree that no other single food contains all the strength-building, energy-building qualities of meat—but that's only one good reason why you and your family should eat meat regularly. Serve meat to your family because it will extend its natural flavor to all other foods—serve meat for its own delicious goodness—serve meat for real satisfaction and appetite appeal.

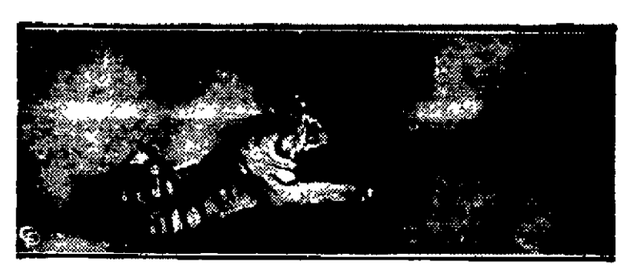
MANSFIELD, OHIO — MONDAY, APRIL 11, 1938



GRRRR—R-R-R!—Despite growls of dog, circus tiger stages sitdown strike in New York's Madison Square Garden.

Republic Steel to Fight NLRB Ohio Strike Findings

FIRM AGREES TO GIVE JOBS BACK TO 5,000

Girdler Says Those Not Guilty of Illegal Acts to Be Hired; Plans Court Fight.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — The National Labor Relations board decision finding Republic Steel corporation guilty of violation of the Wagner Act during last summer's strike will be appealed in the courts, although the company is willing to rehire strikers "who were not guilty of violence or illegal acts," Board Chairman Tom M. Girdler said today.

"We are convinced the board's decision is wrong," a statement issued by Girdler said, "The courts will have to decide the question."

In regard to the board's order that strikers be reinstated, the Girdler statement said:.

Recalls Strike Stand.

"The company has always advocated the re-instatement of men who went out on strike, as was clearly stated in public announcements during the course of the strike last summer. We have always said that the company would reinstate all men who were not guilty of violence or illegal acts."

Girdler denied that the company was responsible for the strike, as charged by the N. L. R. B.

"The statement of the National Labor Relations board . . . that it does not find the company's refusal to sign a contract with the S. W. O. C. 'to be an unfair labor practice' is in complete justification of the stand taken by the company last summer.

"It was the insistence by the CIO that Republic and other little steel companies sign the contract that precipitated the strike . . ."

The N. L. R. B. Saturday handed down a decision that Republic had violated the Wagner Act on 10 counts. It ordered re-instatement of 5,000 strikers with back pay, dissolution of employe representation groups in five Ohio plants, and charged the company's opposition to the CIO and other unions should be dissolved.

Convinced Board's Wrong.

Girdler's statement attacked the dissolution order particularly.

"We are convinced," the statement said, "the board's decision is wrong that the company must not negotiate with its employes who have formed their own independent labor organizations. They exist today as collective bargaining organizations, representing a major part of the company's employes, and should have as much right to act in that capacity as any other labor group. The courts will have to decide this question."

Girdler said that the company refused to sign with the CIO because, "among other reasons, we knew that the majority of our men were opposed to such signature and because sit-down strikes in other industries and violent tactics employed by the CIO convinced us that its leadership was irresponsible."

Adario's Charter As First Class School Revoked

The state department of education today had revoked the charter of the Adario high school as a first grade high school, giving "inadequate home economics and industrial arts equipment and library books" as the reason.

The action follows inspection of the school by C. W. Howell, state high school supervisor, two weeks ago.

The revocation order, which was directed to Charles Steward, president of the Butler township board of education, suggested that the school board "make plans to unite with other districts for high school purposes next year."

Effective at the end of the present school year, the order will result in the closing of the high school and the transporting of its 55 pupils to Shiloh and the Union high schools. Robert Wendland is superintendent of the Butler township schools, which include the Adario system.

A hearing on the proposed consolidation of the Butler township district with the Union district (Franklin and Weller townships) will be held April 30 at the courthouse.

The consolidation was voted by the county board of education on March 26, and will reduce the districts in the county's rural setup to 12.

CRASH KILLS ATTORNEY

Up and Down THE STREET

Richland county soil conservation officials, who have been "too busy" to move into their new headquarters at 52½ East Third street, found time today to start the job. The office, which has been located in the basement of the courthouse, has been literally a beehive of activity for the past several weeks while a large staff of workers put the 1938 program into operation. Guy Taylor, chairman of the county conservation committee, said the new quarters would provide more space and separate the federal program activities from the work of the county agent's office at the courthouse.

The Junior Red Cross of Shelby is determined that the youngsters of the Richland County Children's Home have an Easter with all the trimmings. Two bushels of fresh country eggs, gathered up by the Shelby Juniors, will go to the home this week and on Saturday there will be colored eggs for every boy and girl.

Although today was the first day of the annual spring vacation for Mansfield public school students, members of the Senior high school band went to school this morning as usual, and will continue to do so for the remainder of the vacation. The reason—rehearsals. Band Director J. Merton Holcombe has ordered the daily practices in preparation for the band contest in Columbus, Saturday, April 23.

Mansfielders will hardly recognize Stadium field April 23, the day of the Mansfield relays. School officials already have started to pretty up the place for the big event. FFlag standards — 50 of 'em — are being erected around the field for the red and white pennants recently purchased. Red and white, in case you don't know, are the school's colors.

SPUR HUNT FOR 'TORSO KILLER'

Cleveland Police Identify 8th Victim; Search for Other Parts of Body.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Police, seeking a solution to 11 torso murders here, the most recent of which occurred last week, disclosed today they had identified the eighth victim of the fiend who has terrorized the city as Mrs. Rose Wallace, 40, colored housewife.

Detective Peter Merylo announced that dental work in a skeleton found last June was shown to be that of Mrs. Wallace. He said a son of Mrs. Wallace aided in establishing identity of the victim and informed police that bridgework in the mouth had been made by a Cincinnati dentist who died 15 years ago.

The 11th victim of the murderer also was a woman, part of whose dismembered body was discovered near the outlet of a sewer last week.

Police said investigation showed that Mrs. Wallace was last heard from August 31, 1936, when she went to attend a party in the western section of the city. Death of the Cincinnati dentist whose work led to identification of the skeleton will prevent formal recording of the victim's identity on police records, it was said.

In an effort to throw more light on the series of torso killings, an investigation was under way into the reported disappearance of 20 women in recent months. Only seven of the 11 persons slaughtered by the murderer have been identified.

DONAHEY, 'CHAMP LISTENER,' TO BE NO. 1 PROBER IN TVA QUIZ

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The champion listener in the senate—Sen. Vic Donahey (D-Ohio)—probably will direct the congressional investigation into the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Senators said today that Vice President Garner unofficially had designated Donahey when he placed the former Ohio governor at the top of five senate members of the committee. Five house members also will serve, but custom gives a senator the chairmanship.

The tall Ohioan, who keeps his gray hair clipped short, usually wears tweeds, and chews gum, has been in the senate nearly five years without making a speech.

"I may want to talk sometime," he said, smiling. "It might even be about TVA. You can learn a lot about other senators by just listening."

Other senators said Donahey was not seeking the chairmanship but was willing to serve.

"I will play a big horn or a little horn," he said. "It does not matter, just so we buckle down and get the job done.

"I call myself a progressive—with the brakes on," he continued. "If I disagree with my president, I don't go consort with the enemy or abuse him. There can be an honest difference between men over policies."

The Ohioan said the TVA inquiry would climax 40 years of public service.

"My senate term ends next year and then I'm through," he declared. "I would not even accept the presidency. I'm absolutely a free man. Nobody owns a hair on my head. When I'm through here, I'm going to have a little fun."

MRS. SWORD DIES

Mother of County Engineer, 75, Stricken Saturday.

ROOSEVELT AIDS SEE CHANCE TO PASS MEASURE

But Leaders Still Undecided Whether to Push Bill In Face of Recent Defeat.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Despite indecision of administration leaders over whether to push wage-hour legislation in the remaining days of this congress, the house labor committee today prepared to start work on a compromise bill.

Chairman Mary T. Norton scheduled a committee meeting for tomorrow to consider a new measure drafted by the Ramspeck sub-committee after nearly a month of secret sessions.

Four months ago the house rejected the original Black-Connery bill by a margin of 18 votes.

Majority whip Boland said an administration survey showed a "considerable" change of sentiment in the lower chamber and that a "reasonable bill can be passed."

O'Connor Optimistic.

Rep. O'Connor (D) of New York, who led the revolt against the government reorganization bill, believed by some to have jeopardized chances of a wage-hour bill this session, said that wage-hour legislation "should and would pass" if offered to congress before it adjourns.

Administration leaders doubted the wisdom of reviving the issue. They feared another major fight might further widen the split in the ranks of rebellious Democrats in the house, and place an additional controversy before the nation in a campaign year.

Likewise, the leadership faced the problem of getting the measure through two house committees before it could be brought to the floor.

As drawn by the subcommittee, the new measure would declare an objective of a 40-hour week, and a 40-cent per hour minimum wage. It would achieve this through a sliding scale system of raising wages annually from the occupation average for each industry until 40 cents is reached, while as to hours it would declare a top workweek of 48 hours and empower the administration board to set maximums as low as 40 hours.

ENDS OWN LIFE

Galion Woman's Body Found In Reservoir Today.

GALION—Mrs. Maude D. Foltz, 55, was found dead early today in a Big Four railroad reservoir here. The body was discovered by her husband, Charles W. Foltz, who started searching for her when she failed to return home from church Sunday night. She had been in ill health for several months. Mrs. Foltz was born in Marion county and had been a resident of Galion for 32 years.

Surviving besides her husband, are three daughters, Mrs. Paul Rorick of Galion, Misses Isabelle and Gertrude at home; two sons, D. Shannon of Waterville, Me. and Joseph of Galion and a grandchild. She was a member of the Church of Christ, Rebecca lodge and the Daughters of America.

The body was removed to the Snyder funeral home pending completion of arrangements.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

FAIR ENOUGH!

Bottle of wine and hunk of cheese friendliness escapes Hollywood scene

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Granted that there are thousands of has-beens, never-wasers, mediocrities and downright failures in the so-called colony of the cinema in Hollywood, it is a strange fact that that community of artists contains few, if any, gay individuals. The poor are wretched because they are, by comparison, poor and yearning, envious, jealous and ungenerous. The rich are self-conscious, jealous, worried and the prey of blackmailers, parasites, tax collectors and fears.

This is a general observation, and I will grant that there must be a few individual exceptions. On the whole, however, Hollywood differs shockingly from Paris, Vienna and Greenwich village as of old. Hollywood is hard, harsh, treacherous and avaricious and suffers from a lack of the comradeship and artistic warmth which melted the distinctions between rich and poor, between the masters and the unarrived in the Bohemias.

The successful actor or writer in Hollywood reckons his standing by his salary and runs with people whose earnings are in his own brackets. But the actor knows that his career is short and is constantly fighting with his employers for more money, for better roles, for advantages too technical to be explained in a short piece. He may and often does hate the company for which he works and fights bitterly with the executives who employ him but detest him and constantly try to destroy him.

The writer's job at $1,000 or $2,000 or more per week expires every now and again, and he has an agent to hustle up further short-term assignments. He becomes secretive, defensive, bitter. He fights with his wife and is divorced, and we in the rest of the country read of a settlement which reckons his pay at some stupefying figure and her alimony in proportionate amount.

Old friends of the $35-a-week days in the newspaper business picture him drinking wine on the brink and his swimming pool and decide that he has fallen for some cutie. Maybe so, but it is more likely that he has just become unbearable, and she, too, under the strain of competition.

They hate to fail. They fear failure, and a reduction in price may be resisted for many weeks at nothing per week. Of course, a man gets drunk in such circumstances. My God, he owes last year's income taxes and what can he do if he washes out entirely? Go back to night police or the rewrite battery at a newspaper salary? Unbearable! He can't tolerate even himself, whom he admires preposterously.

The dirty little parasites who chisel and blackmail swarm like midges on a June night in the woods. One must spend money at so-and-so's night club or donate one's services to some commentator's program or send Christmas and birthday presents to some contemptible grafter with a column of type or take the risk of a bad report. So they think, anyway. As a matter of truth, the blackmailers, all of them well-known to the profession, realize that their threat is largely imaginary.

But the Hollywood people are afraid. Greedy and without confidence in their ability, they pay, one way and another. They know that their earnings are fantastic but, what with commissions, taxes, appearances and all, they come up with little at the end of each year.

The harshness, the wolfish individual suspicion and loneliness of the colony are apparent at once but hard to understand at first. Old friends from back yonder are met at arm's length after years for fear of rivalry. Only a few great souls with great earnings have the bigness and courage to be kind to a newcomer who may want no help. Successful men and women fear, hate and suspect one another. There is no Bohemian ease and fun anywhere.

Get drunk? Between pictures, maybe. But not with the fellow in the next booth who is out of a job, or a Johnny-come-lately fighting his way up. He may be a genius, a great actor, director, dramatist or designer, but don't encourage him. Tell him nothing, mislead him, if possible, for he may be after your contract.

Art? Comradship? A bottle of wine and a hunk of cheese with an unknown? Where do you think you are? On the left bank?

Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Dolores Del Rio came back from her north African vacation with a new Paris-designed wardrobe of "Arab influence" and tips for tea-drinkers and for Greta Garbo.

Over a cup of tea (three sugars, no lemon, no cream) dark-eyed Dolores grew ecstatic over the beverage as served in Morocco and Algeria. With mint, she said, and "so delecious, so refreshing."

She was wearing a sample of the "Arab influence"—a combination hat and shawl of vivid print, a burnoose over which was a broad brim of black straw. It was so tricky that I had to give up figuring it out until she obligingly dismantled the thing and then, with the deft jab of a pin, assembled it again. Verdict: it looked all right on her, but then most things do.

She explained it: "Since I'd been in Africa, I thought it would be fun to have my things reflect the vacation. All of them were done especially for me—by Talbot and Reboux."

And so, girls, if you start wearing more of the same, you can blame Dolores and her two-months' vacation. But by the time those models get into the shops—if the look in Dolores' eyes meant anything—Dolores will be wearing something else. I think the lady makes a game of it.

That tip for Garbo? Oh, yes, the native cities, where there are no movies.

"Recognize me there?" Dolores repeated the question, laughing. "Not a soul. They have never heard of anyone in Hollywood—even Garbo could hide out there indefinitely and realize her wish to be let alone. And for persons who might be afflicted with excessive egotism because of Hollywood success, let me recommend those towns—those lovely native towns!"

In a chartered plane, with a French pilot, Dolores and husband Cedric Gibbons "did" the obscure villages and towns as well as the cosmopolitan centers like Casablanca. She took about eight reels of color film in her miniature camera, but with no co-operation from the natives.

"I would take out my camera in a colorful street," she lamented, "and before I could start taking pictures the natives would have disappeared. They distrust or fear the camera.

"They don't miss the movies. They have story-tellers, in the native bazaars."

"I never thought of pictures—not once!" she said emphatically. "That was what made it a marvelous vacation. I think we all should get away from Hollywood—often—to see how life goes on outside. And when we go to Europe, we should go to Africa too. So few people think of it, and it's only three hours by plane from Naples. It was, oh, lovely—in Marekesh we landed in the midst of a typhus epidemic. A thousand people had died, but I told Cedric we might never come again, and shouldn't miss it then. We stayed five days!"

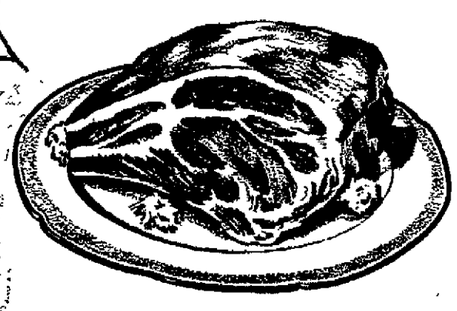
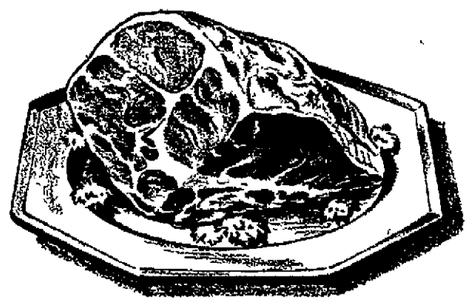
MEAT DEALERS OFFER COOKING SCHOOL CUTS

Here is the chance to practice those cooking school recipes, to apply that knowledge of meat cookery you acquired during the past week. Serve for your Sunday dinner one of the choice cuts offered by the retailers named in this ad.



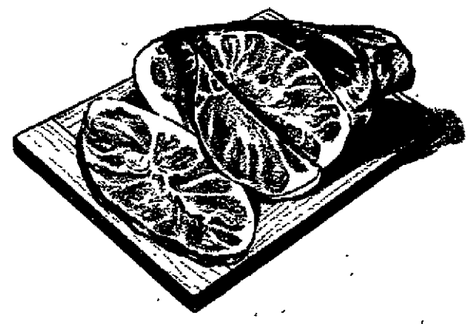
Roast Beef Superb

Purchase a two or three standing rib roast. Wipe with a damp cloth and rub with salt and pepper. Place the roast in a dripping pan with the fat side up. The ends of the bones will serve as a rack. Do not cover the roast and do not add any water. Place in a slow oven (300° F.) and roast to the desired degree of doneness. Allow 18-20 minutes to the pound for cooking a rare roast, 22-25 minutes to the pound for a medium, and 27-30 minutes to the pound for a well-done roast. A four-pound roast will serve 6-8 people.



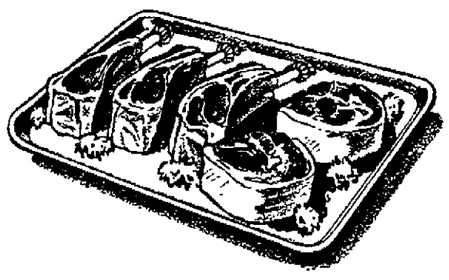
Porto Rican Pot Roast

Have the bone removed from a 3-lb. rump pot roast. Wipe with damp cloth and cut small slits in both sides of the meat at two-inch intervals. Fill these slits alternately with stuffed olives and with inch strips of fat salt pork. Brown the meat in hot drippings, add 2 cups of hot water, 1 cup of catsup, 1 onion which has been sliced, salt and pepper to taste. Cover tightly and let simmer gently, allowing 45 minutes per pound. The gravy with this pot roast is delicious. The meat is good hot or cold. Three-pound roast will serve 8.



Baked Ham Epicurean

Purchase half ham or whole ham. Slices may be removed for broiling in another meal, and remainder baked. Wipe with damp cloth, place in uncovered pan with fat side up. Roast in slow oven (300° F.), allowing 25 minutes per pound for 10-12-lb. whole hams, 30 minutes per pound for half hams. About 45 minutes before ham is done take from oven, remove rind, mark fat into squares with sharp knife. Pour over it 1 glass currant jelly beaten to pouring consistency with a fork and mixed with ½ cup chopped maraschino cherries. Return ham to oven to complete cooking.

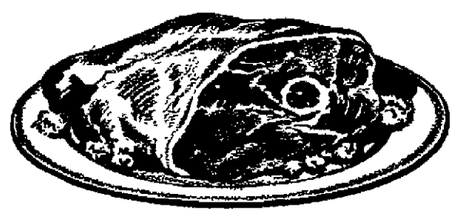


Lamb Chops with Fruit Grill

Purchase rib or loin lamb chops. Wipe with a damp cloth and arrange on a broiler rack, allowing three inches between surface of chops and source of heat. When brown turn and finish broiling. Only one turning is necessary. Drain one can pineapple spears. Slice 6 bananas in half lengthwise. Place a spear of pineapple between the two slices of banana, wrap with a slice of bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Just before turning the chops, sprinkle with salt and pepper. After turning, place the bacon-wrapped fruit alongside the chops and finish cooking

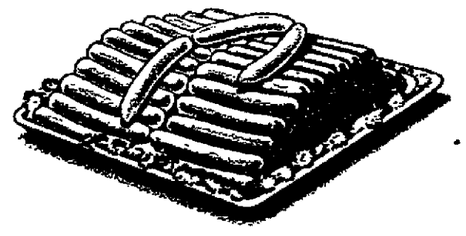
Pork Chops de Luxe

This dish consists of pork chops cooked on top of scalloped potatoes. Purchase thick pork chops, as many as there are servings. Wipe with a damp cloth then brown in hot fat, season with salt and pepper, and transfer to the casserole on top of scalloped potatoes ready to be baked. The dish is then covered tightly and the chops allowed to cook in the moist heat with the potatoes until both chops and potatoes are done, about 45 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.). The cover may be removed during the last few minutes of cooking if further browning is desired.



Roast Leg of Veal

It is a good purchase to buy the entire leg of veal, and if your family is small, have one or two thick slices cut off to prepare later in the week as Veal Steak a la Swiss (Cooking School Recipe). For the roast, place on a rack in an open roasting pan. Season with salt and pepper. Place slices of bacon or salt pork over the top to prevent drying. Place roast in a slow oven (300° F.) and allow to roast without covering and without adding water until done. From 25 to 30 minutes per pound will be required for roasting.



Stuffed Frankfurter Grill

Purchase 1½ pounds good-sized frankfurters. Let stand in boiling water for 7 minutes, then partially split frankfurters lengthwise and spread lightly with prepared mustard. To 2 cups of mashed potatoes add ½ cup grated American cheese, then fill the frankfurters with this mixture, using a pastry tube or fork. Place on broiler rack with 6 slices of bacon and with 6 thick slices of tomatoes which have been sprinkled with buttered crumbs. Set about 4 inches from source of heat and broil until the bacon is cooked and the potatoes and tomatoes are nicely browned.

EAT MEAT
the Body Builder

Authorities agree that no other single food contains all the strength-building, energy-building qualities of meat—but that's only one good reason why you and your family should eat meat regularly. Serve meat to your family because it will extend its natural flavor to all other foods—serve meat for its own delicious goodness—serve meat for real satisfaction and appetite appeal.

Republic Steel to Fight NLRB Ohio Strike Findings

FIRM AGREES TO GIVE JOBS BACK TO 5,000

Girdler Says Those Not Guilty of Illegal Acts to Be Hired; Plans Court Fight.

(By International News Service)

CLEVELAND — The National Labor Relations board decision finding Republic Steel corporation guilty of violation of the Wagner Act during last summer's strike will be appealed in the courts, although the company is willing to rehire strikers "who were not guilty of violence or illegal acts," Board Chairman Tom M. Girdler said today.

"We are convinced the board's decision is wrong," a statement issued by Girdler said, "The courts will have to decide the question."

In regard to the board's order that strikers be reinstated, the Girdler statement said:

Recalls Strike Stand.

"The company has always advocated the re-instatement of men who went out on strike, as was clearly stated in public announcements during the course of the strike last summer. We have always said that the company would reinstate all men who were not guilty of violence or illegal acts."

Girdler denied that the company was responsible for the strike, as charged by the N. L. R. B.

"The statement of the National Labor Relations board . . . that it does not find the company's refusal to sign a contract with the S. W. O. C. 'to be an unfair labor practice' is in complete justification of the stand taken by the company last summer.

"It was the insistence by the CIO that Republic and other little steel companies sign the contract that precipitated the strike . . ."

The N. L. R. B. Saturday handed down a decision that Republic had violated the Wagner Act on 10 counts. It ordered re-instatement of 5,000 strikers with back pay, dissolution of employe representation groups in five Ohio plants, and charged the company's opposition to the CIO and other unions should be dissolved.

Convinced Board's Wrong.

Girdler's statement attacked the dissolution order particularly.

"We are convinced," the statement said, "the board's decision is wrong that the company must not negotiate with its employes who have formed their own independent labor organizations. They exist today as collective bargaining organizations, representing a major part of the company's employes, and should have as much right to act in that capacity as any other labor group. The courts will have to decide this question."

Girdler said that the company refused to sign with the CIO because, "among other reasons, we knew that the majority of our men were opposed to such signature and because sit-down strikes in other industries and violent tactics employed by the CIO convinced us that its leadership was irresponsible."

Adario's Charter As First Class School Revoked

The state department of education today had revoked the charter of the Adario high school as a first grade high school, giving "inadequate home economics and industrial arts equipment and library books" as the reason.

The action follows inspection of the school by C. W. Howell, state high school supervisor, two weeks ago.

The revocation order, which was directed to Charles Steward, president of the Butler township board of education, suggested that the school board "make plans to unite with other districts for high school purposes next year."

Effective at the end of the present school year, the order will result in the closing of the high school and the transporting of its 55 pupils to Shiloh and the Union high schools. Robert Wendland is superintendent of the Butler township schools, which include the Adario system.

A hearing on the proposed consolidation of the Butler township district with the Union district (Franklin and Weller townships) will be held April 30 at the courthouse.

The consolidation was voted by the county board of education on March 26, and will reduce the districts in the county's rural setup to 12.

Richland county soil conservation officials, who have been "too busy" to move into their new headquarters at 52½ East Third street, found time today to start the job. The office, which has been located in the basement of the courthouse, has been literally a beehive of activity for the past several weeks while a large staff of workers put the 1938 program into operation. Guy Taylor, chairman of the county conservation committee, said the new quarters would provide more space and separate the federal program activities from the work of the county agent's office at the courthouse.

SPUR HUNT FOR 'TORSO KILLER'

Cleveland Police Identify 8th Victim; Search for Other Parts of Body.

(By United Press)

CLEVELAND—Police, seeking a solution to 11 torso murders here, the most recent of which occurred last week, disclosed today they had identified the eighth victim of the fiend who has terrorized the city as Mrs. Rose Wallace, 40, colored housewife.

Detective Peter Merylo announced that dental work in a skeleton found last June was shown to be that of Mrs. Wallace. He said a son of Mrs. Wallace aided in establishing identity of the victim and informed police that bridgework in the mouth had been made by a Cincinnati dentist who died 15 years ago.

The 11th victim of the murderer also was a woman, part of whose dismembered body was discovered near the outlet of a sewer last week.

Police said investigation showed that Mrs. Wallace was last heard from August 31, 1936, when she went to attend a party in the western section of the city. Death of the Cincinnati dentist whose work led to identification of the skeleton will prevent formal recording of the victim's identity on police records, it was said.

In an effort to throw more light on the series of torso killings, an investigation was under way into the reported disappearance of 20 women in recent months. Only seven of the 11 persons slaughtered by the murderer have been identified.

DONAHEY, 'CHAMP LISTENER,' TO BE NO. 1 PROBER IN TVA QUIZ

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—The champion listener in the senate—Sen. Vic Donahey (D-Ohio)—probably will direct the congressional investigation into the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Senators said today that Vice President Garner unofficially had designated Donahey when he placed the former Ohio governor at the top of five senate members of the committee. Five house members also will serve, but custom gives a senator the chairmanship.

The tall Ohioan, who keeps his gray hair clipped short, usually wears tweeds, and chews gum, has been in the senate nearly five years without making a speech.

"I may want to talk sometime," he said, smiling. "It might even be about TVA. You can learn a lot about other senators by just listening."

Other senators said Donahey was not seeking the chairmanship but was willing to serve.

"I will play a big horn or a little horn," he said. "It does not matter, just so we buckle down and get the job done.

"I call myself a progressive—with the brakes on," he continued. "If I disagree with my president, I don't go consort with the enemy or abuse him. There can be an honest difference between men over policies."

The Ohioan said the TVA inquiry would climax 40 years of public service.

"My senate term ends next year and then I'm through," he declared. "I would not even accept the presidency. I'm absolutely a free man. Nobody owns a hair on my head. When I'm through here, I'm going to have a little fun."

MRS. SWORD DIES

Mother of County Engineer, 75, Stricken Saturday.

Mrs. Emma F. Sword, 75, of 73 Columbia avenue, mother of Howard C. Sword, county engineer, died Saturday evening in General hospital after an illness of a year.

The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday with Rev. G. E. Swoyer officiating. Burial will be in Shauck cemetery.

Mrs. Sword was born near Johnsville, June 27, 1862, the daughter of Abram and Jane Miller, pioneer residents of Crawford county. She spent the greater part of her life in Mansfield. She was the widow of James Sword.

Surviving are three sons, Guy M. and Howard, of Mansfield, and Charles H. of Buffalo, N. Y.; three sisters, Mrs. Nevada Thuma of Cleveland, Mrs. Mary Lindsay of Lexington, and Mrs. Jennie Rusk of Mansfield, and three grandchildren.

SHORT ILLNESS ENDS IN DEATH

Frank L. Voshel, 61, Came Here From Marietta Year Ago.

Frank Linso Voshel, 61, of 307 Sturges avenue, a native of Marietta, died early today at General hospital following a brief illness. He had been a resident of Mansfield for the past year, coming here from Point Marion, Pa.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Charles Cramer of Mansfield, Mrs. Cecil Weekley of Clarksburg, W. Va., and Mrs. Edward Jefferies of Point Marion, Pa.; three sons, Harley, Bert and Emmet Voshel, all of Mansfield; a sister, two brothers, and 13 grandchildren.

The body is at the Finefrock funeral home where services will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in charge of Rev. H. S. Garnes, of St. Luke's Lutheran church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

ROOSEVELT AIDS SEE CHANCE TO PASS MEASURE

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Despite indecision of administration leaders over whether to push wage-hour legislation in the remaining days of this congress, the house labor committee today prepared to start work on a compromise bill.

Chairman Mary T. Norton scheduled a committee meeting for tomorrow to consider a new measure drafted by the Ramspeck sub-committee after nearly a month of secret sessions.

Four months ago the house rejected the original Black-Connery bill by a margin of 18 votes.

Majority whip Boland said an administration survey showed a "considerable" change of sentiment in the lower chamber and that a "reasonable bill can be passed."

O'Connor Optimistic.

Rep. O'Connor (D) of New York, who led the revolt against the government reorganization bill, believed by some to have jeopardized chances of a wage-hour bill this session, said that wage-hour legislation "should and would pass" if offered to congress before it adjourns.

Administration leaders doubted the wisdom of reviving the issue. They feared another major fight might further widen the split in the ranks of rebellious Democrats in the house, and place an additional controversy before the nation in a campaign year.

Likewise, the leadership faced the problem of getting the measure through two house committees before it could be brought to the floor.

As drawn by the subcommittee, the new measure would declare an objective of a 40-hour week, and a 40-cent per hour minimum wage. It would achieve this through a sliding scale system of raising wages annually from the occupation average for each industry until 40 cents is reached, while as to hours it would declare a top workweek of 48 hours and empower the administration board to set maximums as low as 40 hours.

ENDS OWN LIFE

Galion Woman's Body Found In Reservoir Today.

GALION—Mrs. Maude D. Foltz, 55, was found dead early today in a Big Four railroad reservoir here. The body was discovered by her husband, Charles W. Foltz, who started searching for her when she failed to return home from church Sunday night. She had been in ill health for several months. Mrs. Foltz was born in Marion county and had been a resident of Galion for 32 years.

Surviving besides her husband, are three daughters, Mrs. Paul Rorick of Galion, Misses Isabelle and Gertrude at home; two sons, D. Shannon of Waterville, Me. and Joseph of Galion and a grandchild. She was a member of the Church of Christ, Rebecca lodge and the Daughters of America.

The body was removed to the Snyder funeral home pending completion of arrangements.

NATIVE OF CITY DIES AT AGE 29

Mrs. Flossie Ferrell Taken By Death After Lengthy Illness.

Mrs. Flossie Eleanor Ferrell, 29, of 184 South Franklin avenue, a native Mansfielder, died Sunday morning at the home following a lingering illness.

Her husband, Keith; her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Hamilton; a sister, Cleo Hamilton and a brother, Milo E. Hamilton all of Mansfield, survive. She was a member of the First Christian church.

Services will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday in charge of Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger of the First Christian church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

CRAWFORD WOMAN DIES

BUCYRUS — Mrs. Barbara McIntyre, 75, a native of Galion, died Sunday evening at her home in Lykens township of a heart attack. Surviving are her husband, William; two brothers, Henry Barger of Caroline and Samuel Barger of Lykens township; a sister, Mrs. Catherine Witte of Caroline, and an adopted daughter, Mrs. Milton Bucher of Bucyrus. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

FAIR ENOUGH!

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—Granted that there are thousands of has-beens, never-wasers, mediocrities and downright failures in the so-called colony of the cinema in Hollywood, it is a strange fact that that community of artists contains few, if any, gay individuals. The poor are wretched because they are, by comparison, poor and yearning, envious, jealous and ungenerous. The rich are selfconscious, jealous, worried and the prey of blackmailers, parasites, tax collectors and fears.

This is a general observation, and I will grant that there must be a few individual exceptions. On the whole, however, Hollywood differs shockingly from Paris, Vienna and Greenyich village as of old. Hollywood is hard, harsh, treacherous and avaricious and suffers from a lack of the comradeship and artistic warmth which melted the distinctions between rich and poor, between the masters and the unarrived in the Bohemias.

The successful actor or writer in Hollywood reckons his standing by his salary and runs with people whose earnings are in his own brackets. But the actor knows that his career is short and is constantly fighting with his employers for more money, for better roles, for advantages too technical to be explained in a short piece. He may and often does hate the company for which he works and fights bitterly with the executives who employ him but detest him and constantly try to destroy him.

The writer's job at $1,000 or $2,000 or more per week expires every now and again, and he has an agent to hustle up further short-term assignments. He becomes secretive, defensive, bitter. He fights with his wife and is divorced, and we in the rest of the country read of a settlement which reckons his pay at some stupefying figure and her alimony in proportionate amount.

Old friends of the $35-a-week days in the newspaper business picture him drinking wine on the brink and his swimming pool and decide that he has fallen for some cutie. Maybe so, but it is more likely that he has just become unbearable, and she, too, under the strain of competition.

They hate to fail. They fear failure, and a reduction in price may be resisted for many weeks at nothing per week. Of course, a man gets drunk in such circumstances. My God, he owes last year's income taxes and what can he do if he washes out entirely? Go back to night police or the rewrite battery at a newspaper salary? Unbearable! He can't tolerate even himself, whom he admires preposterously.

The dirty little parasites who chisel and blackmail swarm like midges on a June night in the woods. One must spend money at so-and-so's night club or donate one's services to some commentator's program or send Christmas and birthday presents to some contemptible grafter with a column of type or take the risk of a bad report. So they think, anyway. As a matter of truth, the blackmailers, all of them well-known to the profession, realize that their threat is largely imaginary.

But the Hollywood people are afraid. Greedy and without confidence in their ability, they pay, one way and another. They know that their earnings are fantastic but, what with commissions, taxes, appearances and all, they come up with little at the end of each year.

The harshness, the wolfish individual suspicion and loneliness of the colony are apparent at once but hard to understand at first. Old friends from back yonder are met at arm's length after years for fear of rivalry. Only a few great souls with great earnings have the bigness and courage to be kind to a newcomer who may want no help. Successful men and women fear, hate and suspect one another. There is no Bohemian ease and fun anywhere.

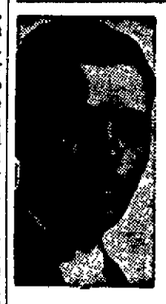
Get drunk? Between pictures, maybe. But not with the fellow in the next booth who is out of a job or a Johnny-come-lately fighting his way up. He may be a genius, a great actor, director, dramatist or designer, but don't encourage him. Tell him nothing, mislead him, if possible, for he may be after your contract.

Art? Comradship? A bottle of wine and a hunk of cheese with an unknown? Where do you think you are? On the left bank?



Hollywood Speaks—

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—Dolores Del Rio came back from her north African vacation with a new Paris-designed wardrobe of "Arab influence" and tips for tea-drinkers and for Greta Garbo.

Over a cup of tea (three sugars, no lemon, no cream) dark-eyed Dolores grew ecstatic over the beverage as served in Morocco and Algeria. With mint, she said, and "so deleecious, so refreshing."

She was wearing a sample of the "Arab influence"—a combination hat and shawl of vivid print, a burnoose over which was a broad brim of black straw. It was so tricky that I had to give up figuring it out until she obligingly dismantled the thing and then, with the deft jab of a pin, assembled it again. Verdict: it looked all right on her, but then most things do.

She explained it: "Since I'd been in Africa, I thought it would be fun to have my things reflect the vacation. All of them were done especially for me—by Talbot and Reboux."

And so, girls, if you start wearing more of the same, you can blame Dolores and her two-months' vacation. But by the time those models get into the shops—if the look in Dolores' eyes meant anything—Dolores will be wearing something else. I think the lady makes a game of it.

That tip for Garbo? Oh, yes, the native cities, where there are no movies.

"Recognize me there?" Dolores repeated the question, laughing. "Not a soul. They have never heard of anyone in Hollywood—even Garbo could hide out there indefinitely and realize her wish to be let alone. And for persons who might be afflicted with excessive egotism because of Hollywood success, let me recommend those towns—those lovely native towns!"

In a chartered plane, with a French pilot, Dolores and husband Cedric Gibbons "did" the obscure villages and towns as well as the cosmopolitan centers like Casablanca. She took about eight reels of color film in her miniature camera, but with no co-operation from the natives.

"I would take out my camera in a colorful street," she lamented, "and before I could start taking pictures the natives would have disappeared. They distrust or fear the camera.

"They don't miss the movies. They have story-tellers, in the native bazaars."

"I never thought of pictures—not once!" she said emphatically. "That was what made it a marvelous vacation. I think we all should get away from Hollywood—often—to see how life goes on outside. And when we go to Europe, we should go to Africa too. So few people think of it, and it's only three hours by plane from Naples. It was, oh, lovely—in Marekesh we landed in the midst of a typhus epidemic. A thousand people had died, but I told Cedric we might never come again, and shouldn't miss it then. We stayed five days!"

FOUR-DAY FOOD FASHION REVUE OPENS TUESDAY

Housewives—This Is Your Invitation to Attend Daily Sessions at Ohio Theater, Learn Latest Cookery Methods and Newest Recipes.

Attention, Mrs. Housewife! This is a formal invitation from the News-Journal to you personally to attend the Food Fashion Revue which will be held at the Ohio theater this week; a cordial invitation to sit in on the smartest, most up-to-date food and home-making school of the year.

A parade of mannequins wearing the last word in spring fashions is no more up-to-the-minute than the parade of new dishes, new methods of cookery, new economies, that will be presented for four mornings, starting at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow at the Ohio theater.

The News-Journal's annual cooking school takes on importance each year as the crowds increase and better demonstrations are offered. Remember the Foods of All Nations schools that was held last year? The Food Fashion Revue this year is expected to be even better.

The Mansfield merchants and food concerns are co-operating to make the 1938 school the best that has ever been held in the city.

Conducting the school will be Miss Ruth Chambers, lecturer, cooking expert and dietitian, who is a member of the National Live Stock and Meat board, and who knows as much about beef anatomy as your favorite butcher.

Demonstrates Recipes.

During the four days Miss Chambers will demonstrate dozens of new recipes, which include a wide variety of meat dishes, including many economy cuts. She shows how to prepare each dish, step by step, and at the end of the session all of the dishes prepared are displayed, by use of mirrors, so that everyone can see them "fore and aft".

A cook book containing the recipes for the dishes prepared on the program, is given away each day to every woman who attends, so that women in the audience won't need to bother trying to take down recipes in note books during the school. The books also contain menus built around the dishes demonstrated, and guides in shopping for all kinds of meats.

The housewife who attends every session will have, when the school is complete, a new dish for every day for almost three months—which should do away with the home maker's daily plaint of "I wish I could think of something different for today!"

Each day's program is carefully planned by Miss Chambers and her assistant, Miss Emily Conklin. Tomorrow's opening session will be a general get-acquainted program, with the lecture giving a practical talk and demonstration of meat cuts. The second day will be built around the theme of "Fitting Foods to Figures". Not only will she give dishes for women who have to count their calories but for those who want to take on a few pounds. No freak diets will be offered, but health suggestions for retaining one's vitality while the excess poundage is being lost.

Offers Economy Ideas.

The third program on Thursday will be "Meals For Streamlined Pocketbooks". The economy is quite painless however, according to Miss Chambers, for inexpensive dishes can be quite as attractive and tasty as the luxuries. There will be suggestions for broiled beef patties with bacon, curried lamb and pork and noodle casserole, for instance, in which the cheaper meat cuts are used.

On the fourth day Miss Chambers and her assistant really "go to town" for the program is on party menus, and here again the lecturer keeps an eye on the pocketbook. She points out that inexpensive spaghetti and meat balls can make a reputation for a hostess as easily as gorgeous salads and desserts.

Pineapple angel pie is going to be a sensation in the Mansfield social whirl after the school, and some envious guest is going to ask a hostess for the recipe for that Alabama spoon-bread.

The entire school, which is free to the women of this district, has been planned with an eye to covering the most territory in a limited time, and giving the housewife the most for her time.

Don't forget the time. Mrs. Housewife — every morning from 9:15 to 11 a. m.

Don't forget the place—the Ohio theater.

Don't forget the purpose — to please you.

SEARS TO SHOW COOKER, WASHER

Kook-Kwick, Kenmore Brands to Be Demonstrated at Food Fashion Revue.

For their contribution to the exhibit of household articles, the Sears, Roebuck retail stores are showing a Kook-Kwick pressure cooker and the Kenmore washer at the Food Fashion Revue being sponsored by the News-Journal at the Ohio theater beginning Tuesday at 9:15 a. m.

Miss Ruth Chambers and Miss Emily Conklin, demonstrators, will give recipes daily which may be used in any one of the six various sizes of the cooker which was demonstrated by H. D. Devitt all last week at the Sears store. Each cooker, which is made of heavy cast aluminum, includes a pan for cooking vegetables, two twin pans for baking or stewing, a ventilation rack and other equipment such as a cook book which gives recipes and specific times for cooking.

Among the advantages of the new 1938 pressure cooker are that it may be used over any type of heat, it cooks three times as fast as any other method, it retains full flavor, vitamins and mineral salts, it cooks without water, eliminates dishes, and prepares an entire meal at one time over one burner.

As different from the old type of washer as the first "horseless carriage" from the modern stream lined motor car, is the new all-white Kenmore Washer on display at the Food Fashion Revue which begins tomorrow. Both the inside and outside of this machine, which is equipped with a silent mechanism and doesn't require any oiling, are finished in a lifetime finish white enameled metal.

Other important features of the 60-pound dry capacity machine include the new touch-a-bar safety wringer release, self-adjusting squeeze-dry rolls and a wire-brushed aluminum agitator with safest water washing action.

Directs Annual Cooking School

Miss Ruth Chambers, nationally known as a cooking expert, lecturer on home making, and as a writer on home economics, will direct the four daily sessions of The News-Journal's annual cooking school at the Ohio theater this week. She is a graduate of the University of Wisconsin and was a dietitian in a Chicago hospital before entering the commercial field of food and equipment demonstration. She has conducted highly successful cooking schools throughout the United States during the past several years. As a member of the National Live Stock and Meat board, she is an expert in meant cuts and meat cookery, and during her Food Fashion Revue in Mansfield will demonstrate the latest and best methods of preparing meat dishes.

BASEBALL AND MUSIC FAVORITE PASTIME OF THIS FOOD EXPERT

What kind of a person is Miss Ruth Chambers, who will conduct The News-Journal cooking school at the Ohio theater this week? What are her interests aside from her work? What does she do when she isn't lecturing on cooking?

Knowing that women are always filled with a friendly curiosity about the woman who conducts the cooking schools, a News-Journal representative took a freshly sharpened pencil and a neat little notebook and sought out the busy and efficient person in white apron back stage at the Ohio theater today, preparing her stage for tomorrow's opening.

You're going to guess that her favorite pastime is cooking—but it isn't. Nor is it traveling.

"When I have a vacation," she said, "I like to sit by the radio with some knitting in my hands, listening either to a fast baseball game or good piano music. Gadding around the country doesn't appeal to me a bit—I get enough of that during the cooking school tours."

Miss Chambers was born and raised in a small city in southern Wisconsin, the eldest of a family of five children.

Girls who don't like to help with the dishes and the cooking at home "because there's no future in it," should harken to the tale of this successful professional woman's start.

"I helped with the house work from the time I was eight years old, and I baked my first cherry pie when I was 12. You see I'd been rolling bits of pastry from the time I was a baby. Turning to cooking in later years as a profession was the most natural thing in the world for me.

"I majored in chemistry and dietetics at the University of Wisconsin and my first job was in a Chicago hospital as a dietitian. But believe me, no one is a 'born cook.' It's a good old expression for women who have a natural aptitude for combining foods, but a good cook is developed through study and practical experience.

"And women are turning more and more to study of foods. Everywhere I go hundreds of women attend cooking schools religiously every day. Housewives today are no more satisfied to go along in the same rut of cookery than they are to wear the same hat or dress year after year. Fashions in foods change with the times, which has a tendency to keep women on their toes as regards their kitchen work."

Miss Chambers' own preference of all food is pastry, but she'd rather prepare roast beef than any other dish. Her favorite menu is a simple one but makes you hungry just to think of it: Lamb riblets with green beans; carrots and onions for fresh vegetables; a lettuce and tomato salad; bread and butter; fresh fruit and coffee.

But she has a lot of new recipes up those trim white sleeves which she will give to Mansfield housewives this week.

Orange and tomato juices lose much of their nutritive value after they have been exposed to the air for several hours. Consequently it is a good plan to prepare them just before serving—to buy them in cans which hold an amount that will be quickly consumed after they are opened.

'BEST SERVANT'

Kitchen Telephone to Form Part of Cooking School.

"The Housewives Best Servant," the telephone, will be displayed in the model kitchen to be constructed on the Ohio theater stage for The News-Journal's cooking school which opens tomorrow morning.

One of the latest models of kitchen telephones will be installed on the stage by the Mansfield Telephone company and will be used by Miss Ruth Chambers, food lecturer, to show how drudgery can be taken out of housework.

With an extension telephone in the kitchen, the housewife can save herself extra steps by ordering her groceries and other supplies direct from the kitchen instead of going to another part of the house. It also saves the housewife from running to another part of the house to answer the telephone while in the midst of baking.

'LADY CARROL' HOSIERY TO BE KOBACKER'S FASHION FEATURE

When you ask a woman what are the two prime requisites of hosiery she will tell you durability and sheerness are the absolute requirements. That is why Kobacker's are featuring "Lady Carrol" hosiery at the News-Journal Food Fashion Revue starting tomorrow at the Ohio theater.

Miss Ruth Chambers, home economist and demonstrator, endorses these stockings because they are constructed to rigid specifications which give longer satisfactory wear without sacrificing sheer beauty.

Selecting just the right shade for spring wear is an easy matter at Kobacker's for there is a large stock in all sizes and in the popular new colors including Rey, Tropic Tan, Tan Bark, Cruise Tan, Blush, Sun Blush, Apricot and Dusk.

House dresses and maid's uniforms will be specially featured at the Kobacker store all this week in connection with the store's exhibit of home frocks at the News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which begins tomorrow at 9:15 a. m. at the Ohio theater. Among the thousands of new house dresses in stock the store is showing styles made in fast color prints, sheers, sport piques and cord lace.

There are four distinct merits of these dresses which are being featured in the Revue. These merits are value, washability, style and material. The dresses being shown are appropriate for sports wear, marketing, the home, or various out-door affairs during the warm months.

In addition there is a large selection of uniforms in white and colors which many housewives select for personal wear or for their household employes.

EXHIBITS APEX

Mets' Budget Store Displays Washer at Theater.

The new Apex electric sweepers will be demonstrated by Miss Ruth Chambers at the Ohio theater this week when The News-Journal presents the "Food Fashion Show."

Features of the new Apex, distributed by Met's Budget store, North Walnut street, are the forward rotating brush, pres-toe adjuster and the self-steering handle.

All these are combined in a light-weight sweeper, very convenient for the housewife to use in her daily cleaning.

The Apex also have on the market two feather-weight hand cleaners, cleaning tools to get the dirt from hard-to-reach places.

The Met's Budget store is also distributor for the Apex refrigerator, washers and ironers, Frigidaire Electric ranges and Philco radios.

CHAPTER IX.

"Darling Algy, you are the scandal of the moment. Did you know? Half everybody is saying you've sold all Monty's secrets to the Bolshevists, and that you're going to be shot at dawn in the Tower—and, darling, if you are, you will see about my having a front seat, won't you? Because what's the good of being a relation if it doesn't give you a pull?"

Algy laughed. "I'll make a point of it. What are the other half saying?"

"That you're as pure as the driven snow," said Linda "Algy, darling, do, do please tell us all about it. And if you did sell them, do tell me how, and where, and what you got for them because I might try and collect something myself—I'm most awfully hard up. If I got Monty in a melting mood, I might get something out of him."

"Not you," said Giles—"he hates you like sin."

"Does he hate sin?" said the dark young man.

Algy said. "Apparently." He owed Linda something.

"Yes, isn't it a shame?" she said. "And all because someone told him I said that it gave me the jitters to think of ever having another horse's neck—after meeting Maud, you know. And I adored them before, and some one told Monty, and he's been dead cuts with me ever since Not my fault, how Maud looks—now is it? But Algy, my angel, you haven't confided in us. Did you sell Monty, or didn't you? And what did you get for it? And are they going to shoot you at dawn?"

"The sentence has been commuted to an evening with you, my dear. Death by tongue—pricks—a nasty lingering affair. Be kind and get it over. Perhaps Giles will tell me what I am supposed to have done.

Fatal for Giles to hesitate, but he did—almost but not quite imperceptibly. Then he came in with a gay, "You would be the last to hear about it. It's the most marvelous tale—all the Cabinet secrets gone down the drain, and your's the hand that loosed the plug."

Algy threw back his head and laughed It took him all he knew, but quite suddenly in the middle of it there came a strange rushing conviction that he was going to come out on top. He linked his arm with Mary Craster's and said, "Marvelous! Poor Monty—has any one broken it to him?"

Linda hung affectionately on his other arm.

"Darling, will he have to come to see you shot? In the front row. With Maud. He'll simply hate it—won't he? So humanitarian. But I suppose he'll have to. Home Secretaries do, don't they?"

"Too much imagination, my dear," said Algy. "Go and write a dime novel."

Linda shook her head. "No, I'm going to do an anonymous autobiography. You know, Malice in Mayfair, or Velvet and Venom, or—"

"Lispings of a Liar," said Giles rudely.

"Jealous!" said Linda. "He won't be jealous about me, but he'd hate me to write a book—wouldn't you, darling?"

"Well, I'd have to settle up for the libel action And if you don't stop making love to Algy I shall probably break his head Woman, your guests arrive. Behave!"

"It'll be Sylvia Colesborough," said Linda.

The front door of the flat opened and shut again. The maid announced, "Lady Colesborough and Mr. Rooster."

Sylvia came in without hurry. She wore a pale gold frock. She had a radiance. The lights shone on her. Cyril Brewster, thin, dark, and earnest, followed her into the room. Linda surveyed him with surprise.

"Oh, Linda darling!" Sylvia kissed her. "I do hope you don't mind, but Francis couldn't come He got a telephone call — from Birmingham, I think — they're generally from Birmingham — and he had to rush off. I do think being in business is a bore. But, darling, I'm afraid I've made rather a muddle, because I'd written you down for tomorrow, so I was going to dine with Mr. Brewster, but when Francis said he couldn't come I remembered—you know how one does all of a sudden—so I thought if I brought him along it wouldn't put your table out"

Mr. Brewster looked decidedly unhappy. The soul of correctness, he was being placed in a position which was irregular if not actually incorrect. The lady's husband had been asked. He was not the lady's husband. Far from it. He had met her only three times, and she had really given him no choice; she had simply brought him. Instead of her husband. And now it appeared that her husband hadn't been asked either. Lady Colesborough had always known he was going to be away.

"You said so all along, Sylvia—you know you did," said Linda, with an edge on her voice. Because really Sylvia was the limit, and the table could just be got to hold eight, but definitely wouldn't take nine. Well, it had to—that was all. And anyhow it would make a frightfully good story, Sylvia trailing in about twenty minutes late with that awful stick Cyril and apologizing for Francis who hadn't been asked. She pushed aside Cyril's painstaking politeness with a laugh.

"The more the merrier, and if there isn't enough to go 'round, it shall be Giles. Or he and Algy can take it by turns. There's going to be too much of both of them if they don't watch it."

Amid indignant protests the door opened. Food began to come in, and they sorted themselves. The table stretched, as tables do, and there was plenty to eat, as there was always in Linda's house. She adored food, and could have lived on cream and potatoes without ever putting on a quarter of an ounce Gay racketing talk went and fro. The red-haired girl, whose name was Muriel, told them she had been staying in a nudist colony and had felt an urge toward criminoliness and large Victorian shawls ever since. She was wearing a shawl now, bright green and Spanish, and her very full black taffeta skirts swept the floor. Giles' friend with the superiority complex looked moody and said nothing. His name was Cedric, and his infatuation for the lively red-haired Muriel had reached a point at which it was a fiery torment to himself and a source of extreme boredom to every one else. Muriel's reactions those of the eternal feminine—a desire to prod, to poke, to stir the fire, and drop fresh fuel on the flame. Giles was hating her, and Linda despising him. The talk leaped flashing to and fro from pointed tongues.

Nobody said anything more about Algy He was grateful, but he wondered why, discerning ultimately a queer substratum of loyalty that closed the ranks—and the tongues—against the outsider Because Brewster — well there he was, just Brewster, Monty's Industrious Apprentice, not quite one of themselves. Algy would be thrown only to his own wolf pack to rend. And who said dog didn't eat dog? Wait and see.

More people came in after dinner. They played darts, and shove-half penny, and the ancinet, never-dying games of Love and Scandal in their most up-to-date forms—fewer words to the game, but the same call of the eye, the same lift ofthe eyebrow that beckoned a man or killed a reputation in Egypt, Greece or Rome two thousand years ago.

Sylvia couldn't throw a dart straight to save her life She regarded shove-halfpenny with horror. Why handle coppers if you hadn't got to? She didn't play the other games either. Algy took her to the window, lifted a bright green curtain, and let it fall again behind them.

"Look out here. Wait a minute till you can see. It's worth while."

They looked down as from a cliff on the dark tops of trees, all moving in a wind which made no sound. More trees, Black houses away on the other side of the square, with bright lines showing here and there where a blind fell short of a curtain did not meet, and just one window high up, bright and bare, with a black shadow coming and going in the room behind. And the river away to the left. Lights on it, moving lights, and a dark, slow stream, and the line of houses beyond, like an escarpment, blank and sheer.

To look out like this at night was to be soothed, consoled, assured of things immeasurably old and permanent — London — the river—trees and clouds—houses where people kindled fires from the same flame of hope which burned forever and did not burn away. Things went on. You were up against it, you sweated blood, you won perhaps. And the game went on. Meanwhile this moment was good Seen, Sylvia delighted and satisfied the eye Unseen, she had the gift of silence. She stood with her shoulder touching his and leaned a little upon the sill, but did not speak The good moment was shared At least that is how it seemed to Algy He heard the faintest of faint sighs, and thought it a tribute to the night

"It's pretty good, isn't it?" he said.

"All those trees—and the river—like the country—" But her voice was flat.

Almost horrible suspicion entered Algy's mind. "Don't you like the country?"

"Oh, no Surprise enlivened her tone "Oh, no, I hate it—don't you? Especially in the dark Why, I lived in the country for years It was dreadful. I think I'd like to go back into the room if you don't mind—I do rather hate the dark"

Algy held the curtain and saw her pass beyond it. The light caught her gold hair and her gold dress as she went. But he did not follow her. He had been going to ask her about the Wessex-Gardners' week-end party but there would be time for that He dropper the curtain, and turned to the river again

From behind him in a sudden fierce whisper came the voice of Cedric Blake 'Muriel it's no use—I can't stand it—you'll have to'"

The whisper broke and close by the curtain the red-haired girl laughed under her breath

"You're driving me mad'"

"I? You're driving yourself." Her voice was scornful

The curtain swayed inwards. Algy thought there was a snatched embrace. Muriel's voice came in a pricking undertone.

"If you do that again—"

"What will you do?"

She gave a sudden melting laugh. "I really don't know. Come and throw a dart."

Algy heaved a sigh of relief. He was about to lift the curtain and emerge, when he heard his own name. Mary Craster said with tears in her voice. "It's perfectly horrible. How can they. I love Algy."

"Bless you, my dear," said Algy to himself.

It was James who was with Mary, and the inarriculate James was moved to reply, "So do I."

They moved away.

Algy stood frowning behind the curtain. As bad as that, was it?

He heard Sylvia say sweetly and wearily: "Oh, Mr. Brewster—how kind! I would love a chair. I don't think I like sitting on the floor very much. You see, I don't want to spoil my dress."

"It's a very beautiful dress," said the earnest voice of Cyril Brewster. "It is almost worthy, if I may say so, of its wearer."

Algy controlled an inward spasm. What a—Algy sought the right word—what a—what a fatuous—what a bromidic—but there were so many better adjectives.

"That's very nice of you," said Sylvia with evident pleasure.

This was the moment for Algy to come out. But the temptation to hear more of Cyril in a complimentary mood was too much for him. With his hands on the curtain he dallied, and was rewarded.

"There is a very beautiful line in the Idylls of the King," pursued Mr. Brewster — "an extremely beautiful line in which some one—a man I think—expresses himself to the effect that he loves that beauty should go beautifully. I am almost sure that it was a man, and that the lady's name was Enid, in which case it was from the poem entitled Enid and Geraint—. I cannot be entirely certain that my memory is accurate, as it is a good many years since I opened my Tennyson."

"I have a dreadful memory too," said Sylvia comfortably.

Algy blessed her, and would have given a good deal to see Cyril's face. He ought to come out though. His hand went to the curtain and stayed there, because Sylvia was saying, "is there something wrong about Mr Somers? I thought he was so nice."

"Oh, there's nothing, Lady Colesborough —nothing at all," Brewster answered her, politely embarrassed. "I really don't know who could have given you such an impression."

"Linda," said Sylvia — "Mrs. Westgate, you know. I said how much I liked him and I thought I'd ask him to go to the Kensington's dance next week, and she said better not, and Francis wouldn't like it, but she wouldn't say why."

"Oh, but I assure you—"

Algy began to edge away towards the second window. He lost Cyril's embarrassed defence, but he managed to emerge from behind the curtain without being noticed.

* * *

Sylvia sat lightly on one of the chromium-plated chairs in her golden dress Mr Brewster occupied a jade-greed cushion at her feet. Neither the color nor the attitude became him. Darts were flying There was a constant babble of voices.

Algy found James Craster.

"Here," he said, "I want to know how serious is this damned story—for me, I mean?"

James was large, and fair, and taciturn. He took thought, and produced reluctant words.

"Damned serious. I'm afraid."

"People are believing it?"

"Perhaps not today. But tomorrow they'll be spreading it. Saying, 'Suppose he did.' Next day it'll be, 'Well, I always thought.' That's how it goes. Unless it's stopped Get Lushington to stop it. That's my advice"

A "SLIGHT COLD" YESTERDAY

TODAY...

He was around and about yesterday. Not feeling so bad. Just a bit groggy and headachy.

It wasn't anything to worry about. He'd be all right in a day or two.

But today . . . !

Today he's a "grave case."

That's the history of many a "common cold."

It starts as something "light," but before you know it, it has turned into something else.

Authorities Say A Cold Is An Internal Infection!

If there is anything that demands prompt and intelligent attention, it is the "common cold."

A cold, authorities say, is an internal infection. It's an infection within your system caused by a virus or imperceptible germ.

A cold, therefore, calls for internal treatment.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets) are effective treatment for a cold—for several definite reasons.

In the first place, they're a cold treatment and not a cure-all. They're made expressly for colds and for nothing else.

Four Important Effects

1. They open the bowels, an admittedly important step in treating a cold.
2. They help check the infection in the system.
3. They relieve the headache and fever due to colds.
4. They help tone the system and throw off the effects of the cold.

The Stand-by of Millions

Grove's Bromo Quinine tablets have been in use for over 40 years and are the world's largest-selling cold tablet.

They are the stand-by of millions, a fact that proves them safe as well as effective.

When you've got a cold, do the wise thing—take Bromo Quinine tablets.

These famous tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain. You can get them at any drug store.

Ask for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets) and resent a substitute.

COMMON SURFACE PIMPLES

Ugly pimples on the skin surface often disappear with the help of Resinol Soap and Ointment. Use both.

To Win You Must Have Energy

Weakness and mental dullness can be caused by constipation. Just as it also can produce headaches, sleeplessness, loss of appetite, mental depression.

You can see how vital is proper elimination. So, if more than one day goes by without it, assist Nature. Use Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is mild, gentle, and thoroughly effective. It also stimulates the liver's secretion of bile without the discomfort of drastic or irritating drugs.

Millions take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for this rare combination of gentleness and effectiveness. Use them in safeguarding your own welfare. 15¢, 30¢ and 60¢ at all druggists.

RETAILERS TO HEAR WHAT'S NEW IN MEAT

Specialist of National Live Stock Board to Speak at Meeting Tonight.

Tonight is the night set apart for the merchandising school for retailers of this city and the surrounding territory.

In charge of this school and appearing in the role of lecturer and meat artist, is P. A. Goeser, specialist of the National Live Stock and Meat board, a nationally known authority in this field.

Goeser, who asserts that more has been revealed about meat in the past 15 years than in all previous history, will explain these newer findings at a meeting of retailers tonight at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. W. A. Weitzman, Mansfield representative of Swift & Company, will be chairman of the session.

Lecturer on Program.

Also appearing on the retailer program will be Miss Ruth Chambers, cooking school lecturer who will be in charge of The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which opens tomorrow morning at the Ohio theater.

Goeser asserts that food merchandising has undergone a revolution. Today, every effort is being made in the retail field to supply what the consumer wants. Meat merchandising to be effective, must follow these new trends.

"As specialists of the board," says Goeser, "it is our business to study the wants of the housewife and to keep in touch with modern methods of retailing. We contact thousands of housewives each year who attend our meat lecture-demonstrations. We visit retail markets in cities from coast to coast, go behind counters and study the retailer's methods. Through these many contacts we learn what the housewife desires in meat. We learn of sales ideas that are successful. This information is made available to other retailers in our merchandising schools across the country."

In connection with the merchandising school, Goeser will explain many of these newer ideas. He will make effective use of some brand new colored beef, pork and lamb charts showing the various cuts and methods of cooking each cut. He will also use charts showing the high food value of meat, and will explain the board's new meat advertising copy service for retailers

Select pot-holders that are easy to launder and large enough to protect your hands. Hang a generous supply of them near the stove—or keep them in a nearby drawer.

Make the rod-casings and hems of your glass curtains the same width. They may then be reversed to distribute the wear more evenly.

An Artist With the Knife

Paul A. Goeser, merchandising specialist of the National Livestock and Meat board, is shown above preparing to convert a fore quarter of beef into an array of modern, attractive beef cuts. Such cuts are proving extremely popular with housewives all over the United States. Goeser appears tonight before a mass meeting of retailers at the Mansfield-Leland hotel just previous to the Food Fashion Revue Cooking School and also on the cooking school program which gets under way tomorrow morning and continues four days.

'LITTLE CROW' PANCAKE FLOUR INCLUDED IN DEMONSTRATIONS

One of Manfield's oldest business establishments is the Albert F. Remy company, 320 North Diamond street, jobbers and distributors of staple foods and household products.

A Remy specialty — "Little Crow" pancake flour — will be used exclusively by Miss Ruth Chambers, home economist and demonstrator at The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which opens tomorrow and continues for four days at the Ohio theater.

Manufactured with both buckwheat and wheat, "Little Crow" flour is convenienet and economical. With it, the housewife can prepare a tasty breakfast in short order and at small cost.

The Remy company supplies standard grocery items for many retail stores in this area, including the Square Deal Independent grocers. Through its satisfactory dealings with retailers, the Remy company annually increases its scope in the Mansfield area and has shown rapid growth in the past 20 years.

ISALY PRODUCTS

Cooking School to Be Supplied by Mansfield Dairy.

Dairy products of the Isaly Dairy company will be used exclusively by Miss Ruth Chambers in her demonstrations at all sessions of The News-Journal's Food Fashion Revue, opening tomorrow at the Ohio theater.

On each of the four days, Isaly's will supply the school with its pasteurized milk and cream in addition to butter and cottage cheese.

Isaly's "cellophane protected" milk and cream, the same that is delivered to the home each day will be used by Miss Chambers in her demonstrations, in the making of cakes, biscuits and other baked and raw products.

EXHIBIT COFFEE ROASTED HERE

Cooking School to Use Better Cup Brand and Bissman's Canned Vegetables.

When the Food Fashion Revue, sponsored by the News-Journal, opens tomorrow at the Ohio theater, Miss Ruth Chambers will have on hand quantities of Better Cup Coffee, roasted and blended by the Bissman company, wholesale grocers, to use in her demonstrations.

Better Cup brand coffee is selected from the best of imported coffee beans and is roasted and blended at the Bissman plant in one of the largest roasting machines in the state. This plant is also considered one of the most modern in the country. The coffee is roasted and packed fresh daily and delivered to all independent food stores in Mansfield and grocery stores within a trading territory of 65 miles.

The Bissman company has been a roaster of coffee in this city for more than 50 years.

The company also will exhibit 14 different varieties of canned vegetables of the Birdie brand which it distributes.

Items being used at the cooking school are distributed by the company through the independent merchants in this city and in nearby stores.

The Birdie brand vegetables are noted for their freshness and full flavor. They are grown in Michigan and canned near the vegetable tracts so that the minimum of time is taken from the picking to packing.

Machineless Wave Gets Endorsement Of Fashion Revue

Are you one of the women who sadly wails, "Oh, I need a new permanent so badly, but I just dread that heat"? If you are, your troubles are over, for in connection with the Food Fashion Revue sponsored by the News-Journal, the Maurice Beauty shop is featuring a new Koolox wave.

The show, which starts tomorrow morning in the Ohio theater, is endorsing this machineless wave which has no wires, no electrical gadgets and is one of the simplest and most comfortable methods yet devised.

The Koolox is a long lasting wave and a hairdress which is not destroyed by the comb and brush. Then too, if it is style, either in your new permanent or in your week-end wave that you seek, Maurice, proprietor of the shop, is in a position to arrange your hair according to the latest fashions.

Maurice is a member of the Lady America Guild, leader in fashionable hair style, and as soon as new fashions are shown in the capitals of the United States or Europe he has them and is prepared to copy them for his patrons.

NUTS HELP MAKE TASTY DISHES

Bates' Two Stores Specialize In Double K-N Brand.

The use of nuts in arranging the family diet by the thrifty housewife, will be demonstrated by Miss Ruth Chambers, home economist at The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue that opens tomorrow at the Ohio theater.

In Mansfield, the Bates confectionary shop, at 5 West Fourth street, and at the Third Street Market, specializes in the famous double K-N toasted nuts.

Besides a full line of nationally known candies, Bates handles a complete selection of cigars, cigarets, tobaccos and pipes, as well as daily, weekly and monthly magazines and newspapers.

"THANK YOU . . . MISS CHAMBERS!"

Today Miss Ruth Chambers visited our market, preparatory to the cooking school. The moment she stepped inside the door, she exclaimed, "What a nice market!" Honestly, that short sentence, coming from a lady who has no doubt been in hundreds of food markets during the course of her lectures, pleased us immensely . . . and the words of praise she gave us on Honor Brand Frozen Foods pleased us immensely also. So we thank you Miss Chambers, again.

KITCHEN GETS A NEW 'DRESS'

Experts at Sherwin Williams Offer Painting Ideas to Brighten 'Workshop.'

The kitchen is becoming more and more the nerve center of the modern home.

Housewives are dressing their workshops with attractive and colorful paint schemes to make them bright, gay and entertaining.

Kitchen designing experts of the Sherwin-Williams company, Park avenue west, are prepared to help the modern housewife select paints and color schemes to lighten the daily task.

Dealer in paint and wallpapers, the Sherwin-Williams company offers a host of ideas to turn the "drudgery spot" of the home into a room that will steal many of the honors the living room claims.

They can also make suggestions to make surroundings more conducive to performance of household tasks and cooking.

The company have pamphlets that provide a store of ideas for color schemes and in arranging kitchen equipment to make the room more attractive. These booklets are available at the company store free of charge.

The new 1938 wallpaper patterns, in many gay colors, and for all rooms in the house, are on display at this time. Employes are schooled to help the housewife select the proper paper to go with the new color scheme of her kitchen or other rooms.

BEST BEAUTY AID IS SIMPLEST— JUST CLEANSE SKIN TWICE A DAY

The best beauty treatment in the world is one of the simplest—cleanse the skin thoroughly at least twice a day. It sounds so easy that of course you'll say, "Oh but I do!"

Yet it's a fact that tiny particles of stale powder and rouge, dust and dirt left in the pores after improper cleansing cause tiny blemishes, enlarged pores, dull, lifeless-looking skin. Indeed, choked pores are the cause of that common complexion trouble—cosmetic skin.

What every girl needs who uses cosmetics—and who doesn't in this modern day and age?—is a mild, pure toilet soap with a really active lather, one that penetrates deep into the pores, removes cosmetics thoroughly. There's an inexpensive soap that does this so well that famous Hollywood stars have used it for years. It is Lux toilet soap which will be exhibited during the News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which opens tomorrow at the Ohio ttheater.

Here's the way to really protect your skin: Work up a good foamy lather with this beauty soap, directly on the face (or use a washcloth if you prefer.) Allow it to remain for a moment while the active lather sinks deep into the pores. Rinse with warm water, and finish by patting the entire face briskly with cold water.

Use this care before applying new make-up, and always before you go to bed. It's fatal to apply new make-up over old, because dust and stale cosmetics are worked more deeply into the pores. And don't ever skip a thorough cleansing at night! This is the time when your pores have a real chance to breathe.

The same white soap that guards your complexion is excellent for your daily beauty bath, too. It removes stale perspiration, every trace of dust and dirt, leaves skin soft and fragrant; makes you sure of daintiness.

PRINTS COOKING SCHOOL PROGRAM

Rickets And Nichols Concern, One Oldest In Mansfield.

Program and recipes which visitors at the four-day session of The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue will receive were printed by the Rickets and Nichols Printing company, and are testimonials to quality printing that the firm has turned out for years in Mansfield.

Located on the second floor of The News-Journal building, the printing company offers job printing of all varieties, including show cards, posters, as well as programs, letter heads, social stationery, and business cards.

The firm, one of the oldest established concerns in Mansfield, is operated by R. H. Rickets and Charles Nichols.

HEADQUARTERS FOR FURNITURE

Jones Piano House Offers 3 Large Floors of Home Furnishings.

Located next door to the Ohio theater, where The News-Journal's Food Fashion Revue will be held four days this week, the W. E. Jones Piano House is headquarters in north central Ohio for home furnishings.

The Jones store, which has been operated in Mansfield for more than 30 years, has large floors of furniture, rugs, bedding and other home equipment.

During the four days of the cooking school, the store will display an exhibit of Balyeat mattresses, made in Mansfield. Jones' also handle Simmons Beauty Rest, Palmer Quilted and Sealy mattresses.

For the person who plans to equip a new home from basement to attic or for the prospective purchaser of an occasional article for the home, the Jones store can supply the need. Among the famous brands of furniture found in the displays are the American, Berkey and Gay, Cushman and Heywood-Wakefield.

That artistic touch which is sought by many home builders can be found in the Jones stock of lamps in varied designs and finishes, and in the rug department where such famous labels as Mohawk, Whittall, Alexander Smith and Karaghusian are displayed.

The purchaser can use the Jones convenient budget plan of purchase which keeps all business dealings within the local organization without sending them through an outside finance institution.

Inflammations caused by insect bites may be removed by covering the inflamed area with a paste made of equal parts of soda and salt, moistened with warm water. The paste should be held in place with a tight bandage.

Clean bathroom or kitchen tiles, linoleum, porcelain tubs or sinks with kerosene applied on a soft cloth. It will give the surfaces added luster.

. . . FOODS — New Ideas for an Old Art — RECIPES . . .

Soup May Be Prologue For Main Dish

By RUTH CHAMBERS

Soup may be the curtain raiser to the program of your dinner or it may be the main part of the repast. The kind of soup you select will depend upon whether you intend the soup course to stimulate the appetite or completely satisfy it. There's nothing better than a good soup to perform either role.

A clear soup, such as consomme or bouillon, arouses appetite through its taste and aroma, but it has little food value.

On the other hand, there are thick soups which are a good meal in themselves. Others, like cream soups, rank somewhere in between and may be used advantageously to make a light meal more hearty.

Soups With Meat Flavor.

The two general classifications of soup are those made with a meat stock base and those made without stock. Cream soups are usually made without stock, but sometimes stock is added to give them flavor.

It is the flavor of meat which is extracted for meat stock. For this reason, cuts containing the maximum amount of flavor are used. A shank of beef or a cut through the lower part of the round is excellent.

The meat should be cut in small pieces and the bones crushed. The meat should be covered with cold water and salt is added at the beginning of the cooking process. The meat is simmered for a long time. Spices and vegetables are cooked in the broth to season the stock.

French Keep Soup Kettle.

Clever and thrifty French cooks keep a soup kettle on the fire and into this kettle go bits of meat and vegetables and seasonings which might otherwise be wasted, and these cook slowly so that their flavor goes into the stock. This serves as the basis of a variety of soups.

Bouillon is made from beef, and while vegetables may be cooked in it for flavor it is served clear.

Consomme is made from a combination of meat usually beef and veal, sometimes also ham. It is served with a wide variety of garnishes.

Among the best-known is consomme Julienne, which consists of regular consomme to which thin, match-like strips of vegetables, such as turnip, carrot and celery are added.

Keep Garnishes Small.

Consomme is also garnished with rice, pastes such as spaghetti, Italian paste in fancy shapes, macaroni, noodles and vermicelli.

Vegetables used for a garnish with consomme should be cut evenly and cooked in a small amount of liquid. The amount in each plate of consomme is small, but a tablespoonful for consomme is never a hearty dish.

Tureen Back in Fashion.

The old-fashioned soup tureen has staged a real come-back in popular favor. It is quite the smart thing these days for the hostess to serve the soup at the table from one of these tureens.

Split Pea Soup.

2 cups dried peas
3 quarts water
Ham seasoning piece
1 medium-sized stalk celery
2 small onions
2 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
1 quart milk
Salt and pepper
Frankfurters

Pick over, wash and soak peas over night. Drain off soaking water and add the measured water, seasoning meat and celery. Cook slowly for several hours until tender. Gently brown the finely chopped onions in the butter and add the flour. Gradually add the milk, stirring constantly. Add to rest of soup. Season to taste. The soup should be quite thick. Water, soup stock, milk or cream may be added to thin if desired. Serve in a large tureen with thin slices of frankfurters floating on top.

Custard

Put a tablespoonful of one of the following into each cup before adding custard for baking: Caramel syrup, maple syrup, brown sugar mixed with cinnamon, grated sweet chocolate, candied fruits, sliced nuts or cocoanut. The extra ingredient may also be sprinkled over the top of each cup when it is half-baked.

Greenery

Put an avocado seed in a bowl of water. Keep the bowl in a sunny place for several weeks when feathery greenery will sprout. It may be used as a centerpiece or as a decoration.

Varnish Brass

Keep brass articles from tarnishing by covering them with a thin coat of clear varnish. The varnish will form a lacquer which will not wear off unless the brass is handled frequently.

Easter Gives Centerpiece Idea

The children can make this centerpiece. Bunnies and chicks are arranged on a yellow cardboard egg. Coconut-covered chocolate eggs nestle in green and yellow raffia around it.

Expert Suggests Variety of Ways to Celebrate Holiday

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE

Easter is a good day to let the children help with the dinner — make the centerpiece, perhaps.

A nice Easter arrangement can be made with a dime store straw hat turned upside down on the center of the table for a nest. Then fill it to the brim with Easter favors—guzzical little rabbits, silly ducklings and fluffy chicks. Run streamers to each place with a small basket favor full of Easter candies at the end of each streamer.

The flowers gerewolfs. Arrange a lot loosely in a shallow flower pot instead of a bowl and tie a fluffy bow around the pot.

You can carry out the floral plan for dessert. Serve chocolate ice cream in tiny flower pots. Stick a single flower into each one. Or tuck gum drop flowers into vanilla ice cream or orange sherbet and sprinkle grated sweet chocolate over the dish.

For an Easter cake cover a round sponge cake with white icing. Start a parade of animal cookies around the top. Dip them in delicately-tinted frostings before the parade begins.

Fruit bouquets can be made by filling glass cups with balls of orange sherbet or fruit surrounding the cup with frills cut from paper doilies.

You can make an attractive dessert by molding gelatin of various colors and flavors in egg shells. (Save your shells for a week or so before Easter.) When the gelatin has set break off the shells and put the eggs onto a nest of thin cooky strips.

Easter Chicks And Bunnies.

½ pound sweet chocolate
½ cup sweetened condensed milk

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Remove from fire and add sweetened condensed milk. Stir until mixture thickens. Pat out on a buttered surface until about a quarter of an inch thick. Cut pattern of bunnies and chicks from clean cardboard. Lay pattern on chocolate and cut around edge of cardboard with sharp knife. Outline edges with frosting and make frosting eyes.

Scraps which remain after bunnies and chicks have been cut out may be reshaped and patted out as for first baton. If too soft, return to double boiler and warm sufficiently to make pliable.

Cookie cutters may also be used. Dip them in sugar first, however.

For the lettering, work shredded coconut into part of the chocolate fondant and shape the words by hand.

Chairman for Banquet Has Problems

By JOAN DURHAM

(AP Feature Service Writer)

Like the society hostess, the chairman of the banquet committee should pay as much attention to the seating arrangements as to the menu.

He is restricted in his planning by the shape of the room. The best arrangement, of course, is to have all the guests at one big U-shaped table. If the crowd is unusually large he may have to add another section turning the U into an E.

Keep Them In Sight.

If the facilities do not permit of one big table, the chairman should do his best to have congenial groups at each of the smaller tables. In that case the guest of honor and the speakers should be at a table easily in sight of all the others.

In the U-shaped table arrangement, the master of ceremonies should be seated at the center of the speaker's table, with the guest of honor at his right and the guest second in importance at his left—and so on down the table. If the two guests of honor are accompanied by their wives it is a good idea to seat the wife of the first guest beside the second guest and so on. From then on it's best to alternate men and women, being careful to separate husbands and wives and to mix the group as congenially as possible.

Two Weeks' Notice.

Notice for banquets should be mailed a little over two weeks in advance.

Kitchen Hints

Be careful not to overcook egg yolks, since they are apt to curdle. When adding yolks to a cooked mixture first beat them with a fork and then add a small amount of the cooked mixture. When the combination is well mixed add it to the rest of the food. Cook it for only a minute and then serve immediately.

Grapefruit hint. Cut each grapefruit in half. Remove the core and discard the seeds. Loosen the sections and remove every other one. Save removed sections for use in salads or cocktails. Insert strawberries in the empty sections. Sprinkle the fruit with honey and allow to chill. Serve either as a first course or dessert.

Wooden cooking utensils are likely to warp or mildew unless stored in a dry place. Carefully scrub such utensils with a small brush in hot water and soap suds. Rinse in warm water and wipe them dry. Place them near a stove until they are perfectly dry. Then store them in a dry place.

You Are Invited
By The Mansfield News-Journal to attend a merchandising school planned to help you solve many of your business problems

Mr. P. A. Goeser

of the National Live Stock and Meat Board, is well known for his practical lectures on merchandising problems met by every retailer. He will conduct the big merchandising school.

Miss Ruth Chambers

Lecturer who will conduct FOOD FASHION REVUE Cooking School to be held here this week. Meet her at the merchandising school, she will have some valuable suggestions for you.

The nationally known authority on meat pictured here has been secured to conduct this big session for the dealers of this city. You will get a wealth of new and practical ideas that will be of mutual benefit to you and your trade. The lecture and meat merchandising demonstration will show . . . how to take the guesswork out of pricing retail meat cuts . . . how to apply modern cutting and selling methods . . . how to strengthen meat advertising copy . . . how to meet the 1938 demand for smaller meat cuts . . . how to make slow moving cuts salable and attractive . . . etc. . . .

Cooking School

Special attention will be given to the meat cuts which will be featured at FOOD FASHION REVUE Cooking School. There will be an increased demand for the cuts prepared at the school; come to this meeting and find out in advance what these cuts will be.

A special gift from this newspaper to the food retailers of the city will be handbooks of instruction on the merchandising problems discussed. These are very valuable textbooks. A set will be given free to each man attending the meeting.

TAPPAN RANGE TO BE USED IN COOKING SCHOOL

Window In Oven Door of New Models Enables Housewives To Watch Cakes Baking.

Mansfielders may be prejudiced, but it is difficult to convince a "native son" that the Tappan range, nationally known Mansfield product, isn't the most attractive and most efficient gas range that is made anywhere today.

It has a symmetry and simplicity of line that make it outstanding even in a display of the best known competitors, while its quality has built up a reputation over a period of years.

The Tappan range will be one of the two most important features on the stage of the Ohio theater during the sessions of The News-Journal's annual cooking school. Home planning experts agree that the range and the refrigerator are the features around which the rest of the kitchen should be built.

Miss Ruth Chambers, who will be in charge of the cooking school, has shown a particular interest in one of the new features of the 1938 Tappan range, the only range, it is believed ever to have used it. It is the window in the oven door, which permits the cook to watch her angel food cake rise without disturbing it by opening the door. Few cooks can withstand the temptation to look at their cakes or biscuits at least once during the process of baking, and this prompted Tappan engineers to work out the glass front door for this year's range.

Divided Top, Too.

Another feature which many housewives demanded was the divided top — two burners on one side and two on the other, which permits the use of larger vessels when cooking.

Making its appearance in the 1938 Tappan range is the indirect light, mounted on the back of the stove, which does away with the glare that is made when a direct bulb is mounted above the backboard.

Low temperature burners are a feature of all Tappan ranges; simmer burners which permits food to cook very slowly over a minimum of gas heat. In contrast are the burners which furnish an intensity of heat for quick cooking. The oven, too, is equipped with low temperature burners, for long period roasting or for warming compartments.

The oven of the Tappan is one of its most attractive features. It is lined with non-rusting metal which gives the appearance of bright silver, and is equipped with an inside automatic light for illumination.

The modern broiler has attained speed and perfection, largely because housewives are coming to cook meats more and more by this method. The cost of operating a gas range has decreased as engineers have perfected top and oven burners and heat control units.

The Tappan range this year has a sleek whiteness that is enhanced by touches of dashing color in the keys and handles.

The Ohio Fuel Gas company will present the new Tappan range at the cooking school, and will feature a large display of them in its salesroom during the week.

SMART CURTAIN

Scattergood's Has Decorator to Aid Housewives.

Tailoring in curtains is to the well-dressed house what tailoring in frocks and coats is to the smart woman, and that is why Scattergood's are featuring custom-made curtains in connection with the News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which opens tomorrow morning in the Ohio theater.

John N. Sensback, a decorator of long experience, is at the store to aid housewives in selecting materials, colors and styles suitable for every type of window hanging.

These curtains and drapes can be obtained individually tailored to meet every requirement of window and decorative scheme in a variety of pleasing colors to harmonize with every room.

In addition to this new service of custom-made curtains, Scattergood's complete curtain and drapery material section offers a wide selection of ready made curtains and the newest fabrics for distinctive drapes.

To set the colors in spring wash materials soak the materials an hour in salt water, useing a third of a cup of salt to each gallon of warm water. Hang the material up while it is dripping. Be sure to place it in the shade.

FROSTED FOODS REVUE FEATURE

Arbaugh Company to Exhibit Fruits, Vegetables at Cooking School.

Always an enthusiastic supporter of cooking schools as a medium of public education, J. C. Arbaugh, proprietor of Arbaugh's is introducing at The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue the frosted foods which have received so much publicity through the newspapers and magazines of this country.

When the school opens tomorrow at 9:15 a. m. with Miss Ruth Chambers presenting menus and recipes, some of these frosted fruits and vegetables will be demonstrated by the Arbaugh company.

About a year ago, Arbaugh and his sons, C. R. and G. M. Arbaugh undertook to equip their store in the modern manner, arranging foodstuffs and incidental supplies in an enlarged and attractive show room. Being modern-minded, Arbaugh was the first Mansfield merchant to have a supply of one of the approved brands of frosted foods on display in his store.

For several months Arbaugh's was the only place a complete variety of these frosted foods could be purchased. So familiar have the frosted foods now become that every housewife is aware of the fact that there is no waste, garden freshness is preserved by the quick freeze method and cooking time is reduced while vitamins and flavor are preserved.

This is another step in the Arbaugh program for providing service to Mansfield housewives. The 73-year-old merchant emphasizes the fact that he, his sons and his employes are constantly striving to bring a better kind of food market with a higher quality of food to Mansfielders.

PRAISES PRESS

Manufacturer of Dixie Spread Boosts Newspaper Ads.

That the advertising columns of the daily newspaper offer manufacturers the most effective means of quickly acquainting housewives with important developments in food production was the opinion expressed today by officials of the Capitol City Products Company.

One month ago a nation-wide educational campaign was started, featuring Dixie, an all-vegetable spread. An excellent sales response was noted almost immediately, according to company officials. Wade E. Utley, president, made the following statement:—"The campaign which we are now carrying on in a large list of leading newspapers convinces us that the attention which daily newspapers are giving to the important subject of foods and food preparation is of outstanding help to the woman in the home, the food dealer and the food manufacturer."

According to Utley, while the advertising has hardly more than started, sales have shown a very gratifying increase.

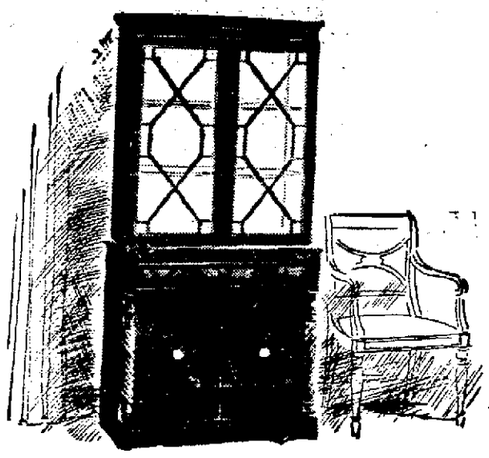
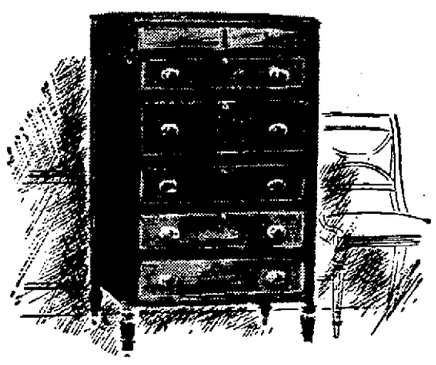
TRULY---MANSFIELD'S MOST BEAUTIFUL FURNITURE INSTITUTION

RECOGNITION . . . .

Miss Ruth Chambers of The Food Fashion Revue, Ohio Theatre, This Week.

For the third time in as many years, W. E. Jones Piano House, the house of fine furnishings for the home has again been selected by officials of the News-Journal Cooking School to provide furniture for the school's beautiful stage settings. This is recognition of the high type of furniture which this firm merchandises. It is recognition of the beauty, the stamina, the versatility and the economy in the long-run of our furniture. This firm in turn expresses its thanks to Miss Ruth Chambers of the Food Fashion Revue for her sincere and spontaneous compliments on our 3-floor display, when she visited our store.





The dinner hour in this home is one of the most pleasant times of the day, and the furnishings do their share to make the dining room a place of happiness and contentment. The room is dignified without being dull, formal without being stereotyped. A setting that's restful is ideal for the dining room . . . leave the exciting patterns and brilliant colors for use elsewhere. The wood used in this dining room suite is walnut. Since the all-over carpeting is a solid-color, a figured pattern is appropriately used for the draperies. The urns on the buffet lend an unusual touch.

29 RECIPES TO BE GIVEN FIRST DAY OF SCHOOL

Here's Complete List to Be Demonstrated at Opening Session Tomorrow.

Mansfield housewives who attend the four-day cooking school which opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow under the sponsorship of The News-Journal will be introduced to scores of new recipes.

Miss Ruth Chambers, representative of the National Live Stock and Meat board, who will conduct the school, will introduce 29 recipes at the first session, which starts at 9:15 a. m, tomorrow.

Following are the recipes she will give tomorrow:

MEAT ROLY-POLY

1 pound ground pork
1 pound ground beef
1 pound ground veal
2 eggs
3 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
6 slices bacon

Mix ground meats with the eggs and seasoning. Pat to one-half inch thickness on waxed paper. Spread with bread dressing and roll as for jelly roll. Place in a dripping pan and cover with slices of bacon. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F) for 1¾ to 2 hours. Serve with tomato sauce to which chopped ripe olives or mushrooms are added. Serves 8.

Bread Dressing.

½ cup raisins
6 cups bread cubes
½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery
3 tablespoons chopped parsley
Salt and pepper
1 teaspoon powdered sage
1 cup soup stock

Rinse raisins and drain. Combine with all the ingredients and mix, adding more liquid if necessary. Spread on meat mixture.

MILE-A-MINUTE CAKE.

1¾ cups flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅝ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ cup lard
1½ cups brown sugar
2 eggs
½ cup milk
½ pound dates
½ cup nuts

Sift the flour, measure and sift again with the baking powder, salt and spices. Combine all ingredients in the order given adding the pitted, chopped dates and chopped nuts last. Beat all together for five minutes. Bake in a 9-inch square pan in a moderate oven (350° F) for 50-60 minutes. Ice with Peanut Butter Icing.

Peanut Butter Icing.

2 cups confectioner's sugar
3 tablespoons peanut butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
4-6 tablespoons milk

Combine all ingredients. Add the milk slowly until of the right consistency.

BONELESS LAMB SHOULDER ROAST

Have the meat retailer prepare a boned and rolled lamb shoulder. Wipe with a damp cloth. Season the roast with salt and pepper and place in an open roasting pan with the fat side up. Insert a roast-meat thermometer into the center of the roast. Place in a moderate oven (300°-350° F) and roast until done, without covering and without adding water. The roast-meat thermometer will register 175° F for medium-done lamb and 180° F for well-done lamb. Allow about 35 to 40 minutes to the pound for roasting. Remove the roast to a hot platter and garnish. A four pound roast will serve 6 to 8 people.

VEAL STEAK A LA SWISS

1½ pounds veal steak
2 teaspoons prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
1 tablespoon butter
1 egg
2 cups cornflakes
5 tablespoons drippings or lard

Wipe meat with damp cloth. Mix mustard, salt, pepper and butter and rub into steak. Dip in slightly beaten egg, then in crushed cornflakes. Brown in hot fat. Add one-fourth cup water, cover tightly, reduce heat and cook slowly 30 minutes. Garnish with sliced tomatoes and whole green beans. Serves 4 to 5

THE PERFECT FRUIT PIE

1½ cups flour
½ cup lard
1 teaspoon salt
4-6 tablspoons ice water

Sift flour, measure and add salt. Cut lard into the flour until the mixture is coarse and granular in appearance. Add water, small amounts at a time, mixing quickly and evenly through the flour and lard until the dough just holds in a ball. Roll to about one-eighth inch thickness and line a pie pan. Fill with any desired fresh fruit filling. Roll top pastry a little thinner than the under crust. Place over filling. Allow top crust to overlap the lower crust one-half inch, cut even with shears. Moisten lower edge to perfectly seal and fold top crust under the lower. Crimp edges. Bake in a hot over (425° F) for 35 minutes, until fruit is done.

FRENCH FRIED LIVER

1 pound liver
Flour
Salt
Pepper

Have liver sliced thin. Wash with cold water and dry thoroughly. Cut into lengths about three-eighths inchi wide, using the hitchen shears. Roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper. Drop into a kettle of deep hot lard at a temperature of 375° F. Cook until brown. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve at once with french fried onions. Serves 6.

French Fried Onions.

Milk
Flour
Salt
Pepper

Peel and cut onions into one-fourth-inch slices. Soak in milk one-half hour. Drain and roll in seasoned flour. Drop into deep lard which has been heated to 375° F and cook until nicely browned. Drain on absorbent paper. Serves 6.

GRILLED CHOPS

With Banana and Pineapple Spears

6 lamb rib chops
Salt and pepper
1 can pineapple spears
6 bananas, green tipped
Bacon

Wipe the crops with a damp cloth. Arrange on a broiler rack, allowing three inches between surface of chops and source of heat. When brown turn and finish broiling. Only one turning is necessary. Drain pineapple spears. Slice bananas in half lengthwise. Place a spear of pineapple between the two slices of banana, wrap with a slice of bacon and fasten with a toothpick. Just before turning the chops, sprinkle with salt and pepper. After turning, place the bacon wrapped fruit alongside the chops and finish cooking. Serve with crisp greens. Serves 6.

PORK HOCKS AND SAUERKRAUT

4-6 pork hocks
1 can sauerkraut
4 medium onions
¼ teaspoon pepper

Thoroughly wash the pork hocks. It is not necessary to skin them. Arrange on a layer of sauerkraut and sliced onions in a covered baking dish. Cover with remainder of the sauerkraut and add pepper. Add water to cover the bottom of the pan, if there is not sufficient sauerkraut juice. Cover tightly. Cook in a moderate oven (350° F) 1½ to 2 hours or until the meat is tender enough to come off the bone. This may also be cooked on top of the range. Serves 4-6.

SCALLOPED TOMATOES WITH CUCUMBERS

1 No. 2½ can tomatoes
1 medium size cucumber
1 small onion
1 cup cracker crumbs
4 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
½ cup grated cheese

Place a layer of tomatoes in buttered dish. Add part of sliced cucumber, sliced onion and crumbs which have been combined with melted butter. Season. Repeat layers until all is used. Top with cheese and bake in a moderately hot over (375° F) for 40 minutes. Serves 6.

SAVORY BEEF PLATE ROLL

3-5 pounds beef plate
8 slices bacon
2 medium sized onions
Salt and pepper

Brown diced bacon and chopped onions. Wipe meat with a damp cloth. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Spread the rib side with the bacon and onion mixture. Roll and tie at inch intervals. Brown in remaining bacon fat. Add one cup water and cover. Reduce heat and simmer. Allow 45 minutes per pound. Serves 6-8.

HAM SLICE AND RICE-WICH

Have the meat retailer cut the smoked ham but into two pieces. The piece which contains the aitch bone may be used for seasoning purposes. From the other piece cut double slices so that when opened the meat will be one-half inch or more thick. Spread one slice with prepared mustard and cover with Rice Dressing. Place another slice over the dressing. Arrange on a trivet in an open baking pan. Do not add any water or cover. Bake in a moderate over (350° F) for 1½ hours. Serves 6.

Rice Dressing.

1½ tablespoons onion
1 tablespoon lard or bacon drippings
¾ cup rice
2 cups soup stock
1 teaspoon salt
½ tablespoon poultry seasoning

Cook onion in lard until tender. Add dry rice, simmer until rice is golden in tint, then add soup stock, salt and poultry seasoning. Cover and steam 20 minutes. Add additional seasoning to suit individual taste.

HOMEMADE BISCUIT MIXTURE

8 cups flour
¼ cup baking powder
4 teaspoons salt
1½ cups lard

Sift the flour and measure. Sift again with the baking powder and salt. Cut in the lard until the mixture has a fine even crumb. Place in a closed container and keep in refrigerator, using as desired. This mixture will keep at least a month in the refrigerator. It will yield five batches with two cups of the mixture to the batch. It may be used for biscuits, dumplings, shortcake, waffles, muffins, quick coffee cake and dozens of other things.

MACARONI MEAL WITH LIVER

1½ pounds liver, sliced thin
Flour
Salt and peper
Bacon drippings
1 small package macaroni.

Wash liver and dry thoroughly. Roll in flour seasoned with salt and pepper and fry very quickly in a generous amount of bacon drippings. When well browned add three tablespoons water, cover and let simmer for 10 minutes. Serve on bed of cooked, buttered and seasoned macaroni. Serves 6.

BLUE PLUM COBBLER

2 cups Homemade Biscuit Mixture
¼ cup sugar
Milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 teaspoon cinnamon
2 tablespoons sugar
1 No. 2½ can blue plums in syrup

Combine the biscuit mixture with the sugar and enough milk to make a soft dough. Roll to one-fourth inch thickness. Spread with softened butter, springle with mixture of cinnamon and sugar. Drain blue plums and remove seeds. Spread plums over dough. Roll like a jelly roll and cut into eight pieces. Place cut side down in a buttered 9-inch square pan. Heat syrup drained from the plums to boiling point and pour over rolls. Bake in hot oven (450° F) for 30 minutes. Serves 8.

CHILI CHEESE SALAD

4 teaspoons gelatin
3 tablespoons cold water
1 cup chili sauce
1 cup cottage cheese
½ cup mayonnaise
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup whipping cream

Soak gelatin in cold water for five minutes and dissolve over hot water. Combine chili sauce with cottage cheese, mayonnaise and salt. Fold in the whipped cream and turn into ring mold that has been rinsed with cold water. Place in the refrigerator to chill. Unmold on serving platter. Garnish with lettuce and sections of grapefruit. This fills one 8-inch mold. Serves 6-8.

SAUSAGE LOAF SURPRISE

2 pounds bulk pork sausage
1 egg
Salt and pepper
4 cups bread crumbs

Mix sausage with egg, seasoning and crumbs. Line large loaf pan with sausage, reserving enough to cover the top. Fill center with mashed potato filling and cover with sausage. Allow one-half inch or more at top of pan for expansion of meat. Bake in a moderate over (350° F) for 1½ hours. Serves 8.

Potato Filling.

2 cups mashed potatoes
2 egg, yolks
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon paprika
Sale and pepper

Combine all ingredients. Milk may be added if necessary.

TOFFEE NUT BARS

⅓ cup lard
½ cup brown sugar
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 cup brown sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup shredded cocoanut
1 cup chopped nuts

Cream the lard, add the sugar and cream well. Add flour and salt and work into a dough. Pat into an ungreased 9-inch square pan. Bake in moderate oven (350° F) for 15 minutes. Cool in the pan and pour the following mixture over it: Beat eggs until light, add brown sugar and beat thoroughly. Add vanilla. Sift flour, baking powder and salt and stir into egg mixture. Beat until smooth. Blend in the cocoanut and nuts. Spread evenly over the baked mixture. Bake in moderate over (350° F) about 25 minutes. Cut into finger shaped pieces and remove from pan while warm. Yield 18.

APRICOT CHERRY TURNOVER CAKE

2¼ cups flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
⅔ cup lard
1¼ cups sugar
8 egg yolks
¾ cup milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
Butter
Brown sugar
2 No. 2 cans apricot halves
Maraschino cherries.

Sift the flour, measure and sift again with the baking powder and salt. Cream the lard, add the sugar and continue creaming. Beat the egg yolks until light and add to lard and sugar mixture. Combine thoroughly. Alternately add the sifted dry ingredients and the

BETTER CUP COFFEE

Is Chosen for Exclusive Use at the Cooking School.

Why . . .?

Cooking Schools are really 'food laboratories' . . . where foods are given the most rigid tests possible. Now it's obvious that THE FOOD FASHION REVUE School would choose only the best coffee possible to obtain, to demonstrate . . . THAT'S WHY BETTER CUP HAS AN ENVIABLE RECORD OF HAVING BEEN CHOSEN FOR THE FOURTH CONSECUTIVE TIME IN TWO YEARS TO BE DEMONSTRATED AT THE COOKING SCHOOL BUT WHY? Well, to begin with, we use only the highest quality Coffee beans obtainable for roasting; we have the most modern coffee roasting plant in northern Ohio; we have a veteran coffee roasting man with years of coffee roasting experience constantly searching for methods to bring coffee fresher and better to you. Our rapid 24-hour delivery system guarantees you fresh coffee.

- Full O' Flavor
- Fresh
- Economical

MISS RUTH CHAMBERS

Demonstrator for the Food Fashion Revue has this to say about Better Cup Coffee. 'I'm proud and glad of the opportunity to demonstrate and to recommend this blend of 'high-grown' coffee at the Food Fashion Revue which begins tomorrow at the Ohio Theatre. I have tasted this coffee—I recognize the freshness, the expert, peak roasting

The Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Devotion

By DR. WILLARD L. SPERRY

Monday, April 11. "Heaven and earth shall pass away: but my words shall not pass away." Read Mark 13:24-31.

The final pages of the Gospels are filled with "apocalypses" and "eschatologies," i.e., with accounts of sudden changes and the end of the present world order. A generation ago when our world still seemed to be going on in a quiet and orderly way, these passages gave great difficulty. They did not seem to fit our circumstance. Today they give little difficulty or none.

We are apparently living at the conclusion of one of the considerable settled periods of human history. In some very real sense of the words we have come to the end of an age. In such a time the bare principle of sudden and radical change cannot of itself comprise the whole of a religion. Religion has always proposed to give men, if not permanence in their world, then certain eternal ideas by which to measure the changes through which they are passing.

There is no guarantee that the new world order which is coming to pass before our eyes must automatically be more Christian than that which it is superseding. The only way we can ensure such a result is to measure the changes in which we are involved by some unchanging standard. We must remember that whatever else changes and passes the words of Jesus "shall not pass away" but remain a test of the new order as they were a rebuke of the old order.

Prayer: "O thou who changest not, abide with me." Amen

GET ADVANCES

Schools, 2 Townships Receive $74,300 in Tax Funds.

Three advances totaling $74,300 against the first-half collection of real estate taxes in Richland county had been approved today by County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe.

Mansfield schools got $64,000 of the amount including $48,000 for the general fund and $16,000 for bond retirement and interest. It was the third advance given the city's schools which have now received $171,000, almost the entire amount due them from the first half year's collection.

Madison township schools were given a first advance of $10,000, while Worthington township trustees got $300 for their general fund.

Regular distribution of the half-year receipts which amounted to more than $600,000, will not be made to the county's sub-divisions until June, Deputy Auditor Arthur S. Beck said.

MEAT-KEEPER FEATURES NEW WESTINGHOUSE

Mansfield Made Refrigerator Chosen for News-Journal Food Fashion Revue.

One of the two most important features in the modern kitchen, according to home experts, is the refrigerator, and because of that the refrigerator for the News-Journal cooking school is chosen with the utmost care.

A new feature of this year's Westinghouse refrigerator, which will be used by Miss Ruth Chambers, food lecturer, during the cooking school and will be displayed in the lobby of the Ohio theater as well, is the meat-keeper.

This feature was designed by Westinghouse engineers after consulting with women from all sections of the country who are kitchen planning experts. It seems the need of a way to keep meats fresh for days, without evaporation of the natural juices.

The meat-keeper is a porcelain container which preserves the natural flavor and juices even though the meat is stored in it for days.

Another feature, exclusively Westinghouse is the humidrawer, for the preservation of vegetables. This spacious compartment, large enough to store a week's supply of green vegetables and fresh fruits, has a new "visible humidity" which conserves the natural moisture of green leaves and of fruits. It has a new humiglass top.

Besides these new features, introduced this year, the Westinghouse food preserver has many other features that make it distinctive. It is designed for beauty as well as economy and service. It is one of the most beautiful refrigerators on the market and this year the small, artistically designed name plate comes in a number of shades to blend with the color scheme of the kitchen.

One of the reasons why a Westinghouse can be guaranteed to be satisfactory is that it is a "kitchen-tested" product. Every new feature, for service and economy, is tested out in 102 Proving Kitchens scattered over the world in all kinds of climates and temperatures.

For instance—a feature which may seem highly desirable to engineers working in Mansfield, at the plant of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, may not work out satisfactorily in the frigid Northern zones or the torrid zones near the equator. It is for these practical tests that Westinghouse practical kitchens are set up and maintained all over the world.

One purpose of the News-Journal cooking school, which opens tomorrow at the Ohio theater for four days, is to demonstrate to housewives of this area the newest and best kitchen equipment. The Ohio Public Service company, agent for Westinghouse refrigerators here, will arrange a special display of all 1938 models in their store this week, to be shown concurrently with the cooking school.

After each session of the school women interested in learning first hand of the new features may go to the stage or lobby of the theater and examine the models for themselves.

CONSTANCE FOOD MARKET WILL EXHIBIT FRUITS, VEGETABLES

The convenient new location of Constance Complete Food Market, operated by J. D. and W. L. Constance is a real bit of news to Mansfield housewives who prefer a store where it is easy to shop, where everything is under one roof and where special attention is given to providing choice cuts of meat from a modern department.

In connection with The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which opens tomorrow morning under the direction of Miss Ruth Chambers, home economist, Constance Market, now located at 114 Park avenue west, is displaying a wide selection of fresh fruits and vegetables which are shipped daily from the large Cleveland markets.

In the newly modernized market, formerly located at the Third Street Market, the proprietors are emphasizing prompt and efficient delivery, two telephones for receiving orders, stock arranged on open shelves and plainly marked as to prices.

Other features of the store are the clean, light, well-ventilated room in which the business is conducted and the complete stocks of nationally advertised canned goods which is available.

milk to which the vanilla has been added.

Spread a large dripping pan (about 10x14 inches) with a generous amount of butter. Over this press a one-fourth-inch layer of brown sugar. Drain the apricots and dry with paper toweling. Press a maraschino cherry into each half. Place the apricots in rows cut side down on the brown sugar. Pour cake batter over fruit. Bake in a moderate over (350° F) for one hour. Turn out immediately. Serves 12.

BROWN VELVET ICE CREAM

3 eggs
1 cup commercial chocolate syrup
1 cup whipping cream

Combine egg yolks and chocolate syrup. Cook slowly until thick. Cool. Beat whites and fold into chocolate mixture. Pour into tray of automatic refrigerator and chill almost to freezing before folding in slightly beaten cream. Serves 8.

BACON AND ENDIVE SANDWICH

8 slices bacon
Endive
Paprika
Lemon juice

Broil bacon until crisp. Mince crisp bacon and add chopped endive. Season with paprika and lemon juice to taste. Use as spread for open or closed sandwich.

CHINESE CHOP SUEY

3 tablespoons lard
1 cup diced raw pork or veal
⅓ cup finely cut onion (if desired)
¾ teaspoon salt
1½ cups celery, cut into small pieces
½ cup water or liquid from bean sprouts
1 can bean sprouts, drained

Thickening.

3 tablespoons cornstarch
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon brown sauce
2 tablespoons soy sauce

Heat lard in covered saucepan or skillet over quick fire; add meat, onions, and salt; stir constantly and cook rapidly until meat is well seared. Add celery and liquid, then cover. Cook until celery is done. Add bean sprouts, heat thoroughly. Place thickening ingredients in bowl and mix well. Take two tablspoons of liquid from cooking mixture and stir into thickening until smooth. Add to Chop Suey, stirring constantly. Serve piping hot over boiled rice.

CHOPPED MEAT SANDWICHES

2 cups cooked ground meat
4 tablespoons mayonnaise
1 tablespoon pickle relish
2 hard cooked eggs
Salt and pepper
Bread and butter

Use any left-over meats, such as pork, lamb or beef. Combine with mayonnaise, relish, chopped eggs. Season. Mix well and spread on slices of bread. Brush with melted butter and toast.

SPANISH LAMB SLICES

6 neck slices of lamb
6 slices onion
6 slices tomato
6 rings green pepper
¼ cup rice

Season neck slices and brown in a little lard. Place in a roaster and on each slice arrange a slice of onion, one of tomato and the pepper ring filled with rice which has been partially cooked. Pour ½ cup water around meat. Cover and cook in a moderate over (350° F) one hour.

HAM AND CELERY LOAF

1 package lime flavored
¾ cups hot water
½ cup vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
1 cup cooked diced ham
1½ cups celery
1 teaspoon onion
2 sweet pickles

Dissolve gelatin in warm water. Add vinegar and salt. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in ham, chopped celery, minced onion and pickles, which have been finely chopped. Turn into loaf pan. Chill until firm. Serve in slices, garnished with crisp watercress. Serves 6.

BEEF BROTH WITH VEGETABLES

3 pounds beef shanks
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1½ quarts water
2 cups potatoes
½ cup onions
1½ cups carrots

Have retailer saw bone into suitable pieces. Put into kettle. Add salt and pepper. Cover with water and simmer 1½ hours. Add vegetables and cook 30 minutes Strain and serve while hot. Serves 6.

CALIFORNIA CHICKENS

¼ pound ground pork
1 pound ground veal
1 teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon chopped green pepper
¼ cup grated pineapple, drained

Combine all ingredients and shape like a chicken leg around a wooden skewer. Roll in bread crumbs, then in egg slightly beaten with 1 teaspoon water and again in bread crumbs. Let stand 30 minutes in the refrigerator. Brown in hot fat, then reduce temperature. Cover closely and let cook slowly for 45 minutes. Mock chicken legs from the market should be prepared by this same method.

POTTED BEEF STEAKS

6 steaks, cut from round or chuck
Flour for dredging
Lard for browning
1 large onion, sliced
3 or 4 carrots
1 cup ketchup
2 cloves
2 bay leaves
Salt and pepper

Have steaks from round or chuck cut 1 inch thick and into pieces for individual servings. Dredge with flour and brown on both sides in hot lard. Add sliced onion and carrots, the spices, ketchup and 1 cup hot water. Season with salt and pepper; cover tightly, and let cook slowly on top of stove or in oven until tender, about one hour.

CHILI CON CARNE

1 tablespoon lard
1 medium onion, chopped
1 pound ground beef
1½ cups hot water
2 teaspoons chili powder
1 No. 2 can kindney beans
1 No. 1 can strained tomatoes (1 cup)
Salt
1 clove garlic, if desired

Melt in deep pan and add onion and meat. Sear quickly until meat is white and separated in small particles. Allow to simmer a few minutes. When it starts to fry, add other ingredients with salt to taste. Stir well and simmer until meat is tender. Serve in the center of a ring of boiled rice.

BRISKET OF BEEF WITH BEANS

3 or 4 pound brisket of beef
1 pound navy beans
½ teaspoon mustard
½ cup brown sugar
½ cup maple sirup
Salt and pepper

Soak the beans in water over night Drain, and put in heavy kettle. Add the mustard, brown sugar, maple sirup, salt and pepper. Then put beef brisket on top. Cover with water. Cover the kettle and cook in a moderate oven (350° F.) until meat is tender and the beans are done, about three hours. Add more water when necessary.

They'll Usher You to a Seat

CITES NEED OF STORING FURS

Expert, Formerly With New York Firm, In Charge of Department at Morgan's.

Edward Silay, fur expert, has been brought to Mansfield by the Morgan Cleaners and Furriers, for the express purpose of catering to the needs of Mansfield, so far as storage and restyling fur coats are concerned.

Silay, formerly with the Schildkraut company of New York City, fur manufacturers, is in charge of the big Westinghouse refrigerator for furs at Morgan's, the only one of its kind in Mansfield.

He points out the necessity for storing good furs, at this time of year. Not only are furs destroyed by heat but are weakened and many times rotted by dirt which dries the pelts.

"All furs," he says" should be thoroughly cleaned before storing. But first of all they should be made moth proof by the simple process of killing the moth germs before storing. This can be done only by first hanging the furs in heated rooms to develop the germ into moths, and then in sub-freezing temperatures where the cold will kill the moth."

Garments sent to Morgan's are insured against fire, theft and all other damage from the time they are picked up until they are returned. As soon as they are received, if they are not ordered cleaned, they are blown free of dust by a special compression process Loops are mended, buttons tightened and rips are repaired. Silay has had wide experience in restyling furs.

Morgans use the "sawdust and wood drum" process for cleaning. which is recognized by leading furriers as the best method for preserving natural oils in skins.

WINES ADD TO DINNER MENU

Domestic, Imported Products Distributed By Weaver's Home Supply Service.

The reasons many persons rave about the fine flavor of foods eaten abroad, according to many experts including Miss Ruth Chambers, demonstrator at The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue, is because of the inclusion of fine wines as ingredients.

Weaver's Home Supply Service, 59 South Diamond street, is presenting an exhibit of fine domestic and imported wines in connection with this Revue which opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow morning.

Use of wine as a cooking ingredient became a lost art during the prohibition days, but now with wines, both choice and inexpensive, many delicious menus include them as a flavoring.

As distributors of Taylor wines, the Weaver service has copies of the recipe booklet prepared in the Taylor testing kitchen which gives hundreds of recipes for the use of vintages in cooking.

These recipes were all prepared by Miss Frances Page, dietitian, and receive the endorsement of many home economists for their food value, delicacy of flavor, and appetite appeal. In addition to the Taylor product, Weaver's carry a complete selection of fine domestic and imported varieties.

Try this fruit sauce on your favorite ice cream. Melt a cupful of jam or jelly in a double boiler Add a fourth of a cup of orange juice, serve the sauce warm.

FEW SOCIAL EVENTS ON HOLY WEEK CALENDAR

Many Clubs, Organizations Suspend Activities; Post-Easter Outlook Brilliant With Meetings, Nuptial Affairs In View.

WITH the arrival of holy week the interests of many Mansfielders have turned to various religious observances and many of the social and study clubs have interrupted their schedules of meetings or are conducting business meetings or study sessions only this week.

However, some of the groups will be assembled this week, among them the Junior Sorosis, Pi Delta Tau sorority and Linnaeus Garden club today. Several study groups including the Student club, Conversational club, Philomathian club and the Delphian society will hold sessions tomorrow.

On Thursday a number of church societies will have regular meetings and special observances for the Easter season. Among these are the Mary Markley society, the First Brethren church Ladies' Missionary society, the Daughters of Ruth class of St. Luke's church and the Ladies' guild of the Mayflower Congregational church.

Tomorrow will see the exodus of a number of Mansfield women who will be attending the convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs at Columbus.

Announcements of future events indicate the the post-Easter social whirl will be a brilliant one, and that many of the groups will offer a number of interesting affairs before the June vacation season begins.

Adding to the excitement of Easter Sunday will be the marriage of Miss Pauline Thrush and Richard Parkison at the First United Brethren church. This will start the spring season and parties, club meetings and various nuptial affairs will add to the social flavor.

A number of study clubs, including the Music Study club, Round Table club, Little Flower Study club, A. A. U. W., Wednesday Study club, Sappho club, Timely Topic club, Art Study club and Cosmopolitan club will resume activities, starting next week.

Other interesting events of late April will be the Singers club recital at the Mansfield-Leland hotel on the 19th, the marriage of Miss Josephine Proto and Charles Posa on the 23rd and the dinner party given by Miss Elizabeth Jona on the 24th.

Mrs. E. S. Lincoln entertained members of the Priscillian club recently at a luncheon at the Towne House. The group will meet again April 22 with Mrs. May Palmer at the Women's Club.

New Corsage Styles Introduced For Easter Parade

If you're considering droping a gentle hint about the kind of Easter corsage you would like, consider some of the newest trends. The latest idea is shown at the left in the above picture. The model, who is wearing a simple black costume, has a large lapel corsage which resembles one big blossom, it is however, made of dozens of tiny blooms. Believe it or not, but the corsage worn by the girl at the right is made of tulips. Three were combined to get this unusual effect. Other flower fashion favorites include violets, geraniums, carnations, lilies, orchids, and the bell-like blossoms of the hyacinth.

White lingerie gumpes are worn with black or navy town frocks which open at the front.

MANY MANSFIELDERS TAKE VACATION TRIPS

Closing of Schools, Universities Brings Young People Back to City; East, South, Nearby Towns Call to Travelers.

EITHER in spite of or because of the unseasonable weather of the past few days, Mansfielders' names have become prominent as travelers during April. With the closing of various schools and colleges throughout the state as well as in the east and south a great many Mansfield young people are now at home or are expected to arrive within the next few days. Over the past week-end a number of folks who were visiting in the south have returned to the city and New York is beckoning a percentage of travelers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ruhland Isaly, Woodhill road, returned yesterday from a sojourn of several weeks in the southern states. Mrs. Marie Marks Porterfield, 350 Park avenue west, left yesterday for New York City where she will remain all week.

Among those home from school is Charles McKinley, student at Kenyon college, who is vacationing at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McKinley, 33 Sherman avenue. Miss Carolyn Wolf, student at Denison university, Granville, has just returned to school after spending the last week at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Wolf, 597 Park avenue west.

Others who have returned to Mansfield or who are traveling in various places are:

Paul E. Sturges, jr., Overlook road, spent the week-end in Columbus visiting friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Henkel, 488 Edgewood road, are spending this week in Richmond, Va., where they are visiting friends.

Mr and Mrs. C. G. Critchfield, 116 Rae avenue, were Sunday guests of Dr. and Mrs. J. L. Sommers, North Baltimore.

Miss Ethel Mayer and Miss Marguerite Koerper were among Mansfielders who spent the week-end in Cleveland in order to attend the opera.

* * *

Mrs. T. R. Fox, Fort Jefferson, and son Carl Fox, of Bellaire, were week-end guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wierman, Park avenue west road.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Elder, 82 Arlington avenue, and son Fred, are leaving today for Coshocton where they will visit at the home of Mrs. Elder's sister, Mrs. G. S. Scheetz.

Richard Sturges, student at Georgetown university, is arriving in Mansfield tomorrow where he will spend spring vacation at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Sturges, Overlook road.

Miss Jane Kelley, student at Marygrove College for Women, Detroit, will arrive home tomorrow to spend spring vacation at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. Kelley, 389 West Third street.

George Tobias, son of Mr. and Mrs. ~~G. H.~~ Tobias, 32 Park avenue west, and Robert Hartmann, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Leo Hartmann, 36 Stewart avenue, both students at Ohio State university, spent the week-end in Mansfield.

* * *

The Misses Ruth and Mary Weimer of Akron are spending spring vacation at the home of their grandparents, Mr and Mrs. E H. Leinard, Park avenue east Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Weimer, parents of the girls, are former Mansfielders.

POSTPONE MEETING

The meeting of the Dolly Madison club which was scheduled for tomorrow night has been postponed in observance of Holy week The group will meet April 18 at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Hostess Sunday At Farewell Party

Miss Elizabeth Jona was guest of honor yesterday afternoon at a party given at the home of Miss Anna Nagle, 40 Wolfe avenue. Miss Jona, who is sailing May 1 for Europe, was feted at the farewell party given by her friends.

Games were played and prizes were awarded to Miss Naomi Remy and Miss Mary Sabo. Luncheon was served at a table centered with a bowl of yellow tea roses. The color scheme was yellow and orchid. The table was presided over by Miss Ella Vogel and Miss Nagel. Miss Jona will be hostess to a group of friends April 24 when she will have a dinner party at her home in Townview circle.

Kappa Alpha Theta Has Luncheon Meet Saturday

Active and alumnae members of Kappa Alpha Theta met Saturday at 1 p. m. at the Towne House for a get-together luncheon. Luncheon was served at a long table decorated with a centerpiece of flowers. Plans were made for a June meeting at which time a rush party will be planned.

Miss Caroline Wolf, member of the chapter at Denison university, was present for the meeting. Arrangements were made by Miss Louise Wolfe, Mrs. Lewis Hartman, and Mrs. A. M. Colby.

Ten little toes are going to Sunday School Easter morning in a brand new pair of shoes from Siegenthaler's. Ten little toes are going to be flat and grow straight because they have been fit by experienced and conscientious salesmen in the right kind of shoes from the largest stock of sizes and styles in Mansfield.

We carry two grades in each size run. One, a popular price line featuring our Gro-Rites and Rough Riders. The other, a custom grade line of Jack and Jills and Vitalities. In either line, regardless of which fits your purse—you'll get more shoe for your money than in any make we know. If they weren't the best, you wouldn't find them at Siegenthaler's, for in our 26 years, we have never sold cheap merchandise.

Various Problems Of Readers

By VIRGINIA LEE

S. A. S. has a dominating sister-in-law who tries to make trouble between S. A. S. and her husband. This sister is older than her brother and has "bossed" the family for years because her mother is an invalid. She thought S. A. S. was not good enough for her brother and has done everything she can to part them.

What should S. A. S. do, she asks, leave her husband before their little girl is old enough to understand, or let things run their course?

Don't give up your husband, my dear, just because this older sister has made up her mind that she is going to separate you. Why give in to her? You don't once, in your letter, say your husband doesn't love you and wants to leave you and the baby. Or that you don't love him.

Your husband wouldn 't have married you if he hadn't cared for you, and if you make a happy home for him and the baby, and ignore his sister's nasty ways, there is no way in which she can spoil your life if you don't let her. I know you cannot help getting angry and feeling "catty" as you say, occasionally when she does such ill natured things, but don't let it get you down.

UNDATED is a girl of 19 who is considered nice looking. She doesn't dance, smoke or drink, but likes good, clean fun. She is not boring, of that she is sure, but the boys do not date her.

Recently she met some very nice young men, but when they found she didn't dance, they did not pay any attention to her. One of them told her girl friend she was too "straight-laced."

Undated has been brought up strictly and does not want to hurt her parents' feelings. At times she feels lonesome and discouraged, however, she writes, and wonders if there are not other young people who have the same ideas as she.

I am sure there are many young people who don't dance, smoke or drink, Undated. Don't you find them in your church and the societies connected with it?

If you haven't met them at the present time, I am sure you will. So keep jolly and entertaining, and I know you will have a good time without violating your ideals.

J. E. C.: I think the girl likes you very well, but she is not sure she loves you. As she goes with you on Sunday, she must like you better than any other young man, because that is the "best boy friend" day. Whether she goes with others during the week I wouldn't know.

I think your best course is to enjoy these Sunday good times to the utmost, and trust that you will make so good an impression on her that she will, in time, grow to love you.

Probably the reason she is so elusive in her replies is because she does not really know her own mind. Be patient for awhile and don't mention marriage. Later on she may let you know she cares.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 12.

A very lively day, with the energies under high pressure is forecast from the predominant planetary directions. It is a favorable time for endeavoring to launch important projects, although there may be necessary unheavals and excitement in putting over such plans. Use caution and vigilance in dealing with rings, mergers or secret organizations.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much progress and prosperity, especially in connection with new enterprises and in developing new plans and objectives. These enterprises seem important and may attract the cooperation of large corporations mergers or secret bodies.

A child born on this day may be enterprising, practical, zealous and determined. It may also have a gentle, kindly and lovable nature that should assure it a successful and happy life.

Favored Fashions

Jacket Makes Frock Double Duty Dress for Matron.

By MARIAN MARTIN

If you have to limit the number of new dresses you may have this season, you'll jump at the chance to include this style from Pattern 9709. The dress is lovely in a soft flowered print and will go merrily to any afternoon function. See how smartly the yoke extends into the skirt panels in front and back . . . that's for slenderness. And see how softly the bodice fullness is controlled below the yoke . . . that's for flattery. But if you want to give it a slightly more tailored air wear it with the simple Tuxedo packet. Jacket looks well with other dresses, too. Complete Marian Martin Diagrammed Sew Chart included.

Pattern 9709 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46. Size 36 dress requires 4 yards 39 inch fabric and 1⅞ yards 39 inch for jacket.

BE SURE TO STATE SIZE

Send fifteen cents in coins or stamps for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your size, name, address, and style number.

Write for Marian Martin's new book of spring patterns. Better hurry, for you'll want a new printed frock to slip into on these first balmy days. This book is full of gay designs that will give you a lot of bright wardrobe ideas . . . Many of these styles are designed to carry you straight through the summer . . . and all of them are patterned for easy making at home. Price of book fifteen cents. Price of pattern fifteen cents. Book and pattern together twenty-five cents.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

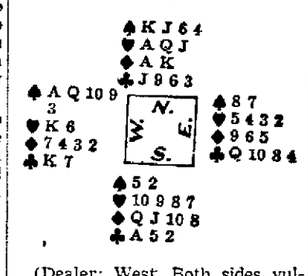
MAYBE SOME day there will be a genius who can tell us exactly when to lead our partner's suit against no trump, and when not to. If he is at all reliable, it probably will be because he has occult powers. All of the logic in the world can work out wrongly in this situation. It is not something calling for wisdom so much as for luck.



(Dealer: West. Both sides vulnerable).

After a spade bid by West, North bid 1-No Trump, South two and North three.

In response to his partner's bid, East led the spade 8, which West covered with the 9 and North took with the J. The diamonds A and K were next cashed. A club was then led to dummy's A, and the diamonds Q and J followed. The heart finesse was successful, so with no more entries to dummy and with hearts blocked, South laid down the heart A, and to his delight, the K dropped, making the Q good. A small club was North's next lead, which West won. He threw North in with the spade 10 to the King and North gave up the remaining tricks.

When the hand was over East realized that the situation would have been quite different if he had led a club instead of a spade, for with the club A knocked out of dummy, declarer would never have been able to cash the last two diamonds and take the heart finesse.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer. North. East-West vulnerable).

What is the best bidding on this deal?

Useful Hints.

Grapefruit segments sprinkled with sugar and a little salt, then broiled, can be arranged with the edges overlapping to make a tasty garnish for pork or ham.

Hotbeds and cold frames should be located in a sheltered place, either on a south slope, on the south side of a building, or where protected by a clump of low-growing pines.

Be Good To Your Feet If You Dance

By JULIET SHELBY

(Central Press Writer on Beauty)

In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to love. And if it's your young man he will be wanting to go dancing a lot in the coming months. So look to your feet. Nothing is worse than the martyred look of a girl facing the music when feet have turned traitor.

Don't let the pedal extremities be the forgotten part of your anatomy. They will remind you of themselves painfully. Dancers have beautiful feet and they make a living out of them. Most of us just think that they are lucky. But it isn't so. They take care of their feet just as a singer does of her voice or a chorus girl of her legs. And it's the preventive measures that not only keep them looking attractive, but acting up to scratch.

Doctors say that you can't be really a well person if your feet are on the bum. So here's to health and happiness, and if you don't do the Big Apple, at least keep the tootsies in shape to do as many turns around the room as the boy friend or the music inspires.

If you are one of the lucky girls whose feet have always been a silent partner, then keeping them happy is a simple thing. After you wash them in warm water and soap suds, rinse them in cold water. This isn't any fun, but it will prevent hours of misery, especially if you have been on your feet all day or up half the night dancing. Then be sure to dry them thoroughly and put on a little deodorant powder. Always wear clean stockings, and change your shoes two times a day at least.

Exercise Helps.

Here's an exercise if you are one of the footsore brigade. It will really get your feet back into good working shape if they are not so far gone that you have to be under a doctor's care. First walk around the house as much as possible, wearing only wool socks. This is practically the same as going barefoot, and will give all the many little muscles in the feet exercise that they are sadly in need of. Then stand on a step. Let the toes curl over the edge of the step and pretend to try to pick the step up. This is marvelous for the metatarsal arch.

Another good tip is to raise the feet higher that the head as often as possible. This will keep them from swelling and be generally beneficial. If you've got an enlarged big toe joint, massage the joint and toe gently with olive oil and wear between your big toe and second toe a pad of lamb's wool or a small piece of rubber sponge. Here's a workout which will help straighten the joint: Bandage the two big toes snugly together, then move them up and down until they feel warm and completely unkinked. Do this about ten times.

This little foot formula will give you good strong underpinnings and you can dance, girl, dance.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

Mary's wish was granted. The man and woman on the other side of the partition were served their escargots at approximately the same moment that the waiter set the incomparable coquilles St. Jacques before us. And in the flurry of enthusiasm over the toothsome dishes, they mutually agreed to postpone the discussion of their sinister plans until they had eaten the food before them.

"I'll say this for the Dicky-bird, he knows how to order a dinner," the woman said.

"Yeah," the man drawled, "you have to slip it to him on that score. Thank Gawd he isn't as keen in other directions, or we might as well go and fly our kites instead of waiting around to see how hard he's going to fall for what we're handing out!"

"Will you fill that fool trap of yours with food so you can keep it shut?" the woman snarled in suddenly hushed tones. "You can't tell who may be listening."

"Don't get jittery," the man responded equably. "As for me, I'm goin' to do nothing else but eat for the next 10 minutes."

Asks for Drinks.

From the other side of the table Mary went through the motions of clapping her hands vigorously, and formed a "hurrah" with her lips. But her accompanying smile changed to a frown when the man's voice sounded again. "How about a little drink?" he asked insinuatingly.

"Nothing doing until the waiter chooses to remember the Dicky-bird's instructions," the woman answered, while I shivered again in repugnance at her use of the nickname Harry Underwood so many years ago gave to my husband.

"Dicky told me when he left," she went on, "that he would order two rounds of drinks for us."

"For us?" the man queried with sudden suspicion in his tone. "How did he know I was going to be here? Did you—?"

"Oh! for heaven's sake, shut up!" the woman again adjured wearily. "He didn't know anything. He just figured that if he left me with a good dinner for two, I wouldn't eat it alone, if I could help it, and he threw in the order for drinks as a—as a—"

"Sort of apology for walking out on you?"

"Don't you ever think it!" the woman said with sudden venom. "That bird wouldn't apologize to the Almighty if he didn't want to. But you just watch my smoke! I'll make him eat crow before I've finished with him."

Woman Contemptuous.

"Who's shooting off the little trap now?" the man asked good-humoredly, and I conjectured that he was one of the people made amiable by good food. "If he keeps his word, the drinks will be along, and you'd better be feeding your face. The snails are good!"

"Snails!" the woman exclaimed contemptuously. "You're a fine hick specimen to be set down to a dinner like this when you can't even call the dishes by their right names."

"By any other name!" Mary murmured the quotation to me with an expressive wink, then cocked her ear for the man's retort.

"The name ain't worrying me as long as the taste is all right," he said. "But I wish that d—d waiter would bring that first round of drinks. I could use one right now."

"So could I and how," the woman assented. "How about it, Al? Couldn't you manage a teeny weeney one by yourself?"

"Ho! that's a good one!" the man answered. "I told you I was stony. But what about you doing a little ordering? You can't tell me the Dicky-bird hasn't shelled out some coin already."

Household Hints

Menu Hint.

Soy Bean Loaf Spinach
Corn Pudding
Green Salad Stewed Rhubard
Cookies Tea

I am prophesying that in a few years we will hear a great deal more about the soy bean in dietary circles than we do today. In certain sections of the country it is much used, and Henry Ford, according to a news story, is planning to make an entire automobile out of the products of this plant. I have seen one of his projects in Michigan where he is cultivating this bean. The soy bean has been cultivated and used as food for centuries by the Orientals. It is said by its sponsors to contain an important element called "lecithin." A pound of soy bean flour contains as much of this substance as from four to six eggs," they state. "The protein content of soy bean flour," it is also stated, "is known to be unusually high, ranging from 40 to 47 per cent. And this protein is reported to be 93 per cent digestible." So it behooves us housewives who pride ourselves on being up-to-date in our housekeeping, to investigate this bean, if we have not already done so.

Today's Recipes.

SOY BEAN LOAF—Two and one-half cups soy beans, three-fourths cup peanut butter, four tablespoons cornstarch, two and one-half tablespoons water, three small onions, one-half teaspoon sage, two teaspoons salt. Soak soy beans over night, cook until tender and grind. Add other ingredienuts, mix and steam three hours.

My Neighbor Says:

To remove perspiration stains from white cloths, dampen the stains with lemon juice and salt before putting them into soap and water.

If sheets are hung on the line dripping wet the weight of the water pulls them down and removes most of the wrinkles. They may then be folded neatly without ironing when dry.

Maurice

"I usually have to depend on the newspaper to select a Beauty Shop for me . . . and they're often inclined to send me to the largest advertiser which, sometimes, is not the best place. In many cities I can know the best, immediately . . . the shop that is a member of the Lady America Guild is always a leader. That is true in Mansfield.

Thousands of enthusiastic homemakers who pack auditoriums to witness the best in modern cookery, demand that a popular modern kitchen fuel be used in the demonstrations. They favor schools which use gas for cooking because they use gas in their own kitchens and they know the many advantages it offers. Housewives like those shown above—over 15,000,000 of them throughout the country—use gas as the kitchen fuel in their homes.

The Range of Tomorrow For the Home of Today

When you attend the cooking school, you'll hear a great deal about the most popular of all fuels for cooking and the latest in modern gas ranges. Today's gas range is more flexible, more dependable and easier to use. It is modern in design. Top burners do not clog, are automatically lighted and easily controlled from high, quick heat to low, evenly distributed heat. Gas ovens are well insulated, have accurate temperature controls and always give excellent baking results.

Miss Ruth Chambers

"There's Nothing Like Gas . . .

. . . for cooking," says Miss Ruth Chambers, national authority on home economics and lecturer at The Mansfield News-Journal Food Fashion Food Revue. "I like the many new features on the modern gas range and I want to add my endorsement to that of millions of homemakers who have modern gas ranges in their kitchens."

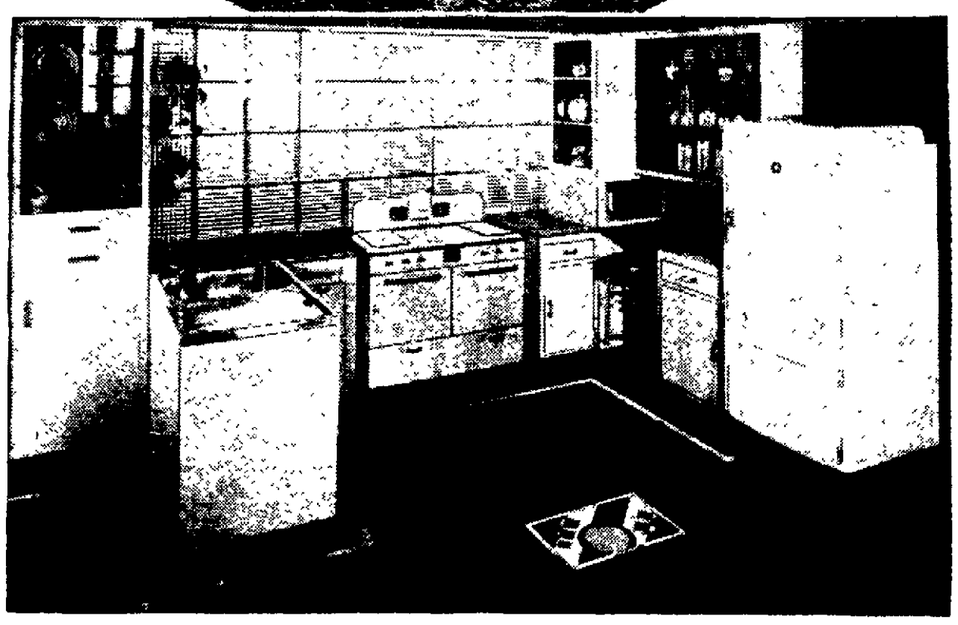
Modern Gas Range Gets Call In Response To Popular Demand

Again gas has been selected as the favorite cooking fuel for use at the cooking school because gas is, also, the favorite of Mansfield homemakers for use in their kitchens. You'll see your popular cooking fuel, and a modern Tappan Gas Range used on the stage during the demonstrations at The Mansfield News-Journal Food Fashion Revue opening tomorrow at the Ohio Theater.



'Kitchened' for Convenience And Lovely To Look At

The modern all-gas kitchen is built for convenience, to give you happier hours in the kitchen and more leisure hours outside. Also, it is lovely in appearance and smartly designed. Note the beauty and balance of the typical all-gas kitchen pictured above—a kitchen that is truly a step ahead of tomorrow.

Late Food Flashes

Every homemaker today is on the lookout for recipes for new and interesting food servings. Below are two brand new recipes supplied by The Gas Company Home Service Department, which we believe you'll find most appetizing. One may be prepared on the modern gas range, the other in the gas refrigerator.

Sausage Puffs

6 link sausages
2 tablespoons apple sauce
Dash red pepper
1 tablespoon onion juice
1 tablespoon cream
Pastry

Remove skin from sausages, cook mashing well. Drain off the fat. Add to meat, the apple sauce, red pepper, onion juice and cream. Roll pastry thin and cut into 3-inch squares. Spread a tablespoon of meat mixture on each pastry square and roll up. Pinch the ends of the rolls and place on a baking sheet. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 15-20 minutes. Serve with any preferred sauce. This makes 4 servings of 2 puffs each.

Frozen Marshmallow Fruit

1 3-oz. pkg. cream cheese
¼ cup mayonnaise
½ lb. marshmallows
1 cup cream
1 doz. Maraschino cherries
1 small can crushed pineapple

Cream the cheese and the mayonnaise together. Add pineapple drained of all juice. Cut up marshmallows in small pieces and add to above mixture. Whip cream stiff and add last, together with cherries cut in small pieces. Put in tray of the gas refrigerator. Allow to stand for 12 hours before serving. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise. Serves 12.

Lifebuoy Toilet Soap Endorsed For Daintiness

Are you as sure of your personal daintiness as you are of your prowess with the mixing bowls and cake ingredients? If you're not, you can be, by using a toilet soap which will be endorsed at The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at the Ohio theater. The soap, Lifebuoy, which is approved by many leading business and professional women including Miss Madeleine Riordan, society editor of the New York Evening Post, will be exhibited.

According to leading authorities who come in daily contact with society and club women as well as the average housewife, absolutely nobody is safe from body odors. These same women recommend the use of Lifebuoy for the bath and for the complexion because it not only destroys perspiration odors, but has been found 20 per cent milder than many so-called "beauty and baby soaps."

"Even great beauty can meet with small success if one is personally careless." Miss Riordan points out as she emphasizes the need of special care during the warm spring and summer months.

Hostesses and fitters in smart shops, and many others emphasize the necessity of absolute cleanliness and freedom from offensive odors in order to insure feminine glamour

CLOROX HELPS

Aids Housewife In Cutting Down Working Hours.

Hours of working time can be eliminated by including one important item in the kitchen and laundry, according to Miss Ruth Chamber and Miss Emily Conklin, demonstrators, who will open The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue tomorrow at 9:15 a. m. in the Ohio theater. Clorox is that item which lessens kitchen and laundry drudgery and insures germ free dishes, utensils, linens and household equipment.

Clorox, a liquid deodorizer and stain remover, has hundreds of uses in every modern household. It is a pure- non-poisonous disinfectant, suitable for disinfecting tile, porcelain, enamel, linoleum as well as wood, china, glass and crockery.

In these modern days when every woman wants her home to be both clean and sanitary such a product as Clorox which kills germs in an instant and removes the most stubborn fruit and organic stains is indispensible. It will be seen at the demonstrations tomorrow that the spotlessly clean and new equipment Miss Chambers uses is kept pure and wholesome by the frequent and judicious use of Clorox as both a cleaning and disinfecting agent.

Chinese Foods Most Favored Old World Delicacies

The charm of the most popular old world cookery will win praise for the thrifty housewife or smart hostess. Ravenous or jaded appetites alike are tempted by the alluring goodness of genuine chop suey and chow mein, and with La Choy products it is possible for you to prepare authentic Chinese dishes in 10 minutes that will rival the magic creations of those practiced in the art of the Chinese cuisine.

The legendary secrets of envied culinary experts are revealed by many easy to follow recipes on La Choy labels. In your quest for something different, you will find La Choy products provide a welcome departure from the endless rounds of steaks, chops and roasts. Then, too, your guests or family will cheer when you serve colorful and tasty chop suey or chow mein and you will be agreeably surprised by the slight cost of such easily and quickly prepared foods. The preparation and serving of these Chinese delicacies which are comprised of wholesome meat or sea food, domestic and imported vegetables, zestfully blended and flavored with La Choy soy sauce, will be explained during the News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which opens tomorrow morning at the Ohio theater.

The nutritious ingredients of chop suey or chow mein are low in calories and not particularly fattening, but essential vitamins are present in energy building quantities. Children are particularly fond of chop suey and chow mein. Dietetic authorities acclaim these well-balanced foods desirable for supplying needed vitamins, minerals and carbohydrates in an enticing form to growing boys and girls.

LIGHTEN BURDEN OF HOUSEWIVES

Fuller Brushes, Among Leading Home Conveniences, to Be Displayed at School.

Nothing does so much to lighten the burden of spring housecleaning as the proper equipment, and nationally known Fuller brushes are right at the top among the home conveniences that cost little.

Fuller brushes will be demonstrated at The News-Journal's cooking school which opens tomorrow at the Ohio theater. There will be a display of Fuller products, including kitchen brushes, mops, brooms, floor waxes and polishes.

With sales figures better now than at any time since 1928, there is every indication that Fuller products are gaining in popularity because of their quality and convenient design.

The housewife will learn at the cooking school that she can equip her home with Fuller brushes to fit every need and at a comparatively small cost.

Mansfield headquarters for the Fuller organization are in the Richland Trust building, where G. W. Griswold is in charge as district manager.

SMART SHOES

Nobil's to Feature Jo-An Line of Footwear.

What is closer to a woman's heart than a pair of dainty, beautifully turned, smartly provocative, well-fitted shoes? Not much, in the opinion of Nobil's shoe store, and that is why it is featuring Jo-an shoes at the News-Journal Food Fashion Revue which starts tomorrow morning at 9.15.

Literally dozens of gay new styles are being displayed at the Ohio theater where the Revue will be conducted. Jo-an shoes are a high quality line, incorporating the latest style creations of the year from the workshops of famous shoemakers.

A proper fit which will insure lasting beauty and endless comfort, is something in which the store prides itself. In addition, these shoes boast excellent quality and charming style at a price which is modest.

Nobil's also feature a stylish oxford with a comfortable heel suitable for beauticians, teachers, nurses, housewives, waitresses, household employes and store or office workers.

LIGHTENS TASK

Rinso Takes Drudgery Out of Dish Washing Job.

Speaking roughly modern housewives wash dishes 1,000 times every year, and if all the cutlery, crockery, pots and pans were stacked together they'd make a mountain that would dwarf even the highest building outlined against the New York skyline. If you had to wash all these dishes at one time you would want a soap that would work with lightning speed, but which wouldn't roughen and redden your hands.

Rinso, which will be used and endorsed in the demonstrations given this week by Miss Ruth Chambers and Miss Emily Conklin in The News-Journal Food Fashion Revue at the Ohio theater, is just the soap to satisfy these two major demands. Rinso, a granulated soap, cleans dishes in a hurry with rich lasting suds, yet it is so mild and gentle that it acts as a beauty treatment to lovely hands.

This soap is also suitable for use in washers, fine laundry or for other household purposes. Sessions of the cooking school will be held at the Ohio theater beginning Tuesday at 9:15 a. m.

SUPPLIES CHINA

Brown Company Equipment on Display at Food Revue.

All the china and glass ware used by Miss Ruth Chambers in the four-day News-Journal Food Fashion Revue, which opens at the Ohio theater tomorrow, will be furnished by Brown's China company, which has just opened a new sales and display room on the Ashland road, three miles east of Mansfield.

Edward H. Brown, the proprietor, announced today that the Lorraine pattern of imported Bohemian china would be used on the first day of the school. During the four-day school, various designs of dinner services will be shown, as well as a line of Cambridge glass ware, baking ware and pottery.

The Brown company has been in business in Mansfield for five years, and was formerly located on Lexington avenue.

FOOD FASHION REVUE TO USE UHLICH'S 'TOWN TALK' BREAD

Uhlich's "Town Talk" bread, which will be used in demonstrations at the News-Journal's cooking school opening Tuesday at the Ohio theater, is an "old reliable" in Mansfield.

Sold by most Mansfield grocers, Uhlich's bread has been made since 1897, and recent improvements at the bakery at 429 Springmill street have provided better service for both the dealer and the consumer, in addition to improving the quality of the bread.

Uhlich's "Town Talk" bread, the makers contend, helps to "preserve the rich heritage of bread as one of the world's staple foods and is an aid to those parents who have the responsibility of rearing strong, healthy children."

In addition to bread, the Uhlich bakery produces cakes, cookies and pastry of all kinds which may be purchased fresh at groceries throughout the city.

The best of ingredients are used in Uhlich products and modern methods of production and distribution assure the purchaser of strictly fresh goods.

YOPEDIO PICKS SHELBY WOMAN

Miss Mabel Lynch New Head of Organization; Conference Held In Mansfield.

Miss Mabel Lynch, Shelby, was elected president of the Richland County Yopedio at closing sessions of the organization's 14th annual conference Saturday afternoon at the First Congregational church. She succeeds Arthur Boyce of Mansfield.

Other officers elected are Jay Moore, Shelby, vice president; Vivian Kisling, Lexington, secretary, and Carlos Pittenger, Mansfield, treasurer. The new officers were installed by Rev. Carl Driscoll, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church at Lucas, following a banquet in the evening for all delegates.

The banquet was attended by the 150 delegates at the conference. Rev. David N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, was toastmaster.

Following the installation, a religious play, "What Does It Profit?" was presented by eight members of the Young Peoples' society of the Richland Church of the Brethren. The cast included Harold Copeland, Milo Cocanour, Jack Menke, Mary Jane Menke, Lenora Dishong, Jamaes McCarron, Winifred Wheeler and Selwayn Copeland.

The main address of the conference was given in the afternoon by Rev. Henry H. Ford, pastor of the United Presbyterian church. His subject was, "Part-Time Saints." The time and place for the next conference will be selected later by the new Yopedio officers.

SHELBY POLICE HOLD TRANSIENT

Identify Man by Fingerprints; Wanted In South Carolina on Burglary Charges.

SHELBY—Police Chief LeRoy Coffey's practice of fingerprinting all transients who seek lodging in Shelby jail, resulted today in the arrest of John Aclin who is being held for South Carolina authorities where he is wanted to face charges of safe cracking and burglary.

Aclin, who was fingerprinted as routine procedure when he sought lodging recently, was identified by Patrolman Walted Benedict, fingerprint department supervisor, from police files, Coffey said.

Word was expected today from South Greenville officials for disposition of the case. Aclin refused to waive extradition, Coffey stated.

SPEAKS AT SHELBY CHURCH

SHELBY—Dr. H W. Peterson of Mansfield district superintendent of the Methodist church, spoke Sunday at the First Methodist church.

NERVOUS?

Do you feel so nervous you want to scream? Are you cross and irritable? Do you scold those dearest to you?

If your nerves are on edge, try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND. It often helps Nature calm quivering nerves.

For three generations one woman has told another how to go "smiling through" with Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It helps Nature tone up the system, thus lessening the discomforts from the functional disorders which women must endure.

Why not try LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND?

MARRIAGE IN 1935 ANNOUNCED AT PARTY IN GALION SATURDAY

GALION — During the dessert course of a party given Saturday night by Mrs. Thomas Blair of Galion, and Mrs Gaylord Hesser of Cleveland Heights, at the Stanley Kruger home here, a group of 18 friends learned of the marriage of Ruth Tracht, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Tracht of west of Galion, to Philip Rabel of Mansfield, son of Mrs. Barbara Rabel of Orange street, Mansfield.

The announcement was written on small scrolls found between lady fingers tied with ribbons, at the places of the 18 guests present. Table decorations of roses, snapdragons and stocks, and pastel colored tapers were used by the hostesses. Mt Mrs. Rabel's place she found her wedding ring in the lady fingers.

The marriage took place Dec. 3, 1935, at the parsonage of the Church of Christ in Auburn, Ind., with Rev. Lavar Fisher officiating. It was solemnized on the 27th wedding anniversary of the bride's parents, and was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Hofmeister of Hicksville, O., cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Rabel was graduated from Galion high school in 1928, and has been employed in the offices of the Galion Iron Works & Manufacturing company. Her husband is a machinist at the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing company in Mansfield.

At the bridge party the guests included the honoree's office associates besides Mrs Bernard Mains, Mrs. Harley Hershner, Mrs. Ralph Deibig, Mrs. Stanley Kruger, Mrs. Robert Schupp, all of Galion; Mrs. Helen Kentner of Mt. Gilead and Mrs. Frank Rebel of Mansfield. Bridge was played and prizes won by Mrs. Harley Hershner and Liane Eysenbach were presented to the guest of honor.

The evening's events were climaxed when a messenger boy brought an express package for which Mrs. Rabel had to sign. This included a miscellaneous shower of gifts from the guests. The hostesses presented her with a linen tablecloth and napkins.

DIES AT AGE 43

Chris Brumenschenkel Was at O. S. R. for Years.

Funeral services will be held at his home in Lebanon tomorrow for Chris Brumenschenkel, 43, superintendent of the London prison state farm at Lebanon, and prior to that employed by Ohio State Reformatory here for many years.

Brumenschenkel was born in Mansfield and spent most of his life here. In February, 1922, he was appointed horticulturist at the reformatory working here and at the Grafton honor farm. In April, 1935, he was made superintendent of the Lebanon farm. His death Sunday followed an operation last week.

He is survived by a number of brothers and sisters, among them William employed at the Sandusky honor camp, Mrs. Ruth Darling and Albert Brumenschenkel of Cleveland, Amelia Brumenschenkel of Gates Mills, and Mrs. Minnie Zimmer, Syracuse.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brumenschenkel and Mr and Mrs Carl Brumenschenkel, Mansfield cousins will go to Lebanon tomorrow for the funeral.

BULLETIN

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON — (AP) —Dr. Francis E. Townsend, author of the Townsend plan to pay $200 a month to the aged, failed in the supreme court today in his effort to escape a 30-day jail sentence imposed for contempt of a house committee.

The tribunal refused to review a decision by the United States court of appeals for the District of Columbia upholding the jail sentence and a $100 fine.

Townsend, 71 years old, walked out of a house committee session on May 21, 1936, after making a statement that the legislators were "unfriendly" and "unfair." He said he did not "propose to come back except under arrest."

TYPHOON SCARE OVER

MANILA—(AP) A typhoon which the weather bureau earlier announced was heading toward the central Philippines changed its course today and headed northeastward to sea.

Queen Mary Hits Storm, Lily Pons Takes a Tumble

PLYMOUTH Eng. — (INS) — No respecter of persons the sea took a heavy toll of barked shins and other injuries when the Queen Mary ran into a violent storm on Friday, it was revealed when the vessel arrived today.

Among those aboard was Lily Pons, the diminutive songbird of opera and screen.

Miss Pons was in her stateroom when the storm hit.

"My bed," she said, "crashed with such a boom into the stateroom wall. The stewards, they had to rescue me. But the ship's concert was to be held and me, I had promised I would sing. And will you believe it? I had to hold on to a rope while I was singing."

"Or I should have held on to the rope. I let it go for a little little second while I was singing a high note and I slipped I slipped how shall you call it—end to end."

NAZI VICTORY CHEERS HITLER

Dictator Calls Plebiscite His 'Biggest Achievement' as Nazis Rejoice.

Goebbels and Deputy Nazi Leader Rudolf Hess.

Joseph Buerckel, the commissioner sent to Austria to handle the election, made an impassioned radio speech when he announced the result to Hitler.

"This is an overwhelming answer to our opponents," said Buerckel.

"It is also the proper reply to the treaties of Versailles and St. Germain.

"We are Germans, and we belong for all eternity to Germany and to the fuehrer. Hitler, thou are the most German of all the Austrians. Be now their master!"

Crowds stood for hours outside the chancellery, clamoring for Hitler. He appeared on the balcony several times, and each time the tic cheers.

Withelmstrasse resounded to fran-

In Vienna a Nazi storm trooper was stabbed, but that was the sole instance of trouble in the amazingly orderly election.

Barred from the polls, Jews in Austria stayed indoors.

Better than 60 per cent of the voters, enjoined to ballot early, stamped their papers before noon. At frequent intervals Nazis would examine the district polling list, and then call on laggards.

Get Hitler Buttons.

As each person voted, he was given a small button bearing the profile of Hitler. The rechsfuehrer himself smilingly accepted one who nhe voted at the station.

Cardinal Innitzer, Catholic primate of Austria, whose approval of the Anschluss was frowned upon by Pope Pius, raised his arm in the Hitler salute when he voted in Vienna.

After noon flying squads of Nazis began rounding up the ill and infirm. In ambulances and motor cars and on stretchers, they were carried to the polls in order to make the tribute to Hitler as great as possible.

Archduke Otto Won't Recognize Conquest

PARIS— (INS) —Still convinced he is entitled to a throne by divine right and heritage, Archduke Otto of Hapsburg today refused to recognize Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's conquest of Austria.

Through his only qualified spokesman abroad, the handsome 26-year-old archduke scoffed at the so-called "appeal" of monarchist leaders in Vienna to support the Fuehrer at the polls and elsewhere.

"Kurt Schuschnigg (the deposed Austrian chancellor) and other persons in prominent positions when the tragedy occurred yielded to brute force alone," he said.

"But what has been trumpeted abroad as an appeal by the 'monarchist' leader in Vienna to support Hitler is absolutely ridiculous."

"This so-called appeal was made by Col. Martinides, who has been described as a monarchist leader. But he is not. He was known almost from the beginning as Nazi sympathizer."

Otto is remaining with his mother the Ex-Empress Zita, at Castle Ham in Steenockerzeel, Belgium. He was shocked and stunned by the Fuehrer's Austrian coup but nevertheless remains steadfast in his belief that someday the Austrian people will call him to power and revive the glories of the Hapsburg dynasty.

DRAFTY HOMES 'PET PEEVES'

Hoffman Company Offers Free Heating Check-up Service to Suggest Remedies.

Recently a large utility company asked 11,207 families to list their "pet peeves" about their own homes. A total of 2,887 men and women said that their pet peeve was a drafty house.

With the advent of air conditioning equipment in theaters, stores, restaurants, sleeping cars, etc., has come an entirely new understanding of the importance of almost air-tight houses. Heating engineers who supervise most of these expensive installations say that the average home owner wastes from 10 per cent to as high as 50 per cent of all of their fuel, be it coal, gas, oil or wood, because of a lack of correct insulation in their homes and, in addition to this, a drafty house is one of the most potent causes of family squabbles. Even in many modern homes, one part of a living room will be comfortable, another part too hot, and another part of the room as cold as an ice box.

The Charles Hoffman company, Walnut street, co-operating with the Williamson Heater company, has recently installed a free heating check-up service that is now being offered to every family in the community. Factory engineers co-operating with Hoffman representatives make a complete examination of any home and prescribe for it without obligation.

The Hoffman company's new display and sales rooms at 30 West Fourth street which was opened Saturday, was visited by several hundred persons.

The long room has been redecorated and small booths partitioned off for displays of units for the kitchen and bathroom.

Modern trends in bath and lavatory fixtures, water heaters, furnaces, stokers, and boilers and roofing are shown.

'Army' of Shavers Back of LaSalle Blades

100,000 Men Asked for Opinions Before They Were Manufactured.

The story behind the manufacturing of LaSalle "power sealed" razor blades is one based on the opinions of 100,000 men.

Before attempting to manufacture their product, officials of the LaSalle company in Toledo contacted a literal "army" of shavers, procuring their opinions as to what was wrong with the blades they were using and what they considered prime requisites in a good razor blade.

Upon their findings, LaSalle determined the factors governing the manufacture of its product.

Today, after years of investigating and continuous improvement of their blades the LaSalle people believe they have a product which meets or exceeds the most rigid specifications of any blade on the market.

After analyzing the LaSalle blades' quality and in many instances watching the reaction of customers to tests under practical conditions, owners of hundreds of independent drug stores and other outlets in Mansfield and vicinity have turned to LaSalles.

Discussing the investigation and development of LaSalle blades, Louis O. Black of Toledo, president of the LaSalle firm, says:

"We found out a lot about razor blades that we never knew before—facts that brought the manufacture of the blade to a science of unwavering precision and rigid inspection."

The upper picture shows two of the many tests run on finished blades. On the left an employe is shown inspecting an "edge" under a powerful microscope, which reveals the average blade as an irregular saw edge. LaSalle blades are honed to such a precision edge that the teeth are scarcely discernable.

On the right is shown a tester, using a Rockwell machine, which registers the hardness of the finished blades by a diamond test. Sample blades from each allotment of steel, pass through this test to verify the prescribed hardness and structural toughness.

In the lower picture is shown a group of expert testers who put the blades to the actual work of cutting human hair and other hair of tougher quality, to substantiate claims of the manufacturers for quality of steel and cutting quality of the finished blade.

To complete the job, the blades are carefully wrapped and sealed against moisture, in a machine that turns them out faster than the human eye can follow.

P. L. Remy, 45 Augustine avenue, is distributor for LaSalle blades in Mansfield and vicinity.

PURE OIL ACTS TO CUT TRAFFIC TOLL, OPENS "SAFETY CLINICS"

With statistics showing that a large percentage of the motoring accidents in 1937 were due to minor or major defects in the cars, the Pure Oil company has established a number of "Safety Clinics" here to provide free safety inspections for autos.

Without charge, the Pure Oil Company will make complete safety inspections by appointment at their service stations.

The check will include the tires, windshield equipment, headlights, steering mechanism, front wheel bearings, acceleration, spark plugs, cooling system, fan belt, brake pedal shaft, shackles and other vital parts of a car.

A complete report on what is found in the Safety Inspection is presented to the autoist.

"Had many of the cars that figured in accidents last year been inspected regularly before the accidents, it is reasonable to believe that at least a goodly number of the persons now dead would still be living," E. S. Willard, district manager for Pure Oil said.

"It is for this reason that the Pure Oil company through its dealers and stations, will spend a very substantial amount in the state this year in establishing 'Safety Clinics.'"

The clinics have the endorsement of Service-Safety Director Tracy C. Styert who said "I heartily endorse a mechanical check of all automobiles which will make them safer on the streets of the city of Mansfield."

ASHLAND MAYOR SIGNS STREET LIGHTING PACT

O. P. S. to Provide Power at $18,000 Annual Cost; New 'White Way' Planned.

ASHLAND — The Ohio Public Service company, according to an announcement made here by Mayor W. Art Mason, will furnish street lighting for the city of Ashland for the next ten years as a result of a contract signed by the mayor here.

According to the contract the O. P. S. will furnish the street lights at an annual cost of $20,000 with the provision that if bills payable monthly are met within thirty days, the annual cost will be $18,000.

The contract which was signed by the mayor followed the passing of an ordinance by city council here by means of which the mayor was authorized to advertise for bids for either a five or ten year contract.

One of the principle changes in the new contract over the old will be that Ashland's present street lighting system installed 25 years ago, will be replaced by a new "white way."

COAL STOVE BLAMED

ASHLAND—An overheated coal stove, which her 11-year-old daughter had lighted and then had left to go into the front room to listen to the radio started a fire Friday, which caused considerable damage to the home of Mrs. Eva Urban.

Ashland firemen battled for two hours before they were able to bring the flames under control.

A Farmer's Diary

April 10.

THIS is a beautiful Sunday morning. The sky is without a cloud at this time and the sun shines bright and warm. I felt revived that spring's winter was over. The wind blows from the west and is not so cold and damp as yesterday.

I examined the cherry and plum buds near the house and found the outer leaves black as if they had been singed with fire. Practically all the tiny fruit enclosed beneath the latent blossoms were as black as the outer leaves.

I crossed the frozen ground of the western field, but something seemed to lack. The pungent fragrance of the spring air was not filled with the sweet notes of the meadow lark, the happy warble of the bluebird or the cheery call of the robin. The song sparrow came through the storm with chin up, singing. The jubilance and merriment of our feathered songsters had vanished from the fields and woods this morning. I hope the vacant places in shrubs and trees, grassy nooks and human hearts may be filled by newcomers from the south.

I walked all about the hedgy borders of the farm and noted the destruction the ice storm had wrought on tender plants and growing leaves Some alder stems that had grown two inches were black, withered and limp upon the grass The half grown leaves of wild cherry had fared no better—a sad array of lifeless wastes upon each branch.

The orchard seemed to stand in mute distress, loaded with swelling buds that looked like little grayish fuzzy balls. I broke some off and opened the tiny covers of the blossoms to find the embryonic apple. To my surprise I found but two frozen out of a whole dozen

We may yet see, this fall, our apple trees with branches bending low, laden with tempting fruit. —By C. A. B.

Lucas

WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

The marriage of Miss Dorothy Lottman, of Elyria, and Carl Culler, of Lucas, which was solemnized in the Emmanual Lutheran church at Elyria last Saturday has been announced to friends of the couple in this community.

The single ring ceremony was read by Rev. J. L. Ulrich, pastor of the church.

Attendants were Miss Erma Lottman, of Cleveland, sister of the bride, and Edward Pastorius, of Columbus, fraternity brother of the groom.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lottman, of Elyria. She is a graduate of the Elyria schools and attended Ohio State university.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Culler of near Lucas. He is a graduate of the Lucas schools and of Ohio State university. Since last September he has been instructor in agriculture in the high school at Sullivan.

Mr. and Mrs. Culler will reside at Sullivan.

RAINS SWELL MARSHLANDS

WILLARD—Due to the heavy snow and rains of the past week the water in the marsh district south of here and along Honey Creek to Attica is said to be higher than at any time in the memory of the natives of this section. Thousands of acres are covered and water crosses the Bull Head road at several places and is over other roads in that section.

The water in Honey Creek flows west and high water here last spring was one cause of the floods at Bellevue.

RESOLUTION NO. 38-53

By Mr. Hunter:

Declaring it necessary to improve OVERLOOK AVENUE, COLEMAN ROAD AND BARNARD AVENUE, starting at end of present 10" sanitary sewer west of Lawn-View Ave., to Lawn-View Ave., and Overlook Ave., thence east in Overlook Ave., to Inlot No. 3147, south in easement and Alley to Barnard Ave., east in Coleman Rd., from ¼ sec. line to Euclid Ave., and from ¼ sec. line to Marion Ave., in Barnard Ave., by the construction of a sanitary sewer.

BE IT RESOLVED BY THE COUNCIL OF THE CITY OF MANSFIELD, STATE OF OHIO, Three-Fourths of all Members elected thereunto concurring.

SEC. 1.—That it is necessary to improve OVERLOOK AVENUE, COLEMAN ROAD AND BARNARD AVENUE, starting at end of present 10" sanitary sewer west of Lawn-View Ave., to Lawn-View Ave., and Overlook Ave., thence east in Overlook Ave., to Inlot No. 3147, south in easement and Alley to Barnard Ave., east in Coleman Rd., from ¼ sec. line to Euclid Ave., and from ¼ sec. line to Marion Ave., in Barnard Ave., by the construction of a sanitary sewer.

SEC. 2.—That the grade of said street as improved shall be the established grade.

SEC. 3.—That the plans, specifications, estimates and profiles of the proposed improvement heretofore prepared by the City Civil Engineer and now on file in the office of the Department of Public Service, be and the same are hereby approved.

SEC. 4.—That the whole cost of said improvement, less one-fiftieth of the total cost shall be assessed in proportion to the benefits resulting from the improvement upon the following described lots and lands, to-wit; all lots and lands bounding and abutting upon the proposed improvement which said lots and lands are hereby determined to be specifically benefitted by said improvement; and the cost of said improvement shall include the expense of printing, publishing and serving the necessary legal notices, the printing and publishing of the necessary resolutions and ordinances, the cost of construction and inspection together with interest on bonds issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred assessments, and all other necessary expenditures.

SEC. 5.—That the assessments so to be levied shall be paid in three annual installments, with interest on deferred payments at 6 per cent. per annum; provided that the owner of any property assessed may, at his option, pay such assessment in cash within thirty days from and after the passage of the assessing ordinance in which case said cash assessment shall not include any item of interest upon bonds to be issued in anticipation of the collection of deferred installments of assessments.

SEC. 6.—That bonds of the City of Mansfield shall be issued in anticipation of the collection of assessments by installments and in an amount equal thereto.

SEC. 7.—That the remainder of the entire cost of said improvement, not specially assessed, together with the cost of any real estate or interest therein, purchased or appropriated and the cost and expense of any appropriation proceeding therefor, and the damages awarded any owner of adjoining or abutting lands and interest thereon, and the cost and expense of such award shall be paid by the City of Mansfield, Ohio, in the manner provided by law, from General Fund appropriation therefor.

SEC. 8.—This resolution shall take effect and be in force from and after the earliest period allowed by law.

Signed K. P. TROLL,
Approved C. M. HUNTER,
Mayor.
Passed April 5, 1938.

"SONNY" WHITNEY OPPOSED TO BIG RACE PURSE, ALSO WIDENER

By DAVIS J. WALSH
(INS Sports Editor)

NEW YORK — (INS) — Having hailed the $100,000 horse race between War Admiral and Seabiscuit as absolutely set for Belmont Park in September, without wishing to bother Stockholder C. V. Whitney about his consent, this always illogical town isn't waiting for the man's support or negation today. It isn't waiting, either, for the special meeting of the Westchester Racing association's directorate, to be held tomorrow or Wednesday. It isn't even waiting for C. V. Whitney.

The word today, yesterday and Saturday evening was that young Mr. "Sonny" Whitney was unalterably opposed to big purses and, therefore, there wouldn't be any in this case The real point is that what C. V. Whitney is unalterably opposed to is Joseph E. Widener, who made this match in his absence.

That vague thing called principle has little to do with it, personalities will mean everything. This, if I may be so depraved in my low cunning as to associate the gnarled nostril of pugilism with the rarefied virtue of the turf, is to be the "Battle of the Blueblods."

MEANTIME, if I were Sam Riddle and Charlie Howard, the boss owners, and I wanted that $100,000 — how I do mumble at times—I'd go where they are giving the money, not voting for it; namely, Arlington Park, Chicago But the owners have clearly indicated their preference for Belmont in September over Chicago in July and so doubtless they'll do nothing drastic until they get the tidings here, which should come within thirty hours.

Besides, in spite of the qualms of the alarmists, the race isn't irretreviably lost to New York until they count the votes—and when they do, it may be that that scion of vested wealth and position, A G. Vanderbilt, will turn out to be the pivot man of the play, provided this isn't to be a strictly private and confidential fight. Young Alfred doesn't represent the balance of power, but his prestige in racing and elsewhere is unquestioned.

And if he wishes to be a factor, he'll be important, too For, whereas Mr. Sonny Whitney doesn't like Joseph E. Widener, it's equally well known that A G Vanderbilt doesn't like his cousin, C V. Whitney

On a show down the latter can vote what is known as combination holdings representing his own stock and that of the estates of Harry Payne Whitney and Payne Whitney This makes for formidable strength in any man's poll of sentiment Widener, on his side can vote the holdings of himself and his son, plus the possibility of the Vanderbilt support The Widenes and Whitney interests are the majority stockholders

WHITNEY it would seem is an ingenious young man who prates about "commercialism"—of all things—in horse racing and one can well imagine, therefore, how abashed he'll be, if and when he ever wins the Kentucky Derby or Preakness And with so many state governments becoming a partner of the horse tracks the gentleman is bound to become more and more unhappy as he goes along

Outside of that though, he's probably all right for he seems to have only two outstanding prejudices namely the posting and winning of big purses and Joseph E Widener and in a way some of his peers don't seem so badly taken I wouldn't even want to win Joseph E Widener myself

More Trouble In Store For Red Streaks

Columbus North Next for Victors Over Newark.

If they ever get thawed out, the Red Streaks will meet Columbus North in another dual track and field match at Stadium field Saturday.

The mansfield high school thinclads braved a freezing wind and snow flurries to take Newark into camp by a 75 to 43 count in a dual meet on the home oval Saturday.

First 1938 Win.

It was the first victory in two meets for the Coach Harry Mehock's athletes, who bowed to Fremont Ross in their opener a week ago.

Plenty of competition looms for the Men of Mehock Saturday. The capital citians won the district meet in which Newark finished second last spring

Particularly outstanding for the Streaks was John Linta, who captured three firsts to lead Mansfield. In addition to climbing three inches over 12 feet under unfavorable weather conditions to win the pole vault, Linta collected firsts in both hurdle events.

Joe Logan, despite a bad leg, breezed home ahead in both sprints, and Dick McMullen continued to show promise by taking the '440' in stride. Elmer Dials and Bob Bailet tied for first in the broad jump

Check Up Relays.

Mansfield also checked in at the tape first in the two relays. Logan ran out from under his cap to give the Streaks an unbeatable lead in the 880-yard relay, and Don Rose gained lost ground to enable Mansfield to come out in front of the mile baton exchange

"Jabbo" Giles, big Newark colored athlete, chalked up a pair of firsts in the shot putt and discus. The summary follows:

100-yard dash—Logan M. won, Feats, N., 2 Starks, M., 3. Time. 10 5s

Shot put—Giles, N won. Nagle, M., 2; Varasso, N., 3. Distance. 46 ft 5 in.

High hurdles—Linta, M., won, Pfahler, M., 2, Sacks, N., 3. Time. 18s.

Mile run—Myers N won, Donnan, M., 2, Navhar, N., 3. Time 5m 1s.

440-yard dash—McMullen, M., won; Fleming, M., 2, Pope, N., Time. 56s.

Pole vault—Linta, M., won; Lyons, M., and Hershey M., tied for second. Height 12 ft. 3 in.

High jump—Dials M., and Bailet, M., tied for first, Wright, N., 3. Height 5 ft 7 in

220-yard dash—Logan M., won, Feats, N., 2, LeMunyon M., 3 Time 25 8s

Low hurdles—Linta M won, Sacks, N and Bibbs, M., tied for second. Time 29s.

Discus—Giles N won Lothes, N., 2, Nagle M 3 Distance 112 ft.

880-yard relay—Won by Mansfield (Logan Dykstra, Rinkel and Smith). Time 1m 9 8s

880-yard run—Donsey, N won, Buzzard M 2, Glovers N 3 Time 2 m. 17s

Mile relay—Won by Mansfield (Dykstra, Rose Fleming and McMullen) Time 3 m 16s

Broad jump—Feats N won, Smith, M 2 Cook N., 3 Distance 19 ft, 8 in.

Permits 7 Hits In as Many Innings Against Minor League Club.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—(U P)—The fire ball that rocketed Bob Feller to baseball fame quicker than any player in modern major league history was blazing again today.

Feller was in the box here yesterday as the Cleveland Indians defeated Birmingham of the Southern Association 5 to 2, and the fast ball of the Iowa farm boy baffled the minor leaguers.

Issues Four Walks.

Feller worked seven innings, his longest stretch of the training season. He struck out nine Birmingham batsmen, gave up seven hits and walked four men.

The appearance of Feller in the box yesterday marked the fourth straight Sunday that he has taken the bill. The youngster was the chief attraction of the 5,000 fans who crowded the park.

Feller was in trouble only twice. In the third inning Brimingham secured its first run on a circuit drive by Bud Clancy and in the fourth it made another when a walk and a triple were combined. In the last three innings he worked. Feller permitted only one safety.

Cleveland was off to an early lead, scoring twice each in the first and second innings. The other run was garnered in the fifth.

Hale Plays Second.

Manager Oscar Vitt used the same lineup that he expects to start the championship season next week. Sammy Hale was on second base for the first time; and Julius Solters in left field. Hale's arm appeared strong on the few occasions he had to test it.

The Indians moved on to Paducah, Ky., today where they will rejoin the New York Giants.

Sande and the Chief Look Toward Louisville

Postpones Tonight's Show, Signs Creed for Alabama Kid

Unable to secure the opponent he sought for the Alabama Kid for tonight's Quality club fistic presentation at the Armory, Promoter Tim Nolan today announced the postponement of the boxing card until Wednesday night. Nolan has signed Bud Creed, a colored puncher of Milwaukee, to engage the Kid in the 10-round top bout on Wednesday's show. In the six-round bouts, Nolan will send Al Gatchell, Cleveland heavyweight, against Tom Woodward of Mt. Vernon; Jack Delaney, Mansfield middleweight, against Mike Harris of Lima, and Tiger Wills of Cincinnati against Paul Rochell of Mt. Vernon.

MILWAUKEE — (AP) — M Weis of Columbus today won the all-events in the national Elks' bowling tournament with a total of 1,857 pins.

Skang's Team Rolls 2729

CHICAGO—(INS)—Leonard Dettloff of Detroit in fifth place of the all-events class today represented the only major change resulting from a week-end of pin battering at the American Bowling Congress.

He started off inconspicuously with a 576 in the team event, rolled up a 692 count in the doubles and finished off with a total of 670 in the singles for a 1,938 final.

Only one team was able to creck the 2,900 level. The Schwartz Brothers Bowling Alley Five of Buffalo rolled 2,918, but the score wa sfar from good enough to put them among the teams in the top spots.

Skang Mercurio and His Greenhouse Vegetable Packers of Cleveland, from whom great things was expected, hit only 2,729. Joe Bodis who leads the A.B.C. averages over a 15-year period ended up with a lowly 545.

THE 2935 total rolled by the Mansfield No.1 team a week ago won the five-man championship of the American Legion state tournament which came to a close at the Meder alleys Sunday.

Defiance, which also bowled a week ago, finished second, 34 pins behind the Mansfield team. Argonne Post No. 1 of Toledo gained third place Saturday with a 2846 count.

Four of the five Mansfield teams in the tournament finished well up in the money. The No. 2 ensemble is seventh with 2765, and is followed by No. 4 and No. 3, with respective scores of 2749 and 2744.

Mansfield keglers failed to fare as well in the minor events, however.

The only high places held by home town bowlers were in the two-man division, which was won by the Strukarek-Carney duo of Toledo Sunday with a 1238 count.

Fairman and Finefrock of Mansfield finished fifth with their 1165, and Young and Robertson finished a notch behind with a 1150 total.

The 705 total shot by Caskey of Medina won the individual title.

SAMMY BAUGH WEDS

SWEETWATER Tex. — (U.P.) — Sammy Baugh today was assured of at least one supporter in the grandstand when he makes his professional baseball debut with Columbus next Saturday. Baugh nation's highest paid professional football player, was married here yesterday to Miss Edmonia Smith.

Doyle Favors Yankees, Giants

NEW YORK — (U.P.) — Jack Doyle, who has been making the nation's baseball odds for more than 30 years, today quoted New York's two major league clubs, the Giants and Yankees, as favorites to win their third straight pennants. The Yankees at 7-10 are one of the shortest priced favorites in baseball history. The Giants are 8-5.

Behind the Yankees, Doyle quoted Detroit and Cleveland each at 3-1 and the Chicago White Sox fourth choice at 8-1. In the National league the Chicago Cubs the second choice at 2-1.

Snow Drift Delays Team

Marooned 16 Hours on Trip to ABC Tourney.

The Liederkranz bowling club encountered some real obstacles in its motor trip Friday and Saturday to Chicago to participate in the A. B. C. tournament.

The five men, Harold Selby, Al Letteker, William Brandt, Duke Weber and Nick Schmidt, who left Mansfield at 6 a. m. Friday, had smooth sailing until they hit a blizzard 60 miles east of Chicago.

And then things happened in rapid succession To start the ball rolling, the automobile ran into an eight-foot snow drift. Letteker lost a new hat. And they were marooned in the drift for 16 hours before they purchased a coal shovel which was used to dig out of the drift.

The club arrived in Chicago at 10.30 a. m. Saturday, and, of course, missed rolling in the five-man event. A team was substituted by A. B C. officials.

The shovel is being fondly displayed by members at the Liederkrantz club.

TYGER GRID CANDIDATES REST UNTIL NEXT WEEK

Held indoors by inclement weather during the first week of spring drills Mansfield high school grid candidates will be idle this week due to spring vacation The candidates will report again next Monday, Coach Russ Murphy stated

Ask Herb Slough

This Question:—

If my buildings were destroyed by fire my income from rents would cease. Unfortunately my expenses, taxes, mortgage, interest, etc, would not. Is there such a thing as rent insurance to provide me with money in an emergency of this kind?

Cleveland Indoor Track Champions to Send Strong Team to Mansfield Relays, April 23

ENTRIES continue to pile up at Director Harry E Mehock's office at Senior high school.

A year ago at this time, Mehock had received only one entry for the Mansfield Relays, and today 10 had been filed.

Mehock believes this is a good indication that the record of 70 entries will be broken for the 12th renewal of the track classic to be held at Stadium field Saturday Auril 23

Week-end entries includes Cleveland West Tech which won the recent indoor carnival in the Arena to break the reign of East Tech a perennial power in the sport

The squad is little changed from the 1937 edition which finished well up in the points last year.

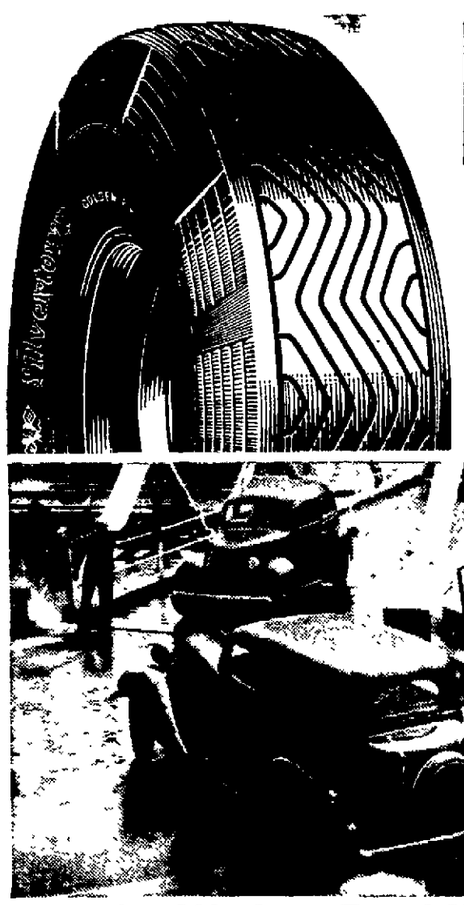
West Tech's outstanding performers are Paul Clarke and Bill Ruhrkraut shot putters, Wayne Robbins, who is expected to be one of Mansfield John Linta's chief threats in the pole vault, and Fred Grumney, a high jump performer.

East Tech's Carpenters also filed their entry over the week-end. East Tech, where Jesse Owens first gained national recognition, is the only Cleveland school ever to win the Relays championship.

The Carpenters, once extremely strong in the sprints and field, are said to be particularly dangerous in the 880-yard, mile and 2-mile relays.

A crack 2-mile relay team and a flock of distance runners were entered by Toledo Libbey.

Other entries were received over the week-end from Cleveland Collinwood, North Royalton of Brecksville, James Ford Rhodes and Hollister.



NEW TIRE SENSATION

REDUCES DANGER OF SKIDDING AS NEVER BEFORE—Here's the evidence

Read the Report from America's Largest Independent Testing Laboratory

"Both regular, and also the premium-priced tires of America's six largest tire manufacturers were submitted to a series of exhaustive road tests made over a three months' period by us, to determine their resistance to skidding and wear, with the following results:

"NON-SKID—The new Goodrich Silvertown with the Life-Saver Tread gave greater skid resistance than any other tire tested, including those tires listed at from 40% to 70% higher in price.

"MILEAGE—The Goodrich Silvertown gave more non-skid mileage than any of the other tires tested in its own price range—averaged 19.1% more miles before the tires wore smooth."
